Media Information

CREDENTIALS: Requests for working press credentials at Carolina home games should be made in writing on company letterhead to Rick Brewer in the Sports Information Office. Brewer's mailing address is P.O. Box 2126, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27514.

Because of the demand for credentials, media agencies which cover Carolina and the visiting school on a regular basis will receive top priority. Other credentials will be issued on the basis of circulation and the availability of space. Tickets will be mailed if at all possible. Otherwise, they will be left at Will Call which is at gate six, directly behind the press box.

Requests are screened with care to insure a working press box. Children, spouses, dates and pets are not allowed in compliance with the working code of the Football Writers Association of America.

PRESS BOX SERVICES: Programs, flip cards, statistics and notes will be provided before each game. A play-by-play will be distributed at the conclusion of each quarter. Halftime statistics will also be available. Complete team and individual statistics, a scoring summary and coaches' quotes will be provided after the game.

Lunch will be served before each game and at halftime behind the main working press area. Soft drinks and coffee will be available throughout the game.

SIDELINE POLICY: Photographers will not be allowed on the sidelines without an armband. Armbands can be picked up in the press box prior to the game. Each photographer must pick up his or her own armband. Under NCAA and Atlantic Coast Conference guidelines, photographers are not allowed inside the 25-yard lines and must remain outside the restraining lines surrounding the field.

PARKING: Press parking at Kenan Stadium is available on an extremely limited basis. Requests for parking passes should be made in advance to Rick Brewer. The parking lot is located on the corner of Gravely Drive and Manning Drive.

POST-GAME INTERVIEWS: Coach Mack Brown will meet with the media following each game after a 10-15 minute cooling-off period. The Carolina locker room will be open to the press at that time.

FILING COPY: The Department of Athletics furnishes a number of telephones for writers to use in moving their copy. Anyone desiring a private phone should contact Southern Bell in Chapel Hill.

The Carolina Sports Information Office has one telecopier which will be available for filing. An operator's fee of $10 will be charged for its use. This fee will go to a student assistant who will stay late to send copy.

INTERVIEWS WITH COACH BROWN: Mack Brown will be available to the media at a press luncheon each Tuesday during the football season. Television and radio tapes can be done at 11:30 a.m. with lunch being served at noon. The press conference follows the meal.

Interviews with Brown at other times during the week can be set up by contacting the Sports Information Office or Becky Medford, Coach Brown's secretary, in the Football Office. Best time to get the coach is between 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., Monday through Thursday. The number is (919) 966-2575.

PLAYER INTERVIEWS: Player interviews should be arranged through the Sports Information Office. Players have been instructed to conduct no interviews unless they have been set up in that manner. The interviews will generally be around lunchtime—after the player's classes and before practice. There will always be players available at Brown's weekly press conference.

Requests for telephone interviews will be handled by players returning calls to the media. No home numbers for players will be given out.

Player interviews are not allowed on the day preceding a game.

PRACTICE COVERAGE: Carolina practices are open to the media. Admission to practice can be obtained by contacting the Sports Information Office. Media practice passes will be handled there. Players are not available for interviews on the practice field, whether they are competing or not. Coach Brown will be available following the conclusion of each session.

RADIO AND TV SHOW: Over 60 stations in three states will once again carry the Tar Heel Football Network. The network is operated by Village Companies of Chapel Hill with Diane Smith as manager and Jim Heavner as executive producer. Woody Durham handles the play-by-play work with Freddy Kiger adding color commentary. In addition to the game itself, the network also features pre-game and post-game comments from Coach Mack Brown, Tar Heel players and the opposing coach.

The Carolina Football Show will be televised across the state of North Carolina each Sunday. The show features Brown and highlights of the previous game. John Kilgo serves as host.

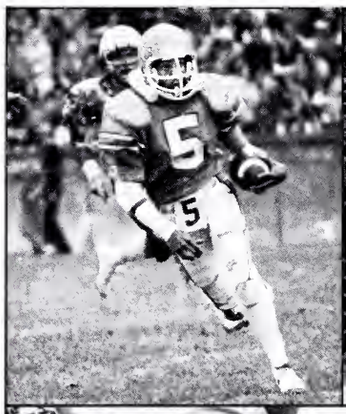
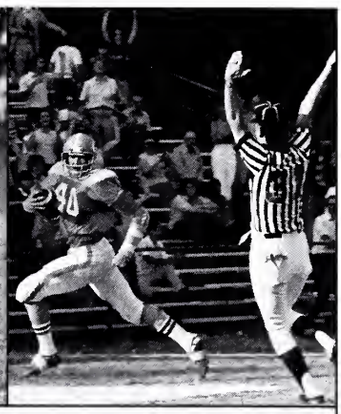
Carolina Football:





The University of North Carolina played its first football game against Wake Forest on October 18, 1888 at the State Fair in Raleigh.

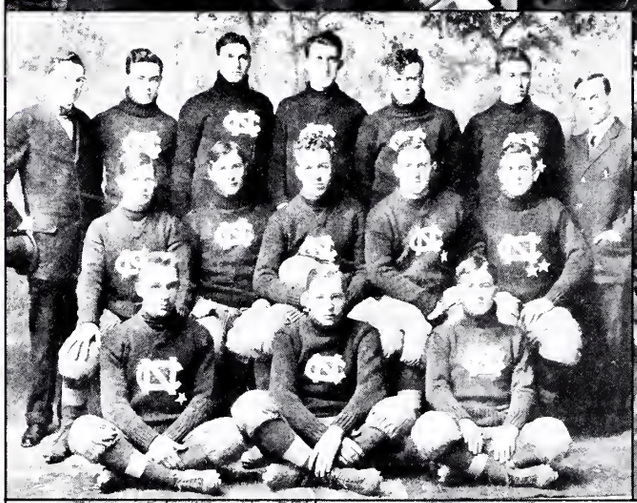
In the 100 years since that initial game, the sport has become something very special in Chapel Hill. In fact, Tar Heel teams have won 514 games, the 20th-highest total in all the land.

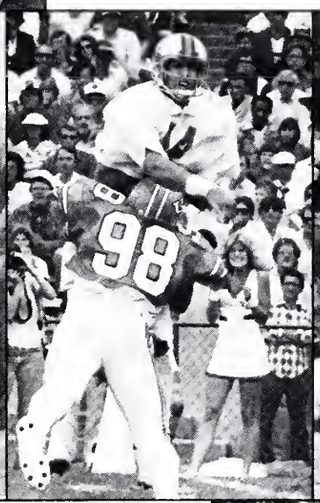
But, football at Carolina means more than the mere winning of a game. It has become a happening.

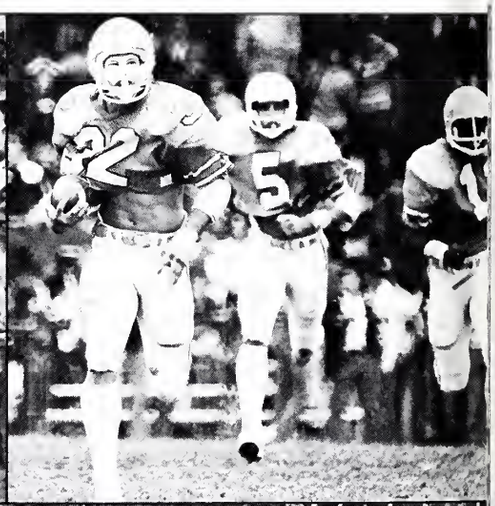
Football Saturdays are very special days in this town and the game is a vibrant part of campus life. There is something wonderful about those glorious Saturday afternoons--picnic lunches of fried chicken, pretty coeds in colorful dresses and cheerleaders dancing in the shadows of huge pines and sycamores.

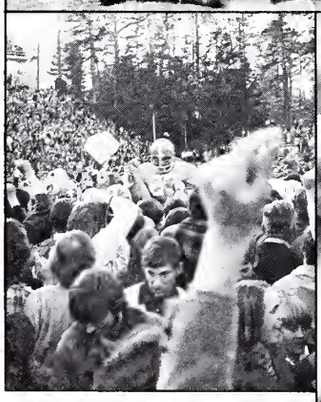
Football Saturdays bring alumni back to the beautiful old campus to walk its tree-lined paths and to talk about what it was like when they were here and how much the place is changing.

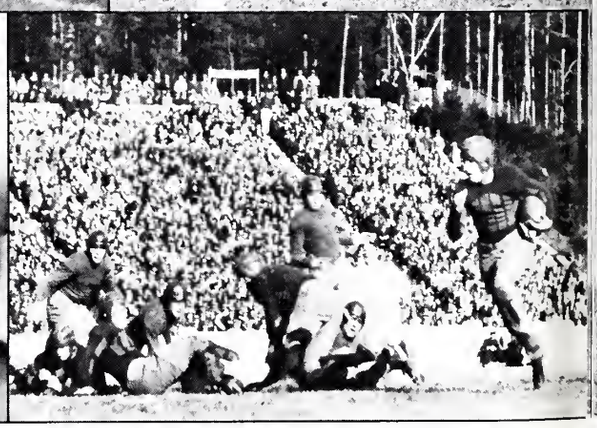
Football is a rallying point for the current student body, its members so diverse and living throughout the town. Football offers these students a place to gather together and seek a common goal.











A 100th Anniversary

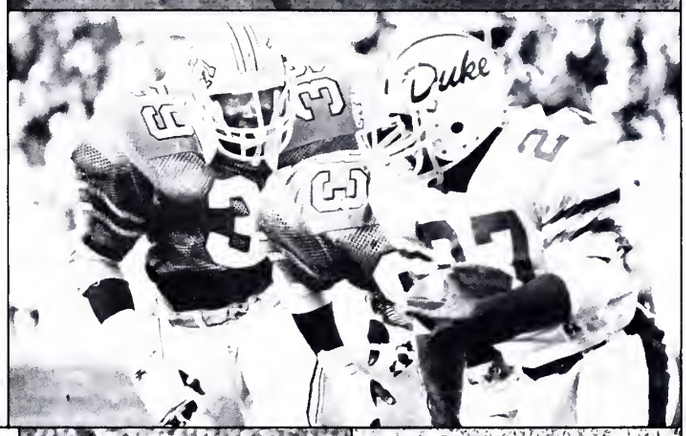
For 100 years football has been an outlet for students, a place to go and enjoy themselves. The sport has given them thrills and excitement through wondrous events on the playing field. Making it even more exciting has been the simple fact that these amazing feats have been performed by fellow students.

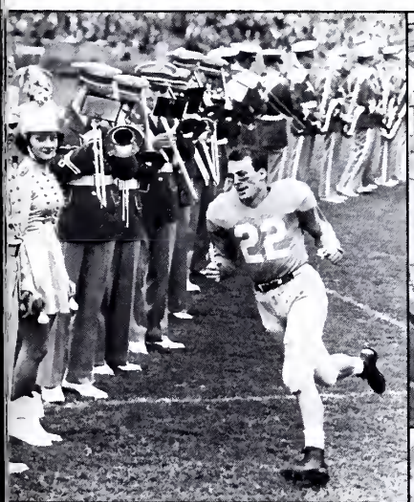
For despite what some cynics of college athletics may say, there are plenty of places where intercollegiate sports are indeed played by athletes who are also students. Such is certainly the case at Carolina.

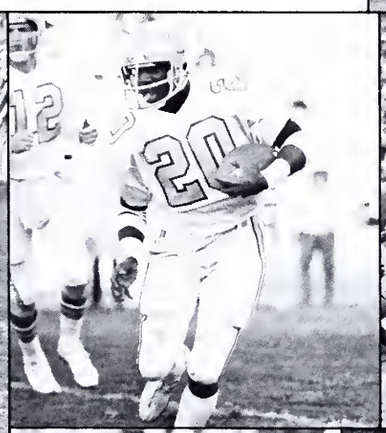
And what athletes this University has seen on the football field.

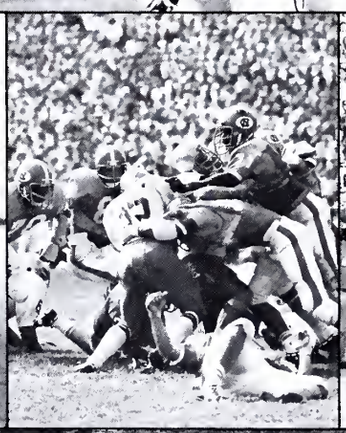
From Ernest Graves in the Gay Nineties to Jimmy Ward in the Roaring Twenties to Mark Maye, last fall's record-setting quarterback, the list of football heroes at Carolina is a lengthy one.

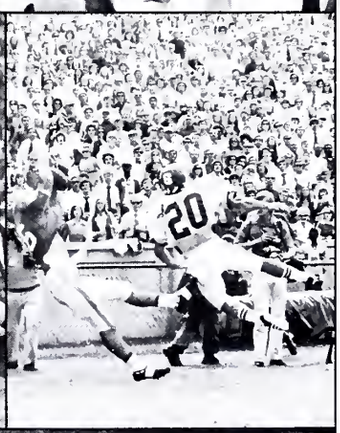
A roster of the University's all-time lettermen appears elsewhere in this brochure. Each of them has a special place in the history of football at this institution. In this, the 100th anniversary of Tar Heel football, we salute and thank them all.

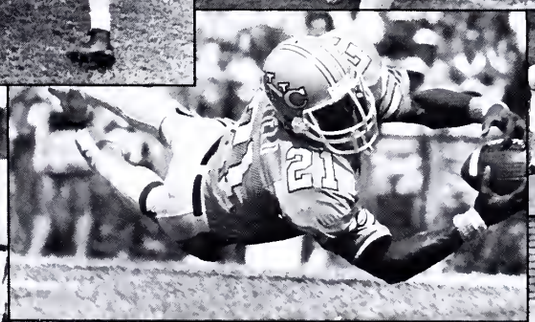












The 1988 Outlook

North Carolina celebrates the 100th anniversary of its first football team this fall and, in the process, begins a new era in the sport.

Carolina first fielded a team back in 1888 and in the past century has produced some of the game's greatest players, finest teams and best coaches.

Now a new coach, Mack Brown, is on the scene and much like that very first season in 1888, the prospects for the new year are unclear. There is a great deal of enthusiasm and excitement in the Tar Heel camp, but a young and inexperienced team is facing one of the most difficult schedules in the country.

"All of us are excited about getting started," says Brown. "I was very pleased with the progress we were able to make in the spring. The work we did then will give us something on which to build in pre-season practice.

"Now that the players know their coaches and simply have a better understanding of how we want things done, we should be able to make more rapid improvement this fall. We're going to have to do that just to survive against the people we must play."

The Tar Heels open their season with four straight non-conference games— South Carolina, Oklahoma, Louisville and Auburn— before playing their seven Atlantic Coast Conference opponents. Oklahoma and Auburn are two of the early favorites for the national championship, South Carolina is in most of the pre-season Top 20 polls and Louisville is in the fourth year of Howard Schnellenberger's rebuilding program there.

Carolina will face this schedule with a team that is extremely inexperienced in three vital areas— on defense, at quarterback and in the kicking game. The Tar Heels return 36 of 53 lettermen from last season. That group includes 11 starters, seven on offense and four on defense.

A number of those returning players could contend for all-star honors this fall. They include offensive guard Pat Crowley, a 6-3, 285-pound junior from Hampton Bays, N.Y., who was an All-ACC selection last year; center Jeff Garnica, a 6-4, 256-pound senior from Kettering, Ohio, who might be the best player in the country at his position; outside linebacker Antonio Goss, a 6-4, 228-pound senior from Randleman, N.C., who was sensational in spring practice; tailback Torin Dorn, a 6-1, 200-pound junior from Southfield, Mich., a brilliant runner who was injured most of last season; and wide receiver Randy Marriott, a 6-0, 174-pound senior from Wendell, N.C., the team's leading pass-catcher in 1987 and a big-play performer.

However, there are a number of holes to fill. That's especially true on defense where seven regulars are gone. That includes the entire defensive front— nose guard Carlton Bailey and tackles Tim Goad and Reuben Davis. Goad was a two-time All-ACC choice, Bailey made the all-conference team last year and Davis was an All-ACC selection in 1985.

In addition, three starters are missing in the secondary— strong safety Norris Davis and cornerbacks Derrick Donald and Howard Feggins. Davis was an All-ACC pick last fall and Donald was an outstanding cornerback for the past two seasons. Also gone is All-ACC linebacker Brett Rudolph.

Offensively, Carolina will be without wide receivers Eric Lewis and Quinton Smith, tight end Daryl Parham and record-setting quarterback Mark Maye. Punter/place-kicker Kenny Miller was also a senior last year.

"We know there are some talented players gone from last year's team," says Brown. "That's evident from looking at game film and statistics.

"But, we actually approached spring practice as if no starter was back. We went into practice with no depth chart and an open mind about every position. We wanted to give every player a chance to show what he could do. I think that resulted in a very competitive spring and I believe competition for jobs will continue this fall. Competition forces one to become a better player so the result should be a good one for our team."

The Tar Heels will operate from a 50 defensive alignment brought in by coordinator Carl Torbush from Louisiana Tech. Offensively, there will be a mixture of I-formation and a one-back set. That attack will be similar to the one used by Brown at Tulane last year when the Green Wave set school total offense and scoring records.

While much of the defense must be rebuilt, the biggest single question mark appears to be quarterback. Gone is Maye, who set a host of passing records in an injury-plagued career. An added concern is the condition of Jonathan Hall, who saw extensive playing time in 1985 and 1986, but sat out last season after undergoing shoulder surgery. He was unable to throw during the spring and his status for the fall is unknown. A 6-2, 195-pound junior from Vienna, Va., Hall is a proven college performer who has guided Carolina to a 5-2-1 record in eight career starts. But, his availability will not be known until pre-season drills begin.

With Hall unable to practice, there was an anticipated wide-open battle for the starting quarterback position in the spring. It never really materialized as Deems May, a 6-5, 220-pound red-shirt freshman from Lexington, N.C., moved into the starting spot early in the drills and held onto that job.

May is a young player with outstanding potential, but obviously lacks experience. In fact, he hasn't been in a game since early in the 1986 season when he suffered a knee injury as a senior at Lexington High School. He got very little work last year on the practice field.

A wishbone quarterback in high school, May gives the Tar Heels one of their top running threats at this position in years. He makes good decisions on the option and improved steadily as a passer throughout the spring.

"Deems is capable of being a very good player for us before he leaves here," says Brown. "The problem is we need him to be that this fall. That is a lot of pressure for such a young player, but he has responded very well so far. He's a hard worker and I'm confident he will do a good job for us."

Two other red-shirt freshmen, Scott McAlister and Bret Strachan, did not make as much progress as May in the spring. They will duel for the backup job in the pre-season if Hall is unable to play. Another possibility is sophomore Dan Walkowiak, who played sparingly last season. However, he suffered a knee injury in the spring and is behind in the competition.

Developing a good number two quarterback is extremely important since May is so young. A capable backup would allow Brown to give May a chance to rest and regroup if things aren't going well. That's why a return to form by Hall would be such a boost for Carolina. His presence would take a lot of pressure off May.

Also helping to take some pressure off the freshman is the fact he will be surrounded by good talent. The Tar Heels return all five starters in the offensive line, their starting tailback and fullback and the team's leading receiver from last year.

The offensive line should be one of Carolina's strengths. In addition to Crowley and Garnica, other returning starters in the offensive interior are guard Steve Steinbacher, a 6-4, 269-pound senior from Newtown Square, Pa. and tackles Creighton Incorminias, a 6-4, 293-pound senior from Hampton, Va., and Darrell Hamilton, a 6-6, 282-pound senior from Washington, D.C.

Crowley has started 23 straight games for the Tar Heels at guard. Big and strong, he's a powerful drive blocker who has developed into a solid pass protector. Last fall he became the first Carolina player in history and only the third from any ACC school to make all-conference as a sophomore in the offensive line. He actually goes into fall practice as a backup on the depth chart because he missed most of spring practice. He was competing on the UNC wrestling team early in the spring and then sprained an ankle once he got on the field. However, he'll be in the starting lineup somewhere.

Garnica may have been the most impressive offensive player on the field during spring practice. He's an aggressive blocker who also knows how to play with finesse. He's had a problem in the past of retaining weight simply because he plays so hard and expends so much energy. If he can overcome that, Brown feels he may be the best center in college football.

Steinbacher is a versatile performer who could play anywhere in the line and has done that in his first three seasons. He's smart and doesn't make many mistakes. However, he should get a challenge for his job from Dennis Clemons in the fall. Clemons, a 6-2, 266-pound senior from Jacksonville, Fla., actually ended the spring as a starter at one guard with Steinbacher at the other. He runs well and should be especially effective in the new offensive scheme. With Crowley almost sure to win his starting job back, Steinbacher and Clemons will wage a battle for the remaining starting spot.

The tackle positions are well-manned with Incorminias and Hamilton. Both are capable of winning all-star honors. Incorminias, a starter since late in his freshman year, has tremendous size and strength. He has purposely lost weight since the end of last season and was a better player in the spring. He could be headed for his finest year.

Hamilton bounced back from a serious knee injury in 1985 and had a solid junior season last fall. He is an outstanding pass protector who has also developed into a good blocker in the running game. He set a summer goal to improve his upper body strength. If he does that, the Tar Heels may have as fine a pair of tackles as there are anywhere.

There also appears to be good depth at the interior blocking positions. Tim Brooks, a 6-3, 277-pound senior who gave up football in 1986, returned to the team last spring and did an excellent job at tackle. Also in the picture for playing time there are Bill Boyd, a 6-9, 278-pound sophomore, and Andrew Oberg, a 6-8, 264-pound red-shirt freshman. Another red-shirt freshman, 6-4, 250-pound David Boon, will back up Garnica at center. He shows good promise for the future. Veterans Allan Gorry, a 6-0, 259-pound senior, and Carl Watts, a 6-3, 258-pound junior, make Carolina five-deep at guard.

With this talent up front and the return of Dorn at tailback, the Tar Heels should have a solid running game. However, Dorn must avoid an injury similar to the ankle sprain which sidelined him much of last year. While rushing for 165 yards on just 15 attempts in the season opener against Illinois, Dorn turned an ankle on his last carry of the day. He was in and out of the lineup for the rest of the fall and never again fully 100 percent. Playing in just six games, he ran for 479 yards and averaged 5.4 yards a carry.

When healthy, Dorn has the ability to be one of the top runners in the college game. He has great speed to get outside and also is a tough inside runner. In addition, he is a fine receiver and will be utilized in a number of different ways in the new offense.

One of the big surprises in the spring was the development of Aaron Staples as the top tailback reserve. Staples played mainly on special teams in 1987 as a defensive back. However, the 5-11, 193-pound junior from Fieldale, Va., was shifted to offense in the spring and did an outstanding job. He's a hard-nosed competitor with fine speed and has earned playing time this fall.

Other possibilities at tailback are red-shirt freshman Brad Smith and sophomore Kennard Martin. Smith, who was moved from wide receiver during the spring, isn't as big as the other tailbacks, but does possess fine running instincts. Martin is trying to bounce back from a disappointing rookie season last fall.

James Thompson, a 5-11, 231-pound senior from Lumberton, N.C., returns after a solid year at fullback in 1987. He's a tremendous lead blocker in the I-formation. However, he will be counted on to carry the ball more this season. He must supply the inside running game to make Carolina's option plays effective. A good runner in the past, he was even better last spring once he became comfortable with the new offensive system. Red-shirt freshman Brian Vooletich and sophomore Michael Benefield, the top reserve last fall, provide depth at this position.

Reggie Clark (43) got an initial block from center Jeff Garnica (55) on this play. He could develop into a fine wide receiver, while Garnica is already one of the best linemen in the country.

While all three starters in last year's receiving corp are gone, there is talent available at those spots. John Keller returns at tight end after being sidelined most of last fall with a knee injury. Keller, a 6-4, 224-pound senior from Toledo, Ohio, was the starter early last season until being injured in the third game at Georgia Tech. He's an outstanding pass-catcher and a good, all-around athlete. In the fight for playing time behind him are senior Damon Hueston, who suffered a severe knee injury in 1986 and needs to overcome the last effects of that; sophomore John Jacobs, who saw considerable action after Keller was hurt last fall; and red-shirt freshman Bill Bollinger.

The only returning player who caught a pass as a wide receiver in 1987 is Marriott. Although not a starter, he led the Tar Heels in receptions with 36 for 634 yards and four touchdowns. He averaged 17.6 yards a catch. Marriott has proven in the past he has big-play capabilities. Last year he caught a 93-yard pass at Georgia Tech, the longest in school history. He had an 82-yard catch in 1986 at Duke. His career yards-per-catch average of 17.5 is the highest in school history of anyone with at least 50 receptions.

Marriott was seventh in the ACC in receiving last fall and led the conference in both kickoff returns and all-purpose running. The only thing which has previously kept him from being recognized as one of the premier offensive players in the league has been a lack of consistency. However, he was a much more consistent player last spring. If he continues to improve in that area, he could be headed for a banner senior season. Plans certainly call for him to get the football as much as possible to take advantage of his breakaway speed and great running ability.

A key for Carolina in the passing game last spring was to find a split end who could take some of the pressure off Marriott at flanker. The Tar Heels may have done that with the shifting of Reggie Clark to that position from tailback. A 6-2, 210-pound sophomore from Charlotte, N.C., Clark did a good job at tailback last year, rushing for 220 yards in spot duty. After seeing him on the practice field early in the spring, Brown and his coaching staff felt he had outstanding potential and did not want to keep him on the bench behind Dorn. So they switched him to split end in one of the best moves of the spring.

Clark's size makes him an excellent target for quarterbacks. He has the speed and running ability to give the Tar Heels another big-play performer. If he develops as hoped, Carolina should have an outstanding pair of wide receivers.

Biggest concern at flanker and split end is a lack of experience. Marriott is really the only player at either position who has seen more than spot action. Clark, of course, got playing time last fall, but that was at a different position. Backups Freddy Renken, Junnie Demery and Kurt Green have very limited experience.

Offensive coordinator Darrell Moody points to Clark's position change and the development of May at quarterback as two of the best things that happened during spring practice.

"Reggie is a big kid who can not only run with the ball, but block, too," he says. "He came a long way in the spring and we think he's going to get even better. Our goal is to get our best athletes on the field and he's one of them. I was also pleased with the progress Deems made. He's going to be a good player for us.

"However, it would certainly be helpful if Jonathan Hall could make a comeback. He could take some of the pressure off May. I've developed a lot of confidence in Deems, but the situation would just be so much better if Hall was also available. Then we would have a guy with game experience which is so important at that position.

"The other things we need to do are develop depth at wide receiver and make a lot of strides in the weight room. We must become a stronger football team. We also need to keep Dorn healthy. I've been around some great backs at LSU and N.C. State and he's as good as I've seen. Certainly, we want to get him and Marriott the ball as often as possible and we'll probably do it in a variety of ways.

"Two-a-day practices are going to be very important to us this fall. We need to make more improvement then than we did in the entire spring. We should be able to do that because the players now know our system and have something to which they can relate."

Rapid improvement must also be made on defense. While the Tar Heels made steady progress there in the spring, much work must still be done.

That's especially true up front where the three starters from last year were all selected in the NFL draft. Of the three players who ended the spring as starters, none has ever started a college game and only one even played in the defensive front at all last year.

"You can't replace game experience," says Brown, "and that's what we're missing. Our front three won't be as big or as strong as the one Carolina had last year. We won't be a dominating front. But, I think this group does have some competitors in it and, with some work, can develop into a pretty good line."

Competition for the three starting jobs was fierce during the spring. Heading into the fall, the starters are David Newkirk, a 6-2, 250-pound junior from Smithfield, N.C., at nose guard and Dennis Tripp, a 6-3, 245-pound sophomore from Farmville, N.C., and Roy Barker, a 6-5, 264-pound red-shirt freshman from Village of Islandia, N.Y., at the tackles.

Of the three, Newkirk is the only one who has ever played in a college game as a defensive lineman and his playing time was very brief last fall behind Bailey. Like Bailey, quickness is his greatest asset. Pushing him this fall from the number two slot on the depth chart will be Chris Jacobs, a 6-5, 254-pound senior from Mocksville, N.C. Jacobs lettered as a backup defensive lineman in 1985 before giving up the sport the following year. He returned to the team last spring and did a fine job on the practice field.

Tripp saw spot action at linebacker and on special teams last fall. He was shifted to tackle in the spring in what may have been the best personnel move on defense. He adapted to the new position quickly to earn a starting berth. He's quick and smart, but must gain weight to be effective against the offensive linemen the Tar Heels will face this fall.

Considering his youth and inexperience, Barker had an outstanding spring. He still has a lot to learn, but has the size and natural ability to develop into a solid college lineman.

Top backups at tackle are juniors Cecil Gray and Phillip Cheek and sophomore Alex Simakas. Simakas, who was injured part of the spring, might also be used at nose guard. Two younger players who could get playing time with big pre-seasons are nose guard Dave Wolfe and tackle Tony Hoggard.

Gray could be a key man for Carolina. He's lettered twice and started early last season. A knee injury slowed him in the spring and Tripp took advantage of that to move ahead of him at left tackle. But, Gray's expected to be full strength this fall and to immediately challenge for a starting job. A 6-5, 290-pounder from Norfolk, Va., he's the most experienced player in the entire defensive line. He's also a player of tremendous potential who has the ability to be an outstanding lineman.

A strength on defense should be at outside linebacker where both starters, Goss and John Reed, return. The top reserves, senior Mike Bowman and sophomore Don Millen, lettered last year, although neither saw extensive action. Also contending for playing time are red-shirt freshmen Bill Bjerke and Mike Hopkins.

Goss could be one of the best defensive players in college football. He was sensational during the spring. Big, fast and aggressive, he could be the big-play performer the young defense needs. He has excellent instincts and is a bruising hitter. Last year, in his first season at this position, he was the Tar Heels' fifth-leading tackler with 79 total hits. An excellent pass-rusher, he was credited with 13 quarterback pressures and one sack. In addition, he's also versatile enough to drop and play pass defense.

Reed, a 6-3, 221-pound junior from Tampa, Fla., also has good ability, but needs to become a more consistent player. However, last year was only his first as an outside linebacker so consistency should come as he continues to gain experience. He did a fine job in spring practice of developing as a pass defender. Tough and hard-nosed, he's a good pass rusher and should team with Goss to give Carolina fine play on the flanks.

While Rudolph is gone at one inside linebacker spot, there are still plenty of candidates for these two starting posts. Six players are expected to battle for playing time. Dwight Hollier, perhaps the most pleasant surprise of spring practice, heads into the fall as one starter, while Mitch Wike and Bernard Timmons ended the spring in almost a dead heat for the other starting position.

Hollier, a 6-3, 219-pound red-shirt freshman from Hampton, Va., was almost unknown to the new coaching staff when spring practice began. However, he quickly grabbed attention with his solid play on the field. He moved into a starting spot early in the spring and stayed there throughout the drills. In fact, next to Goss, he was probably the most consistent defensive player Carolina had.

Wike is a two-year starter who was the Tar Heels' second-leading tackler in 1986 and fourth-leading tackler last season. A 6-2, 224-pound senior from Brevard, N.C., he was in on 89 hits last fall. He's a highly intelligent player and has the game experience that is lacking on defense. He was slowed in the latter part of the spring with an ankle sprain.

Timmons, a 6-2, 211-pound sophomore from Fort Bragg, N.C., lettered as a backup last year. He was extremely impressive during spring practice. He has the size, speed and quickness to be an outstanding linebacker. He needs to play with more consistency and should do that as he gains more experience.

Leonard Dempsey, a senior who saw considerable playing time in 1986, is right behind Hollier on the depth chart and should push him for the starting job in the fall. Juniors Steve Lowe and Chuck Sledge are the other top linebacker candidates. Plans call for at least four linebackers to see regular action and any of these six players could make the top four.

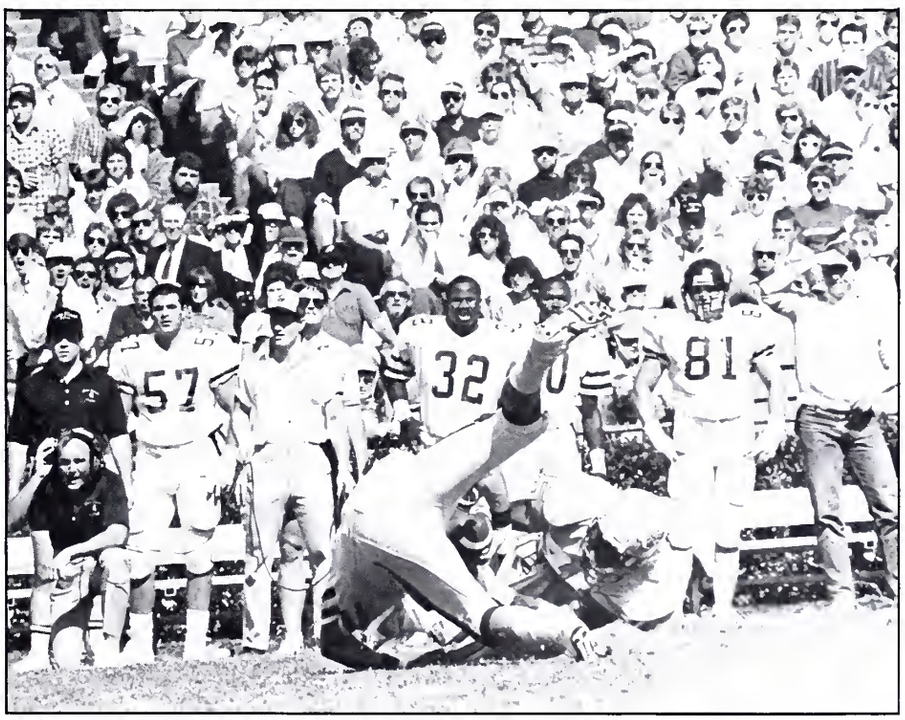
The only returning regular in the secondary is Dan Vooletich, a 6-0, 188-pound junior from Ann Arbor, Mich., who has started 14 straight games at weak safety over the past two years. Vooletich has a lot of savvy on the field and a knack for being around the football. He was the team's sixth-leading tackler last fall. He was shifted to strong safety during the spring and heads into the new season as the starter there. Bryan Causey, a non-scholarship player, is the number one backup.

Moving in as the starting weak safety in the spring was Skeet Baldwin, a 5-10, 183-pound junior from Chapel Hill, N.C. He was switched to that position from cornerback for the last two weeks of the off-season practice and did a good job. Baldwin was a starter at cornerback much of 1986 and saw a lot of action there last fall. That game experience and his outstanding quickness make him a valuable player in the defensive backfield.

A promising young player at weak safety is Stuffy Hewitt, a 6-3, 203-pound sophomore from Catawba, N.C. He has the physical tools to be an exceptional defensive back. A lack of experience is his major problem right now. Also in the picture for playing time at both weak and strong safety is three-year letterman Sterling Hayden.

Larry Whiteside, a 5-10, 189-pound junior from Morganton, N.C., and Victor Bullock, a 6-0, 182-pound junior from Henderson, N.C., go into the fall as the starters at cornerback. Both won their jobs with impressive showings late in spring practice.

Whiteside saw only limited action last year, while Bullock started five games. Working behind Whiteside on the left side are red-shirt freshman Doxie Jordan and senior Jim Jauch. A pair of juniors, Clarence Carter and Bill Franklin, are lined up behind Bullock at right corner. Carter was moved to defense from tailback during the spring and showed fine promise at the new position.



Antonio Goss (45), sacking a quarterback here, should be one of the best defenders in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Another former tailback, Brad Sullivan, could also be a factor in the secondary. He missed the last two seasons after giving up the sport, but rejoined the team last spring. A pulled hamstring limited his work in the off-season practices and, thus, he's an unknown quantity to the new coaching staff. However, he has the speed and quickness to play. He will get a long look in the fall.

But, that's really true of everyone. And those who perform well will play.

"We're going to play a two-deep," says Torbush, the defensive coordinator. "We've got to give everyone a chance to gain some experience. For the most part, this is a young team that will be coming back in 1989. So, it's healthy for us to play a lot of people. It will benefit everybody down the road— the players and the program. Also, by playing a lot of people, we should be assured of good, hard practices. The players will know that if they work during the week, they'll get in the game on Saturday.

"So far, our players have worked very hard to get better. We just don't have as much experience as we would like. And, hopefully, by playing as many people as possible, we won't get caught in a situation like this in the future.

"Although we are inexperienced, we have a chance to be competitive if we play with emotion and enthusiasm. Our goal defensively is to be consistent. That will be tough because we are so young, but that's our goal.

"The inexperience will especially hurt us in the defensive front. That's our most critical area. Those kids have worked hard and done what we've asked, but they're simply young.

"Individually, I thought Goss was our best and most consistent player in the spring. It's hard to be both, but he was.

"Overall, I was pleased with the way our players related to the staff and learned our system. They've come a long way, but must go further. And because of the schedule, we're going to find out in a hurry how far we've really come and how far we still have to go."

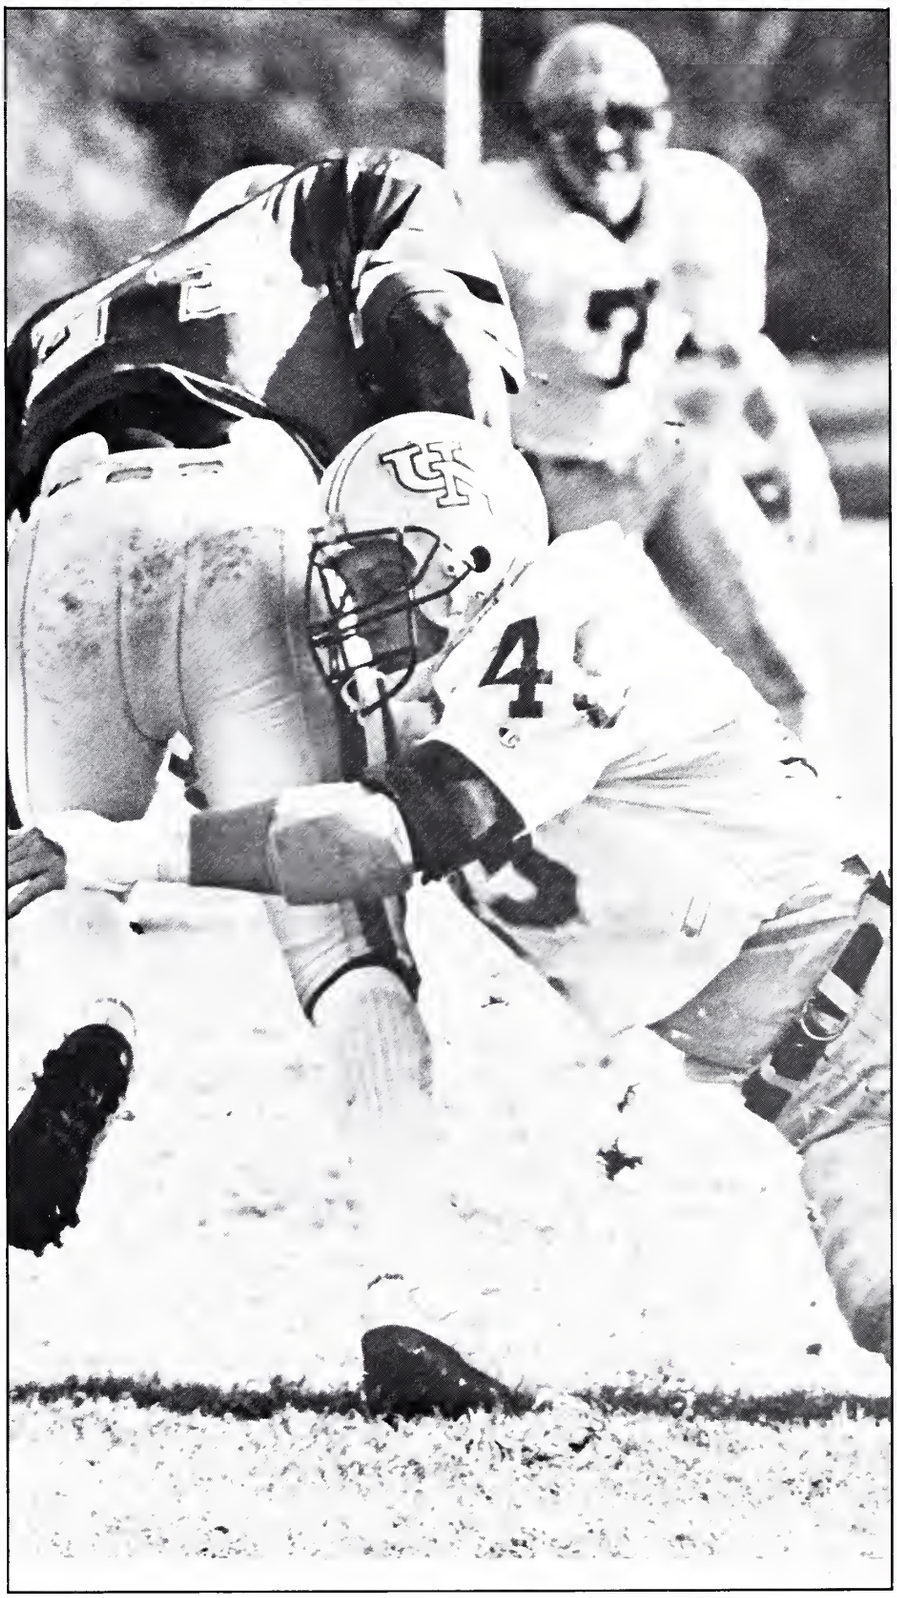
The final aspect of the team, the kicking game, is also a major concern. Miller handled all of the kicking duties last year. Cannon Watson, a 6-2, 172-pound sophomore from Farmville, Va., is the leading candidate for the place-kicking job. He split time with Miller as the kickoff man in 1986, but did not play last fall. He has shown good range in practice, but has never attempted a field goal or an extra point in a college game. McAlister is the most likely punter, although he spent most of his time in the spring at quarterback.

Brown has indicated this is an area where incoming freshmen could make an immediate impact. He thinks newcomers could challenge both Watson and McAlister this fall.

On paper, this team does not appear to be as strong as the Tar Heel squad which lost its final three games last fall to finish with a 5-6 record. There are simply more question marks than in 1987. However, Brown thinks there will be one major difference.

"I know we're going to have our problems early because of our inexperience," he says. "But, we should be a team that improves as the season goes along. Hopefully, we'll be a lot better team in November than we are in September."

That would be a good start for the second century of football in Chapel Hill and the beginning of the Mack Brown Era.



Mitch Wike returns at linebacker after finishing fourth on the team in tackles last fall.

A Position-By-Position Look

Tight End: Although Daryl Parham, who started the last half of the 1987 season, is gone, Carolina does have some experience here. Returning is John Keller, the starter last year until suffering a knee injury at Georgia Tech. Also back are John Jacobs, who played behind Parham last fall, and Damon Hueston, who saw spot action. A concern is that both Keller and Hueston have suffered knee injuries. Keller, however, seemed fully recovered in the spring. He is an excellent all-around athlete and a fine pass receiver. Hueston may still need more rehabilitation before he has complete confidence in the knee he injured in 1986. Jacobs and red-shirt freshman Brian Bollinger will battle for the number three spot if Hueston is ready to go.

Tackle: This is one of the most solid positions on the entire football team. Returning starters Creighton Incorminias and Darrell Hamilton both have the ability to contend for all-star honors. Both made good improvement as they adapted to the new offensive system in the spring and were also impressive off the field— Incorminias losing weight and Hamilton gaining more strength. Developing a third tackle will be an important goal in the fall. Leading candidates for that role are veteran Tim Brooks, who re-joined the team last spring after sitting out the 1987 season, and sophomore Bill Boyd, a young player with good potential. Red-shirt freshman Andrew Oberg is another possibility.

Guard: This is another position with a lot of ability. There is good experience with five lettermen. Heading this group is Pat Crowley, Carolina's only returning All-Atlantic Coast Conference player. He's capable of being a truly outstanding player. However, he missed most of spring practice while competing on the Tar Heel wrestling team early in the workouts and with a sprained ankle late in the drills. His absence allowed Dennis Clemons to claim a starting spot. A former tackle, he was shifted to guard in the spring and did an outstanding job. Steve Steinbacher returns as the other starting guard. He, Clemons and Crowley figure to wage a battle for the two starting spots this fall. Two other players who also figure to compete for playing time, Carl Watts and Allan Gorry, were slowed during the spring with injuries.

Center: In Jeff Garnica, the Tar Heels may well have the finest center in college football. He followed up a solid junior season with an outstanding spring. Day-in and day-out, he was probably the best offensive player on the field during the spring work. However, the coaching staff would like to keep him as fresh as possible so the development of backup David Boon is important. A red-shirt freshman, Boon has the capabilities to be a fine player.

Wide Receiver: Although starters Eric Lewis and Quinton Smith are gone, the Tar Heels do return their leading receiver from last fall in Randy Marriott. Marriott is a big-play performer who could contend for all-star honors. He did an outstanding job during spring practice. He should open at flanker with Reggie Clark at split end. Clark, a tailback as a freshman last season, was moved to this position during the spring. He has great potential here. Freddy Renken will also see action at that position. He saw only spot playing time as a freshman last fall. Junnie Demery and Kurt Green are competing for the top reserve spot behind Marriott.

Quarterback: Red-shirt freshman Deems May won the starting job with an impressive spring. He lacks experience, but has the ability to be a fine quarterback. He needs repetitions on the practice field and game action to continue his development. A concern is the backup spot. Neither of two other freshmen, Scott McAlister or Bret Strachan, made as much progress as had been hoped in the spring. Sophomore Dan Walkowiak, who saw spot duty behind Mark Maye last fall, was sidelined with a knee injury.

A key for Carolina will thus be the condition of Jonathan Hall. He underwent shoulder surgery last summer and missed all of the 1987 season and spring practice. His status for this season is unknown. If he's healthy, he's capable of starting or certainly of providing an outstanding relief man. With a young quarterback like May, it's important to be able to sit him on the sidelines at times to watch. Hall's presence would allow that.

Tailback: Torin Dorn gives Carolina one of the best backs in the country. However, he must stay healthy, something he was unable to do last year. The shifting of Aaron Staples from defense and Brad Smith from wide receiver proved to be good decisions in the spring. Along with Kennard Martin, they're capable of providing solid backup help.

Fullback: James Thompson returns as the starting fullback, but will play a slightly different role in the new Tar Heel attack. Primarily a blocker in the past, he will be used much more as a runner this fall. Sophomore Michael Benefield and red-shirt freshman Brian Vooletich are the primary reserves and capable of being effective players in the new offensive system.

A Position-By-Position Look

Outside Linebacker: With two returning starters, Antonio Goss and John Reed, this is the most experienced area on defense. Although both Mike Bowman and Don Millen lettered last year, neither played a great deal so the experience really lies in the two starters. Goss was the best defensive player on the field throughout spring practice. He could be headed for a truly sensational senior season. Coaches rate him one of the best in the country at his position. Reed is a solid player who should be even better this fall than he was a year ago when he played for the first time. A key at this spot will be developing solid backups as the staff wants to play four people regularly.

Tackle: Gone are three-year starters Tim Goad and Reuben Davis and veteran reserve Donnie Wallace. All were four-time letterwinners. Goad was an All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection each of the past two years and Davis won that honor as a sophomore. Their experience and talent will be difficult to replace. There is still some potential here, but much work must be done to have a truly competitive group.

A problem in the spring was an injury to Cecil Gray, who has seen some action in the past. He was slowed throughout the spring work and will be behind when fall practice begins. Top candidates for starting berths going into the fall are red-shirt freshman Roy Barker and former linebacker Dennis Tripp. Barker is a raw talent who has a lot to learn, but can be an exceptional player. Tripp needs to add weight to be more effective. Also competing for playing time will be Phillip Cheek and Alex Simakas. One of them needs to step forward to give Carolina a capable two-deep at these spots.

Nose Guard: This is the most inexperienced position on the Tar Heel team. Carlton Bailey, an all-conference player last fall, is gone and backup David Newkirk saw only spot action. In fact, he won a letter mainly for his special teams play. Newkirk could be a good player, but inexperience will be a major problem. Chris Jacobs, who re-joined the squad after sitting out the 1987 season, gave some leadership to the defensive front in the spring. He could be a valuable player at this position as could Alex Simakas.

Linebacker: There was fierce competition for the two starting spots at linebacker during spring practice. Although only returning starter Mitch Wike has had a great deal of playing time, this group could be a good one. The competition has caused each player to improve. The surprise of the entire spring may have been Dwight Hollier, a red-shirt freshman, who came from back in the pack to win Brett Rudolph's old starting spot. However, Leonard Dempsey, who has some experience, is expected to push for that job in the fall. Wike and sophomore Bernard Timmons ended the spring in a virtual dead-heat for the other starting job. Also in the picture are Steve Lowe and Chuck Sledge. A strong fall showing could make them contenders for playing time as the top four players at this position will all see extensive action.

Cornerback: Starters Derrick Donald and Howard Feggins are missing, leaving a major question mark here. Victor Bullock, who started five times last fall while Feggins was injured, has some game experience. However, there is very little elsewhere at either corner. Larry Whiteside won the other starting job in the spring. Other candidates for playing time are red-shirt freshman Doxie Jordan, former tailbacks Clarence Carter and Brad Sullivan and lettermen Jim Jauch and Bill Franklin.

Safety: Dan Vooletich, who started 11 games at weak safety last year, has moved to strong safety as one starter. Skeet Baldwin has taken over at the weak safety spot. Baldwin has a fair amount of game experience, although most of it has come at cornerback. Stuffy Hewitt, a young player with a lot of potential, should push for playing time on the weak side. Hard-hitting Bryan Causey is playing behind Vooletich, while Sterling Hayden could be used at either safety spot.

A Conversation With Mack Brown

The following are excerpts from a two-hour conversation with Mack Brown about his career, his football philosophy and his hopes for the program at North Carolina.

Q. You have said that when you first got into coaching, you thought the North Carolina job might someday be a good one for you. On what did you base that opinion?

A. Most young coaches have aspirations and goals. I was a guy who wanted to be a major college head coach by the age of 30. I think a lot of that was because Bill Battle and Steve Sloan had reached that level at 28. And, in thinking about being a head coach, it was only natural to think about particular jobs I might like.

There were a number of reasons I was interested in this job. I had thought about coming to the University of North Carolina as a student when I transferred from Vanderbilt. Then I worked for Bobby Collins at a very early age in my first job and he talked a lot about Carolina.

I've always believed in athletes being students first, that students could still succeed in college athletics and I think this school has always stood for those things. It's in a part of the country that relates very much to where I'm from. And I think that's important to a coach because you must live and relate with the people around you and it's helpful when you've grown up around those same type of people.

So I feel this school can do things the right way, with integrity, in an area where my family would love living and still have a chance to win championships. There is pressure, but you wouldn't want a job where it isn't important to win. Winning is important—for a coaching staff, the University, alumni, fans and for the players who compete.

Q. After being here a while, do you still feel that way?

A. Definitely. People have said that we're still in the honeymoon stages, that we haven't played any games yet and that it's natural for everything to be going well. But, the people here have reached out to our staff and to myself and made us feel tremendously welcome. I'm not sure how we will fair as a football team. Obviously, our schedule is really, really tough. So we can't sit here and talk about how many games we're going to win or lose. But, I do feel very comfortable in this setting.

Q. Other than the great, all-around athletic program, what impresses you about this university?

A. The way our people feel about the University. There's a tremendous pride among Carolina students. I'm still amazed by the conversations I had with each one of our players, including some guys who have had tough careers—been hurt, maybe haven't played or haven't been on winning teams. None of them said anything negative about the University.

For example, when I first took the job, we talked to Cecil Gray, who was thinking about transferring. We asked Cecil about the University in general—"Do you like it?" His reply was, "Oh, I love it." We asked him about the students. He told me, "They're great." We asked him about his classes—he had come here interested in business and journalism. Was he unhappy with them. "No, I've had fantastic courses," he said.

So I could tell that while the young man was depressed some about some areas of his football career, he loved the University. I have honestly not heard one single negative thing about Chapel Hill or the University from anyone. I think that's a tremendous compliment to our school and community.

Q. As you head into your first season as the head coach here, how would you assess the status of this football program?

A. On a comparative basis of when we went to Tulane, we're a lot further along here. But, obviously, the schedule is a lot tougher from top to bottom. We'll have 95 people on scholarship this year which is good in that we do have numbers with which we can work.

This is a football program which has had one winning season in the last four years. We've been in the middle of the pack in the Atlantic Coast Conference. We haven't won a conference championship since 1980 and really have been a contender in the league only once since 1981.

We have a very young, inexperienced football team right now which lends to strength levels being lower than we would like simply because we are young and are still physically maturing. That's an area where we've got to make progress. Another concern is that while we have some fast people, we don't have great overall team speed.

Only one winning season in the last four years, not going regularly to bowl games recently as we had previously been doing and having a young, inexperienced team leads to a lack of self-confidence. We think right now our team is not a very confident team which scares you a bit when you think of our schedule this fall. It's going to be hard to get confidence when you're playing some of the best teams in the country.

Q. How did spring practice go?

A. We thought it was great. Our staff went in with three objectives. Number one was to teach and we did that. We were in pads 14 days and in shorts six. The NCAA only asks you to be in shorts five days, but we went an extra day because we felt we got extra teaching done.

Second, we wanted to evaluate the players on campus. Fortunately, we were healthy enough throughout the spring that we were able to do that.

And the teaching and evaluating led to establishing a system. We feel we've come up with a system that best utilizes our personnel and we will recruit with this system in mind.

The attitude of the football players was unbelievably good. Usually, when you have a transition with a coaching change, you get a mass exodus of players. We had very little unrest and the spring was simply a very positive experience.

Q. Who impressed you during the spring?

A. Jeff Garnica had a tremendous spring. He is an outstanding center and is a guy who we feel like is a definite all-star candidate. Randy Marriott has got the great speed that we need on offense and he had a fine spring. Both offensive tackles, Creighton Incorminias and Darrell Hamilton, looked good. Darrell is going to work on his strength this summer and Inco has always got to watch his weight because he is so big. Torin Dorn showed us he has the ability to break a ball game wide open with his speed.

On defense, with seven starters gone, there were obviously a lot less experienced players. But, Tony Goss was an outstanding player this spring and we feel like he will do the things necessary as a leader and a player to help us become a winning team. We were also impressed with Roy Barker, Dennis Tripp and Dwight Hollier, three young guys who are talented enough to make big plays for us this fall.

Q. What kind of team will Carolina have this fall?

A. That's very hard to say. I think we will be the type of team that will struggle early because of our inexperience at quarterback, on defense and in the kicking game. All those areas are areas of concern. But, barring injury, we should be a team that improves as the season goes along. Hopefully, we'll be a lot better football team at the end of the year than we are at the beginning.

Q. You mentioned the inexperience at quarterback. What is the situation there?

A. Deems May came out of spring practice far ahead of the other guys at that position. He's a young man who played three games his senior year in high school, was injured and did not play after that. Last year he was red-shirted. He must gain immediate experience because of the lack of activity the last year and a half. On the positive side, he's a tall guy who can run the option well enough to move the football. He was a wishbone quarterback in high school so he's got to throw the ball time and time again to regain his rhythm. We feel Deems can potentially be a really good football player before he leaves here if he continues to work and improve.

Jonathan Hall is a young man who has started here in the past and led this team to some great victories. Jonathan did not play last year because of shoulder surgery and was not able to throw in the spring. So we're unsure of what he's going to be able to accomplish in the future. We need him to come in and have a good fall to take some of the pressure off Deems. We would like both of them to get a chance to compete early in the season until we can settle on a starter. But, all of that is going to depend on Jonathan's physical status.

Q. Considering the difficulty of the schedule and the fact there have been many changes from last year, how are you going to approach the first month of the season?

A. We'll approach it as if it's us against the world. And that's about what it's going to be. It is an incredible way to open a season. In Oklahoma and Auburn we get to play two teams that normally contend for the national championship. For the last few years it seems like they've had a regular spot on New Year's Day. South Carolina had a tremendous year last season and returns Todd Ellis, a great quarterback. Howard Schnellenberger is in the fourth year of building his program at Louisville and he has an outstanding quarterback in Jay Gruden.

As coaches like to say, we'll play those first four games one at a time, but also look at them as a great opportunity to see where our strengths and weaknesses are as compared with some of the top teams in the nation. Playing this type of schedule, we'll have to work to keep our self-confidence up. But, going into the conference race, we will know we've already played some of the best teams in the country. We will really have two seasons. We will go the first four games against non-conference teams and then start the ACC season against a very good Wake Forest team.

Q. In putting together your coaching staff, you hired a lot of people with ties to this state or the ACC. Was this by design?

A. I feel like that to be successful you've got to recruit at home first. I think that's been proven here during the dominant years of Coach Crum and Coach Dooley. Their best teams featured a high percentage of North Carolina and Virginia players. So we thought about people with a background in this area when we put our staff together. And it's very easy to hire people here because Carolina is a good place to be and coach.

But, in looking at our staff, we thought about a lot of things. We wanted "people" people who could relate to young student-athletes, friends of the University, alumni, faculty members and also the people of this area. We wanted people with the highest regard for integrity and obviously, people who can coach. We feel very proud about the staff we've put together.

Q. What is your impression of ACC football?

A. I think the Atlantic Coast Conference is much better in football than we are perceived nationally. I think the fact this has been such a dominant league for so many years in basketball has a lot to do with that. We must do a better job of promoting our football on a day-to-day basis.

But, look at the coaches we have. This league has attracted some outstanding coaches. Just go down the line. Steve Spurrier is a guy who has been in the pros and been very successful. Bobby Ross has had a lot of success, as has Danny Ford. George Welsh, Bill Dooley and Dick Sheridan have been successful head coaches and Joe Krivak will do a very good job at Maryland. I think the fact the league has attracted such men is a very positive sign.

The other thing is we've won a national championship in this conference in the Eighties which is impressive. Only three other leagues can make that claim.

Overall, Clemson and Maryland have probably been more consistent the last six or seven years than the rest of us. But, we've got a number of teams that can be in bowls every year. I think we're playing very competitive schedules and can be a force on the national scene as the league continues to grow and improve.

Q. Do you have a feel yet for the way Carolina is viewed by its ACC opponents and the rivalries that exist?

A. I think the first true feeling I got was at the ACC Basketball Tournament when it seemed that everyone there, except the ones in Carolina Blue, were against us. I've heard the ABC rule—"Anybody But Carolina." And I think that is a tremendous compliment to our school.

Rivalries aside, I do think this is a classy league with a lot of outstanding people. I've had numerous Wake Forest, Duke and N.C. State fans come by and say "Coach, I'm glad you're at North Carolina." Of course, they might be glad because they don't think we're going to do very well. But, they've really been nice and complimentary. I think it's going to be a lot of fun and a great challenge for us in the future.

Q. How would you sum up your basic offensive philosophy?

A. The system we're going to use is a combination of one-back and I-formation. We combine power and option in the running game and dropping back and play-action in throwing the ball, which is very unusual. A lot of people say you can't run the football and throw at the same time. We do not feel like that's true. The key is obviously the trigger guy so we've got to have a quarterback who can handle both phases of the offense.

It's a relatively simple offense where execution is the most important thing. But, it looks very, very complicated with a lot of different sets and motion. One time a few years ago we computed it and found we had 68 different formations in our offense during a season. We feel those are the types of things we'll do here. It's an exciting offense, one that we believe is a lot of fun to play and watch. We'll throw on first down, we'll throw on third and short. But, we're also liable to run on third and eight. It's an offense that really keeps the defense off balance. It is very unpredictable.

Q. What kind of defense are you going to play?

A. We're going to play a 50 defense and be as base as our personnel will allow. Carl Torbush, our coordinator, and our defensive staff developed a philosophy that quickly fit our team this spring. We'll be a movement defense this fall in that we will have to slide people because we're not dominant up front. We'll try to out-quick some people and out-physical others. We will not be a blitzing defense, but we will blitz for the big play if the situation demands.

Q. Offensively, would one be able to see comparisons between Carolina this fall and your Tulane team of a year ago?

A. I think you could make some comparisons, but probably not nearly as many as some people might think. We didn't have anyone like Torin Dorn at Tulane last season and we'll do some special things with him. And because of the experience we had at quarterback there, we could do some things that we probably will not be able to do at the start here. We'll have to build and grow into the offense as we gain experience.

Q. You are often referred to as "an offensive-minded coach." Does that description bother you?

A. No. People refer to Bobby Bowden that way and he has had some tremendous defensive teams at Florida State. A large majority of head coaches were on offense at one time. I think it goes back to the fact that the fans and crowds like offense. People have always said that you fill the stands with offense and you win with defense and the kicking game. I think, in some cases, there's a lot to that even though you do need to move the ball and score some points.

I would, at some point, like to be known as simply a tremendous head coach. But, I'm not sensitive to that. I guess it's better to be called a good offensive-minded coach than a lot of other things people often call coaches.

Q. Considering all that a student-athlete must go through in order to play major college football, can the sport really be fun?

A. I think so. I think that as a college football coach you sometimes have to work at making it that way. Quite honestly, college athletics are hard to play now, whether the sport is basketball, baseball, football, or whatever. They're time-consuming. Winning is obviously more fun than losing. In some cases, you can win and not have fun. But, by and large, young people who choose to take a scholarship and come to college are very competitive and want to succeed. They enjoy doing well.

We worked this spring to let the players have their weekends free. We felt it was very important for them to have some time to themselves, some time to relax and do other things. We have games out on the practice field. We try to make our trips as educational as possible. When we're on the road we'll try to let the players see things other than just films of the team we're about to play. We're going to stay in the nicest places we can. We're going to try to do everything in a first-class manner for the players. I think that will help make things fun for all of us.

Q. What kind of college experience did you have as an athlete?

A. I had a good one. I got hurt late in my fourth year and had four knee operations so I didn't get everything done that I set out to accomplish. But, my overall college experience was good. In fact, I talk to young people a lot about my experiences in college. I tell them to take advantage of their time in school and do everything they can to attain their goals. Once that time is gone, you can't buy it back.

Q. Why did you get into the coaching profession?

A. I was influenced by several people in my life. My grandfather coached high school basketball and football in Cookeville, Tenn. for 30 years and has one of the highest winning percentages in high school athletics. My dad owned a sporting goods store and had coached. My mother was a high school athlete. So, I've been around sports and athletes all my life.

I coached little league baseball and Babe Ruth baseball and basketball teams in a summer league. So athletics were a vital part of my childhood.

Originally, I went to college to be a lawyer. But, because of my background and the influence of people I had been around like Steve Sloan and others, I decided to go into coaching. I wanted to be around young people and have the positive influence on them that I think a coach can have on their lives.

Q. Who has had the greatest impact on your coaching philosophy?

A. As everyone knows, I've moved a lot. The good thing about that is that I've been around a lot of people with different philosophies. I've been able to take something from all of those people and mold a philosophy of my own. It's been a great experience even though moving has been hard on my family.

Obviously, Bear Bryant was someone all coaches in the South respected and from whom they got a lot of ideas. So it was important to me to have played for one of his quarterbacks, Steve Sloan, when I was at Florida State. I learned a lot from Steve and Larry Jones at FSU. I left Florida State where we threw the ball every play and worked for Bobby Collins for three years at Southern Mississippi. He was a very disciplined, very technique-oriented coach who believed in the running game. Of course, he had been here at Carolina as an assistant to Bill Dooley.

Then I went to Memphis State with Richard Williamson, who had worked for both Coach Bryant and Frank Broyles. That was one of the major reasons I took that job—just to see the combination of philosophies that came from those two. I went on to Iowa State to join Donnie Duncan, who had been with Barry Switzer for six years at Oklahoma. From there I went to LSU and worked for Jerry Stovall, who had been an assistant to Paul Dietzel, to see the type of structure they used. Of course, my last assistant's job was under Barry Switzer, who is the winningest coach in college football today. I think I've been very fortunate that all those people have been good to me, have shared ideas and have helped me formulate my own philosophy. In fact, I've never worked for a coach I didn't enjoy being around and from whom I didn't learn something.

Q. Have you ever had or do you have heroes?

A. I don't know about heroes, but I look up to a lot of people and respect a lot of people. I was lucky at a very, very young age to be around people like Johnny Majors, Barry Switzer, Vince Dooley, Joe Paterno, Tom Osborne, Bobby Bowden, some of the great coaches in college football. They treated me with a great amount of respect and that helped me grow up in this profession at an early age. I certainly think a great deal of many coaches and admire the way they relate to young people.

Q. What kind of relationship have you had with your brother, Watson, since you both entered coaching?

A. It has been very good. It's probably made a very close relationship even closer in that we talk once or twice a week. We're able to share ideas. We've coached at schools—Vanderbilt, Tulane, North Carolina—where academics are very important. So we've shared thoughts on dealing with that aspect of a football player's life. And, our offensive philosophies have been similar so we've talked a lot about the game itself. It was very difficult playing against each other's teams for the last two years because we couldn't talk as much. But, I can honestly say he's the best friend I've got in coaching.

Q. As a head coach, what do you miss most about being an assistant?

A. The thing I miss most is the camaraderie and fellowship you have with your players when you're coaching a particular position. As a head coach you have to work to have that same rapport with 130 the same way you had it with six or eight players at a position. A lot of times now when I'm around players it's when they've messed up or missed a class. So as a head coach you have to work at enjoying the relationship with your players a whole lot more than you do as an assistant when you're around them every day. And I really believe in our coaches coaching their own positions. I'm the type of person who lets them do the coaching and I observe in practice and coach off the field.

Q. Many football coaches operate strictly behind closed doors. Why do you have open practices?

A. Actually, doing that has probably gotten us into some trouble. I'd say that some opponents have probably watched us practice in the past. But, we feel like the more people know about what we're doing, the better off we are. We're trying to do everything the right way here. And when people see that, there's not that feeling of paranoia that can exist if you close the doors. People think then that you're trying to hide something.

Now if you're working on something new, I think it's fine to close practice. We'll probably do that here before certain ball games, especially with the nature of this league where everyone is so close that fans may come and bother you. But, I think it's very good for our players that they see people from the media at practice and get used to them. It's good for the media, if we've had a tough loss, to see the attitude of our players and that we do have good young people. I'm very proud of what we've got here and I want to show our players to other people.

Q. What has been the biggest difference between being head coach at Carolina and the other two head jobs you have had?

A. The year I spent at Appalachian was my first as a head coach and it's tough to compare this with that. There are so many things you learn in that first year on the job. You can't imagine how little you knew before you took it. It was a little bit scary.

In comparing this job with the one at Tulane, I have been more comfortable here because I haven't been working two positions. The athletic director's job at Tulane was an awesome one because of the financial problems we had there. Not only were we trying to rebuild a football program which was in shambles, but also an athletic department that had just lost its basketball program, attracting so much national attention. We spent about three years of our lives at Tulane defending athletics and trying to make sure everybody understood where it fit in the total university structure and that there was a place for it in an academic setting. We were constantly working uphill.

I think we've obviously got some things to get done here, but we're not starting in the incredible hole we were in New Orleans. So I've been able to relax, work hard, meet people and thoroughly enjoy the job. We've got so much potential here that it's really been fun for our staff. There's a lot more recent tradition to build on here than there was at either of the two previous schools.

Q. What kind of expectations should alumni, students and fans have of this football program?

A. If our fans and students are like most, they expect you to win all the games every year. That's part of the great thing about college athletics. As soon as you win or lose your last game they can't wait until next year. All of us get into those expectations. I can sense that there is a great excitement right now with our students and our fans about the upcoming season. There is a lot of anticipation. But, I also think they're realistic. They know we've had one winning season in the last four, we've got a very young team and we've got a long way to go.

Q. What are your expectations?

A. I think we're a very average football team that has to do everything right to have a chance to win more than we lose. We've got to be competitive and we've got to stay healthy. One of the main goals that we'll always have is to win the conference championship. It will take us a year or so to find out how far away from that we are. We may discover that if we get every break in the world, it could possibly happen this fall. The great thing about college athletics is you can't say it won't happen. That's why everybody will come to the games and see where we fit. The challenge we'll have with our young football team is to see that we end the season better than we start and we win the games we should win and upset somebody else.

Q. How good is high school football in this state?

A. I haven't been able to see enough of it since I've been back, but I think it's very good. Just look at the number of athletes who sign football grants-in-aid each year. Recruiting is a little different here because the high schools don't have spring practice. It's a little harder to evaluate the athlete with the NCAA rules not allowing you to go out in the fall until November 1. You may not be able to see a young guy play if his season finishes early and his team doesn't make the playoffs. The Shrine Bowl helps because that's a place we can go and watch young people play.

One plus is that I do think the high school athletes get good coaching in this state. We had a good high school clinic here this spring. The coaches work at it and work at it hard. There should be a good solid base of outstanding football players here every year. It's a big state, a lot larger than most people realize. That's why we're putting nine coaches in the state as a home recruiting base. We want to make sure we're in every school in this state every year just so we won't miss a player because of the new NCAA rules and the absence of spring practice.

Q. What are going to be your primary recruiting areas?

A. We will recruit North Carolina and Virginia as if they are one state. That will be our base area. From there, we will branch out to Washington, D.C. and Atlanta and also recruit that area very hard. But, we've also gotten some great football players from the upper East and we'll still recruit the upper Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey areas. We'll go south to Florida looking for speed.

Q. What's going to be your policy on red-shirting freshmen?

A. We feel that we have a responsibility to our team, the University and the young people involved to play every young man who has a chance to help us win a ball game. However, there will also be some questions that have to be answered: Is he emotionally ready? Is he socially ready? Is he academically ready? Can he take the pressure at a very young age?

Usually, you're not sure about all those things until the fifth or sixth game. But, if a young guy can help us in six games, we'll play him. If not, we'll go ahead and red-shirt him.

Q. How important is it to set goals—as an athlete, as a coach or as a person?

A. We think it's very important. Some of the most tragic times in careers have been when someone reached the greatest goal in his or her life and then didn't have anything else to achieve. I think you constantly have to set goals and always have something to reach out for. That's why our business is so very competitive and so much fun because you're never settled. It's never completely finished. That's why you see a guy like Dean Smith, who has won here for so long, had 27 years of success in college baketball and he can't wait until next year so he can go out and try to win the national championship again. If you win a championship, your goal becomes to win another one and another one. There are so many things that young people can learn from athletics and the importance of goal-setting is certainly one of them.

Brian Adair

Defensive Tackle
6-4, 285, Freshman
Bourne, Mass.

Non-scholarship player who is a reserve in the defensive front... Underwent knee surgery during the winter and missed the off-season training program... Thus, was behind the other players at this position when spring practice began... Made some progress as the spring progressed... However, needs to get stronger and lose some weight since he was unable to do that in the off-season work... Attended Westminster Prep School... Coached there by Todd Eckerson... Enrolled in the General College at Carolina... Born July 6, 1969.

Terry Alston

Defensive Back
5-9, 170, Freshman
Concord, N.C.

Joined the squad in the spring as a non-scholarship player... Worked mainly at cornerback... Improved every day he was on the field... At this point in his career, will probably be used on the scout team in the fall... Started as a junior defensive back and wide receiver at Northwest Cabarrus High in 1985... Missed two games that year because of a separated shoulder... Shoulder surgery then kept him out of action his entire senior season... Coached by Sonny Pruette... Also lettered in track and basketball... His 1986 track team was conference and county champion... Enrolled in the General College at Carolina... Born January 17, 1968.

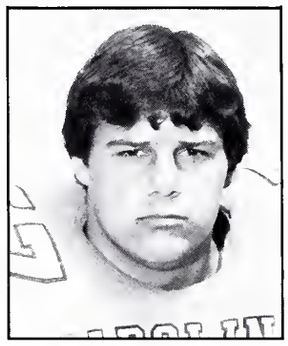
Matt Anderson

Kicking Specialist
5-10, 168, Sophomore
Dunwoody, Ga.

Left-footed place-kicker.. Soccer-style performer... Non-scholarship player... Saw action in the Blue-White Game, but missed two field goal attempts... Lettered one time in football at Dunwoody High School... Used mainly as a kickoff man... A soccer player who went out for his team at the request of Coach David Kelly... Lettered three times in soccer... Named his soccer team's best offensive player as a senior and won all-conference honors... Scored 28 goals in his career, including 14 in his senior season... Also had 12 career assists... Dunwoody is the same school which produced Tar Heel All-America lineman Harris Barton... Studying in Carolina's General College... Born February 16, 1967.



57

Joe Angello

Offensive Tackle
6-3, 265, Freshman
Rocky Mount, N.C.

A backup at strong tackle... Walk-on who gives everything he has on the practice field... His major contribution should come on the scout team this fall... Will have a chance to continue his development there... Offensive and defensive tackle at Rocky Mount High School... Coached there by George Kelly... Won three football letters... All-city, all-area and and all-conference selection as a senior... Named to the Associated Press All-State Team, finishing second in the voting among offensive linemen... Selected for the East-West All-Star Game and won a starting job... Won an award there for having the highest grade point average of any player in the game... Played on a 9-2 conference championship team as a junior... Also lettered twice in track... An honor graduate who was named his school's Scholar-Athlete of the Year... Graduated fifth in a class of 347... Was twice a class president and was chief marshall of the National Honor Society... His father, Joseph, played basketball at Waynesburg College in Pennsylvania in the early 1960's... Enrolled in the General College at Carolina... Born December 27, 1968.

Richard Applebaum

Offensive Tackle
6-3, 265, Junior
Atlantic Beach, N.Y.

Heads into the fall as the number three man at strong tackle... A hard worker in practice... Has the potential to be a contributor on the playing field... But, still has a lot of work to do... Needs to become a more consistent player... Intense enough to do that... A tough competitor... Worked at guard last season... Was originally shifted to offense in the spring of 1987 after working in the defensive line in 1985 and 1986... Was red-shirted as a freshman in 1985... A two-way lineman at Lawrence High School... Coached there by Richard Mollo... Played on teams which compiled a three-year record of 25-4... Had 99 tackles as a senior, including 11 sacks... Blocked seven kicks... All-conference, all-league and all-state... All-Long Island and All-Nassau County selection... Team captain as a senior... Also was Nassau County shot put champion in 1985... A Physical Education major... Born June 20, 1967.

"We don't have tremendous overall speed in the secondary. That's why Skeet Baldwin can be such an important player for us. He does have fine speed. He did a good job of adapting to the weak safety position in just two weeks of practice there. And, he's a smart kid who could really play anywhere in the secondary if needed."

Vinch Hoch
Secondary Coach

Skeet Baldwin

Defensive Back
5-10, 183, Junior
Chapel Hill, N.C.

Heads into the fall as the starter at weak safety... Has seen considerable action in his first two seasons and is capable of giving Carolina good play at this spot... Has mainly played cornerback in the past, although he has gotten a little playing time at this position... Was shifted to weak safety for the last two weeks of spring practice... Made a nice adjustment to the move and won the starting job... Has a good awareness on the field... Quick and has fine speed... Coachable player who will be an important factor this fall... Actually capable of playing any position in the secondary... In spring testing, tied for the fourth-best vertical jump on the team at 32 inches... Started at right cornerback last fall against Auburn and Wake Forest, but played a good deal in most games... Finished as the team's 15th-leading tackler with 12 solo hits and 10 assists... Also broke up three passes and had one tackle for an eight-yard loss... Intercepted his only pass at Maryland, killing a Terp third quarter threat at the Tar Heel 37... Carolina then drove for its last touchdown and a 27-7 lead in a 27-14 win... Started the first nine games of the 1986 season at right corner as a red-shirt freshman... Played as a backup in the last two games before starting again against Arizona in the Aloha Bowl... Was the team's 14th-leading tackler that season with 35 total hits... Had 21 solo tackles... Also caused a fumble and broke up three passes... An injury kept him out of contact work in the spring of 1987... That put him behind other players and eventually cost him more playing time than he got last fall... Red-shirted in 1985... A three-year tailback starter at Chapel Hill High School... Started in the secondary as a sophomore and junior and played there as a reserve as a senior... Still had seven interceptions and was Associated Press all-state choice as a defensive back... One of only two players named All-Big Six Conference on both offense and defense his senior year... Led his team in rushing, receiving, touchdowns and interceptions... Selected team MVP... Coached there by Bill Hodgin... Also lettered in basketball, baseball and track, winning all-conference honors in track... An Industrial Relations major... Born January 22, 1968.

Roy Barker

Defensive Tackle
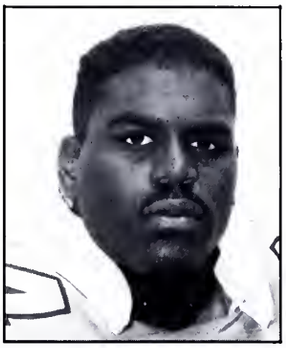
Village of Islandia, N.Y.

Ended spring practice as a starter at defensive tackle... A raw talent who has a lot to learn, but also a lot of potential... Made good progress in the spring... Worked hard to improve himself as a player... If he continues to work, he has a chance to be a fine lineman... Red-shirted last fall and is undisciplined, as could be expected with that lack of experience... Must learn to become more consistent while still playing at full speed... Had two sacks in the spring game... A three-year starter at Central Islip High School... As a senior, averaged nine tackles per game in the defensive line... Had six sacks and blocked a punt... Top game included 12 solo tackles... Named his team's MVP as a senior... Voted best lineman in Suffolk County... All-league, all-county and All-Long Island selection... All-state and honorable mention USA TODAY All-America... Coached by John DiClemente... Also lettered in basketball... Enrolled in the General College at Carolina... Born February 14, 1969.



34

Michael Benefield

Fullback
Wilmington, Del.

Will compete for playing time at fullback... Goes into the fall third on the depth chart, but should contend for the number two position... Was bothered throughout the spring by a nagging injury... Improved as a runner as the spring progressed... Made cuts at the end of the spring that he was not making at the start... Possesses good balance as a runner with his low-to-the-ground style... His size also gives him good body leverage... Has good blocking form... Played behind James Thompson at fullback last season, seeing action in nine of the 11 games... Carried the ball 11 times for 46 yards, averaging 4.2 yards a rush... Had 36 yards on seven carries at Navy... Returned one kickoff for 30 yards in the Duke game... Red-shirted in 1986... 1985 High School Player of the Year in Delaware... State's leading rusher that year with 1,553 yards in 10 games... Averaged 6.7 yards a rush... Scored 17 touchdowns... Played at St. Mark's on a team ranked third in the state... All-state and All-Catholic selection at tailback... Named to Bally's All-America Team... Coached by Jack Smiley... Also lettered in track... Was captain of his track team as both a junior and senior... State champion in the shot put both years... Voted St. Mark's most outstanding male athlete... Majoring in Journalism... Born January 22, 1968.

Bill Bjerke

Outside Linebacker
West Islip, N.Y.

A backup at outside linebacker behind John Reed... Young and inexperienced... Got off to a good start in spring practice... But, his lack of experience and discipline slowed him as the spring continued... Still, he showed he has the tools to play... Capable of battling for playing time behind Reed this fall... Red-shirted last season... Won two football letters at West Islip High School... Played linebacker, wide receiver and running back on teams which had a two-year record of 19-1... His team was 10-0 in 1985, winning league, county and Long Island championships, and 9-1 in 1986, taking another league title... West Islip was ranked third in the state in his junior year and eighth in 1986... Had 75 tackles as a senior, including 50 solos and 10 behind the line of scrimmage... Ran for 124 yards on 30 carries and scored five touchdowns... Had 13 catches for 302 yards (23.2) and five TDs... Also returned six punts for 151 yards... Set school record with 28 career catches for 546 yards and 10 touchdowns... Team captain as a senior... All-league, all-county, All-Long Island and all-state choice on defense... Coached by Wayne Shierant... In the General College at Carolina... Born March 26, 1969.

Red-shirt freshman who shows a lot of promise for the future... Did an exceptional job in spring practice... Made the progress necessary to be a productive player... Should play this fall as the top reserve behind Jeff Garnica... Possesses good strength and tenacity... Captain at North Canton Hoover High School as a senior... A two-way tackle who was chosen his team's best offensive lineman... All-league, all-county and all-district selection... Named All-Midwest America and honorable mention on the Scholastic Coaches All-America team .. Coached by Ed Glass... Won two letters in football and track and three in wrestling... All-league wrestler and state qualifer... In Carolina's General College... Born April 27, 1969.

Mike Bowman

Outside Linebacker
6-3, 230, Senior
Bronx, N.Y.

A fifth-year senior who hasn't gotten a great deal of playing time in the past .. Can make a lot of contributions this fall, however, and is expected to do so.. Goes into the new season behind Antonio Goss at one outside linebacker spot... Played well in spring practice... Came to a good understanding of his position in just his second season at this spot... Needs to get a little stronger and quicker... Smart and plays with a lot of enthusiasm... Saw just limited action last year... Was originally shifted to defense in the spring of 1987... Had played quaterback until that time .. Played in four games as the number three signal-caller in 1986... Only statistics came in a game at Clemson where he had a nine-yard run and completed one of four passes for two yards... Chosen the team's most enthusiastic offensive player in the spring of 1986 .. Red-shirted in 1984, his first season on campus... Four-year football letterman at Riverdale Country School... Twice selected all-city quarterback by the NEW YORK DAILY NEWS... Chosen co-player of the year in the state as a senior by the New York State Sports Writers Association... Completed 70 of 120 passes for 1,100 yards and nine touchdowns that season... Also ran for 650 yards, averaging 9.5 yards a carry, and scored 18 times... Finished his career with over 3,200 yards passing... Played in 25 games during his career with Riverdale winning 20 of them... Riverdale was the number one team in the state in 1983 among small schools... Team co-captain as a senior and MVP as a junior and senior... Coached by Frank Bertino... Also won four letters in basketball and two each in lacrosse and baseball... League MVP and team co-captain as a senior in basketball... First-team all-conference in lacrosse as a junior and senior... Set the school lacrosse single-season scoring record with 58 points... Named his school's outstanding male athlete as a senior... His father is a surgeon... Double majors are Economics and Political Science... Born March 10, 1966.

Tim Brooks

Offensive Tackle
Annapolis, Md.

One of the surprises of spring practice... Came back out for football after giving up the sport in the fall of 1986... His time away from the game slowed him early in the spring... Worked through that and did a good job in the off-season drills... Big, strong and runs well... A hard worker who is a tough competitor... Has excellent tenacity... Goes into the fall as the number two strong tackle behind Creighton Incorminias... Will get playing time this fall... Played as a backup at guard in early 1986 after working at tackle the previous season... Was red-shirted in 1984... Came to Carolina from South River High School where he was a three-year starter in the offensive and defensive lines... Played on teams which compiled a 25-6 record, won a regional championship in his junior year and a county title when he was a senior... All-county both of those years... All-state as a senior at defensive tackle...Coached by Joe Papetti...Also lettered in track and tennis... Set the South River shot put record and was the number one singles player for three years... Captain of both his football and tennis teams as a senior... Majoring in Administration of Criminal Justice... Born January 25, 1966.

Victor Bullock

Defensive Back
6-0, 182, Junior
Henderson, N.C.

Came out of the spring as the starter at right cornerback... Was very impressive during the last two weeks of the off-season drills... Made tremendous progress in those practices to earn the starting role... Emerged as a leader in the secondary... Made things happen on the practice field... Tough and a good hitter... Had a 32-yard interception return to set up the second touchdown in the Blue-White Game... Very coachable young man... Saw a great deal of action last fall at right cornerback... Started five games at that spot after Howard Feggins was sidelined with an injury... Was outstanding in his first start at Georgia Tech with three tackles and four assists... Set up the winning touchdown in that 30-23 victory with a sensational fourth quarter interception... Caught the ball on the sideline with just his left hand and returned it 17 yards to the Tech 34... Drew raves from Jacket Coach Bobby Ross afterwards for the play... Finished the season as Carolina's 12th-leader tackler... Had 22 solos and 12 assists... Broke up three passes... Led the team in punts returns... Took over the return duties fulltime in the seventh game at N.C. State... Had six returns that day for 45 yards... Finished the year with 82 yards on 12 returns, a 6.8 yards-per-return average... Longest return of the year was 13 yards at State... Saw action on special teams and as a reserve defensive back in 1986... Started against Arizona in the Aloha Bowl at left cornerback... Had won the starting job at right corner by playing well down the stretch and on the practice field... Was shifted to the left side when Derrick Donald became ill before the game and could not play... Did a very good job there, making two outstanding plays to break up apparent Wildcat completions... First came into prominence in the latter part of the 1986 spring practice... Was outstanding the last two weeks of the drills after being slowed by an injury earlier... Had two interceptions in the Blue-White Game... Had been red-shirted in the fall of 1985... Played quarterback and free safety at Vance High School... Completed 86 of 137 passes as a senior for 1,327 yards and 14 touchdowns... Selected MVP of an 8-2 team... Won three football letters and played on two conference championship teams... Coached by Chuck Martin... Played in the Shrine Bowl... Completed six of 15 passes in that game for 104 yards... Threw for North Carolina's first touchdown that day, sparking a big comeback from a 28-0 deficit... Chosen his school's best athlete as a senior... Also won three letters in basketball... Young player who is a reserve at strong tackle... Red-shirted last fall and thus lacks experience... Has good size, but needs to get stronger and quicker... Work in the weight room and natural maturation will help in those areas... An offensive tackle at Scotland County High School... Team captain and MVP as a senior... All-conference selection... Named to the RALEIGH NEWS & OBSERVER Top 30 in North Carolina and the RALEIGH TIMES Top 25... Chosen for the Shrine Bowl... Won three football letters... In his three years there, Scotland County made the state playoffs each season and lost only two conference games... Coached by Don Johnson... Also lettered in track... in the General College at Carolina... Born April 18, 1969.

Clarence Carter

Defensive Back
6-0, 190, Junior
Toledo, Ohio

A former tailback who was moved to defense during spring practice... The switch may pay off very well as he showed good possibilities in the secondary... Had never played defense until last spring... Was impressive early and continued to make progress throughout the spring... An enthusiastic and smart player who has a chance to contribute this fall... Worked hard in the spring... Biggest drawback is his lack of experience... Still learning his craft as a defensive back... His positive approach will make him a factor this fall... Goes into the new season as the number two right cornerback... Was in a position to play at tailback last fall until suffering a severe ankle injury prior to the N.C. State game... Was running second-team at the time... Missed the rest of the season... Has not lettered... Red-shirted as a freshman in 1985... Came to Carolina from Cardinal Stritch where he ran for 964 yards and scored five touchdowns as a senior... Set school records for career rushing yardage (2,867), single-game rushing yardage (215) and points in a season (121)... All-league, all-city and All-North Ohio... District AA Back of the Year... Second-team all-state... Selected his team's offensive MVP for three straight years... Coached by Dan Hoye... Won three letters in football, four in track and two in basketball... Majoring in Speech... Born October 4, 1966.

"Considering he had never played defense before, I thought Clarence Carter did a great job of making the transition to cornerback in the spring. I think the thing that made it a little easier for him was he wanted to learn the position. He was happy with the switch. If everyone had an attitude like he does, a coach would never have any problems."

Bryan Causey

Defensive Back
5-9, 175, Graduate
Greensboro, N.C.

Non-scholarship player who is the number two strong safety... A great competitor who made some big hits during the spring... Has a knack for being in the right place at the right time... An extremely tough football player... Doesn't have great size, but makes up for that with determination... Was an important special teams player last fall and should help there again this season... First came out for football in the fall of 1985... Lettered three years as a safety at Western Guilford High School... Team captain as a junior and senior... All-conference and all-metro as a senior on a conference championship team... Coached by Doug Henderson... Also lettered twice in basketball and baseball... As a senior, played on a 3-A state championship baseball team... President of his school and class valedictorian... His father, Paul, played freshman football at Carolina until sustaining a knee injury... Will be a graduate student this fall in accounting... Member of the All-Atlantic Coast Conference Academic Team last season... Born May 18, 1966.

Phillip Cheek

Defensive Tackle
Asheboro, N.C.

Number two right defensive tackle going into the fall... Finished the spring only behind Roy Barker at that spot... Showed good improvement from the first day of the spring until the last... A good technique player... Needs to be more aggressive... Did a good job of working on and improving his pass rush in the spring... A problem in the past has been retaining weight and he needs to watch that... Being counted on to contribute this season... Has not lettered at Carolina... Red-shirted as a freshman in 1985... Won three football letters at Asheboro High School... A two-way tackle who was named his team's best lineman as a senior and also received the Lee J. Stone Sportsmanship Award... All-conference and All-Randolph County... Coached by Eddie Williamson... Lettered twice in track, winning all-conference honors... Majoring in Administration of Criminal Justice... Born December 6, 1966.

"In our offense, we know we're going to throw the football. So we're also going to have to catch it. That's why we moved Reggie Clark to split end. He's an excellent all-around athlete who can make the big play for us. He needs experience, but he can be an exceptional player."

Reggie Clark

Wide Receiver
6-2, 210, Sophomore
Charlotte, N.C.

One of three true freshmen to play a year ago... Saw action in five games at tailback... Moved to wide receiver after the first week of spring practice... Was working behind Torin Dorn at tailback and coaches felt he was too good of an athlete to be playing as a backup... Move has paid off... Got a chance to be a regular and won the starting split end spot... Still learning the position, but shows great promise... Offers a big target for Tar Heel passers... A fine runner once he gets the football... Has the speed and all-around athletic skills to be a big-play threat... Needs to develop into that type of performer to take some of the pressure off flanker Randy Marriott... Played much of the spring with a cast on his right hand... Never missed a practice despite that injury... Still did a good job of catching the ball... Had three receptions for 37 yards in the Blue-White Game, including a 15-yard touchdown catch from Deems May... Best blocker of all the wide receivers... Held out of the first three games last fall, he first saw action at Navy as Carolina's tailback position was riddled by injuries... Had 14 carries for 56 yards in that game... Also had 56 yards on 13 carries against Wake Forest with his only two receptions of the year... Made his only start at N.C. State and finished with 49 yards on 12 rushes... Had 13 carries for 59 yards at Maryland... Longest run of the year was a 31-yard sprint in the final touchdown drive against the Terps... Only TD of the season came on a five-yard run against Wake Forest... Slowed late in the year with bruised ribs... Came to Carolina from Providence Day School where he was a four-time all-conference running back... Also won all-conference honors as a defensive back in 1985 and 1986... Rushed for 1,012 yards as a freshman, 979 as a sophomore, 1,026 as a junior and 1,803 as a senior... Scored 21 touchdowns in his senior season and also intercepted seven passes... Chosen team MVP four times... Led his team to a 9-1 record as a senior and the NCISAA state championship... Chosen to the DURHAM MORNING HERALD Sweet 16, the RALEIGH TIMES Top 25 in North Carolina and the RALEIGH NEWS & OBSERVER Top 30... Coached by Steve Shaughnessey... Also won four letters in basketball and baseball... Played on four conference basketball championship teams, two state champions and two state runners-up... All-conference three times in both basketball and baseball... Studying in the General College at Carolina... Born October 17, 1967.

Dennis Clemons

Offensive Guard
Jacksonville, Fla.

Has played every position in the offensive line in his Carolina career... Now seems set at quick guard in the new Tar Heel offensive system... Was shifted to that spot after playing tackle most of last season... Did a good job in the spring work... Finished the drills in competition for a starting position... In fact, is listed as the starter going into the fall based on his spring performance... Faces a challenge from returning starters Pat Crowley and Steve Steinbacher for that job... However, has the ability to keep it... His physical abilities make him very effective in the new Tar Heel attack...Has the quickness and running ability needed to pull... Quiet and easy-going off the field, but a hard worker on it... Plagued by various injuries throughout the early part of his career here... Red-shirted in 1984 and then saw just limited playing time in 1985 and 1986... Played a great deal early last year at tackle as Creighton Incorminias was slowed by a leg injury... Started at Oklahoma... Came to Chapel Hill from Robert E. Lee High School where he played offensive guard, defensive tackle and nose guard... Won three letters there on teams which had a combined record of 25-8 and won three straight conference and district championships... Two-time all-conference and all-city selection... All-state as a senior after being picked to the second team as a junior... Also named to the Super 11 and Super 24 teams as a senior... An All-South choice... Chosen for the North-South All-Star Game... Coached by Corky Rogers... Also lettered three times in basketball and track... All-conference in basketball as a senior... Member of the National Honor Society and named Academic All-America in football by the National Secondary Education Council... His father, Henry, won two basketball letters at Allen University in South Carolina... An Industrial Relations major... Born March 23, 1966.

Pat Crowley

Offensive Guard
Hampton Bays, N.Y.

Another in a long line of standout offensive guards at Carolina... Won All-Atlantic Coast Conference honors as just a sophomore last year... Carolina's sixth All-ACC guard in the last eight seasons... Became the first sophomore in school history to make all-conference in the offensive line... Was only the third sophomore in ACC history to win first-team all-conference honors in the offensive interior, joining guard Rod Breedlove of Maryland in 1957 and Virginia tackle Jim Dombrowski in 1983... Could join Dombrowski who is the league's only three-time All-ACC offensive lineman... Capable of contending for national all-star honors this fall... Started 11 games at right guard last season... In fact, has started all 23 games of his Tar Heel career at that position... Twice ACC Player of the Week last year... Won that award against Navy and N.C. State... Was spectacular in the game against the Wolfpack with a three-pin, 19-knockdown performance... However, he knocked down people all year with his blocking... Graded out in every game, including a 96 percent mark on effort alone... Amazingly, only made two mental errors during the entire season... Graded 89 percent in the Navy game with five pins and six knockdowns... Had 13 knockdowns and one pin at Maryland and six knockdowns and two pins at Georgia Tech where he graded 87 percent... Had a dynamic freshman year in 1986... Graded out a winner consistently in his initial college season of play... Played an exceptional game at Wake Forest with 10 knockdowns of opposing defenders... Was in on 103 plays against Maryland, grading 77 percent with nine knockdowns and one pin... Received votes in balloting for ACC Rookie of the Year... Will be behind the other offensive guards this fall after missing a considerable amount of spring practice... Was competing on the Tar Heel wrestling team early in the workouts and then sprained an ankle once he got on the field... However, with his intelligence and talent, he should catch up in a hurry... Listed number two at quick guard going into the fall, but really is capable of playing the strong side, too... He'll certainly be in the starting lineup somewhere... A very physical football player... Has tremendous strength... An excellent drive blocker whose pass blocking has improved a great deal in the last two years... An intense and emotional player... A hard-nosed competitor and a natural leader... Was red-shirted in 1985 after starting for three years at Hampton Bays High School... Played offensive tackle, defensive tackle and nose guard there... As a senior, named All-Long Island by the NEW YORK DAILY NEWS and by NEWSDAY... First-team all-state on defense... All-league and all-county... Team co-captain and offensive MVP... Led his team to its first playoff berth and county championship game ever... Coached by Mike Diveris... Also lettered twice in wrestling and three times in track... All-conference and all-county heavyweight wrestler... All-conference and all-county for three years as a shot putter... Has wrestled at Carolina for each of the past two seasons... An Economics major... Born August 29, 1967.

Junnie Demery

Wide Receiver
Richmond, Va.

A pleasant surprise during spring practice... Finished the spring as Randy Marriott's top backup at flanker... Lost 18 pounds during the off-season training sessions, dropping from 213 to 195... That paid off on the practice field as he was quicker than in the past... Did a good job of catching the football in the spring work... Possesses a fine pair of hands... Concentrates well and is fundamentally a sound receiver... Injured a knee in the 18th practice of the spring... Missed the Blue-White Game because of that... Injury did not require surgery, however, and he will be ready to go in the fall... Red-shirted in 1984 and has seen only limited action since then... Wingback and cornerback at Varina High School... All-district on both offense and defense as a senior... Caught 14 passes for 170 yards and two touchdowns... Also averaged 11.5 yards a rush and had five punt returns for 59 yards... Named to the ROANOKE TIMES Top 25 in Virginia... Started at tight end as a sophomore and at flanker and cornerback as a junior... Coached by Jerry Carter... Earned four letters in both football and track... Led his track team in scoring three straight years... Two-time district champion in the 400 meters... Set school records in the 200 and 400 meters and as part of 400 and 800-meter relay teams... Major is Sociology... Born September 14, 1966.

Leonard Dempsey

Linebacker
6-2, 230, Senior
Lynchburg, Va.

In contention for playing time at linebacker... Had a solid spring... Goes into the fall behind Dwight Hollier at one linebacker spot... Expected to push for the starting job in the pre-season work... Whether he starts or not, he will play a good deal... Has excellent athletic ability... Strongest of the linebackers and maybe the fastest... Got limited playing time last fall behind all-conference performer Brett Rudolph... Had seen considerably more action the previous season... Started games that year against LSU, Maryland and Clemson... Was in on 12 hits at LSU in his first career start... Had nine hits at Duke... Played the entire second half of that game after Mitch Wike suffered a concussion... Finished the 1986 season with 22 solo tackles and 24 assists... Played in a reserve role at linebacker and defensive end in 1985... Has been a good special teams player throughout his career here...Red-shirted as a freshman in 1984... Was an all-area selection at both tight end and linebacker in his senior year at Heritage High School... Only player to be named on both offense and defense... Averaged 22.1 yards on 20 catches that year, scoring seven times... Also played some at fullback and split end... Played in the Shrine Game and chosen for the East-West All-Star game... Heritage team captain and MVP as a senior... Coached by Jimmy Green... Lettered three times in football and four times in basketball... Also was Heritage's basketball MVP in his final year there... A Sociology major... Born October 11, 1964.

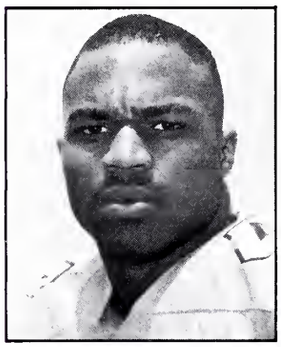
Andy Dinkin

Offensive Guard
6-2, 255, Freshman
Potomac, Md.

Opened spring practice on defense, where he had played last fall during a red-shirt freshman season... Shifted to offense the second week of the spring work.. Adapted well to the new position... As the spring progressed, he became more and more comfortable with the spot... With three seniors among the top five players at guard, he has a chance to play in the future... Needs work, but could be a factor here... Was an all-metro lineman at Winston Churchill High School.. Played defensive tackle, nose guard, offensive guard and offensive tackle... Twice won all-county and all-conference honors... Made 94 tackles as a junior with nine sacks, four fumble recoveries and four batted passes... As a senior, had 82 tackles, 11 sacks, two fumble recoveries and eight batted passes... Received honorable mention on Adidas All-America Team... Coached by Fred Shepherd... Won two football letters and three in track... Studying in the General College... Born December 26, 1969.



44

Torin Dorn

Tailback
Southfield, Mich.

Here is the premier running back in the Atlantic Coast Conference.. Has a chance to be one of the top runners in college football and to follow in the tradition of other great Carolina players at this position... Might have established himself as a truly great player a year ago, but was hampered throughout the season by an ankle which he sprained in the opener against Illinois... Saw action in six games, rushing for 479 yards.. Averaged 5.4 yards a carry and scored five touchdowns... The five TDs equalled the most scored by any other Tar Heel player... Also averaged 10.1 yards on 18 receptions.. Got off to a tremendous start when he ran for 165 yards on just 15 carries in the Illinois opener, breaking off 56 and 69-yard runs... Scored on the 56-yard run and also on a four-yard burst... The 165 yards was the third-best opening day performance in school history... It was the fourth-highest total of the entire Atlantic Coast Conference season.. Rushed for 134 yards in the third quarter alone that day, most ever by a Tar Heel player in just one period... His 11.0 yards-per-carry average was the second best single-game figure in school history... Kelvin Bryant averaged 11.1 against East Carolina in 1981... The 69-yard run set up a field goal and was the longest non-scoring run in the ACC all year... However, he turned his ankle as he finished that run and never really was full strength again all season.. ACC Player of the Week for that performance against the Illini as he also had five knockdowns as a blocker... Was unable to play the following Saturday at Oklahoma... But, came back to give Carolina a boost off the bench at Georgia Tech... Ran for 73 yards on nine carries in a reserve role that day as the Tar Heels rallied for a 30-23 victory... Had 18 and 15-yard runs in Carolina's game-tying fourth quarter drive and a key 12-yard pickup as the Tar Heels were moving for the winning touchdown... Was held out of the next game against Navy... Tried to play in the first half against Auburn, but was ineffective... Then missed three straight games before coming off the bench for 92 yards against Clemson... Scored Carolina's only touchdown on a scintillating 20-yard run... Couldn't cut well, but ran hard against a tough Tiger defense... Rushed for 116 yards and scored on a seven-yard run at Virginia the following week... Scored his other touchdown on a one-yard run against Duke, but was shaken up on the final series of the first half and was unable to return to action... Had seven receptions in that game with the Blue Devils for 96 yards... That equalled the most ever by a Tar Heel sophomore in one game, tying the mark of Don McCauley set against Air Force in 1968... Had seen only spot action as a freshman... Ran for 141 yards on 32 carries (4.4)... Did not play until the fourth game of the year against Georgia Tech... Would have probably been red-shirted except for the knee injuries which forced William Humes to end his career.. Top rushing performance was 54 yards on six carries at Clemson... Had 11 carries for 45 yards at Wake Forest... Used to return kickoffs late in the year and averaged 19.7 yards on 11 returns... Ran for 101 yards on just seven carries against Arizona in the Aloha Bowl... Had a 58-yard touchdown run in that game to spark a late Tar Heel rally... That was the longest run in Aloha history.

Although he has been here two years, has only played in 12 games, starting against Virginia as a freshman and against Illinois last season.. Has 120 career carries for 620 yards and a 5.2 yards-per-rush average... Possesses a lot of athletic ability... Fine open-field runner with excellent quickness, good balance and great acceleration... However, speed is his top asset... Has good hands as a receiver... Capable of being an explosive offensive weapon... Carolina needs to get him the ball in one-on-one situations.. Still needs to have consistency in his successes.. That will give him the confidence great backs have... Underwent an arthroscopic procedure to remove a small piece of torn cartilage from a knee in May... That bothered him at times in spring practice, but now he should be better than ever... Was named Michigan's high school player of the year as a senior in 1985 by the DETROIT NEWS... All-America selection by Parade, Scholastic Coach and Bally at Southfield High... Named to the Blue Chip Dream Team as a running back and to The Sporting News All-America team as a defensive back... All-league, all-area, all-county, all-metro and all-state... Two-year starter at running back... Also played safety, winning three letters... Played in only six and a half games his senior year because of a sprained ankle... Still ran for 1,239 yards, averaging 9.6 yards a rush... Scored 16 touchdowns... Had two interceptions for an 8-1 conference co-championship team... Also completed four of six passes for 159 yards and two TDs... Rushed for 1,161 yards as a junior on 164 carries (7.1 per attempt) and scored 12 times... Also threw for two other touchdowns.. Intercepted five passes and averaged 36 yards a punt... Coached by Cal Fletcher... Lettered four times in track and once in basketball.. Won the state championship in the 400 as a junior... Majoring in Industrial Relations... Born February 2, 1968.

Defensive Back
5-11, 183, Sophomore
Fayetteville, N.C.

Joined the team last spring... Seems to have a good feel for the game... Impressed the coaching staff with his work... Was used mainly at weak safety... However, worked at strong safety in the Blue-White Game... Was in on 22 of that game's 80 snaps... The son of former Tar Heel quarterback Junior Edge, one of the stars of the 1963 Gator Bowl championship team... Studying in the General College at Carolina.

Defensive Back
6-1, 186, Junior

Intelligent player in the secondary... Worked at weak safety the first three weeks of spring practice... Moved to cornerback for the last two weeks of the spring and performed much better... Heads into the fall as the number three man on the right side... Has the ability to play... Runs very well... Tied for the fourth-best vertical jump on the team in spring testing at 32 inches... Has seen special teams action for the past two years... Should help there again this fall... Red-shirted in 1985... His brother, Arnold, was a four-year regular at tight end for Carolina earlier in this decade... Played on Princeton High School teams which compiled a 19-4 record in his two years of varsity action... In his junior year, Princeton was 11-2, winning the state championship and finishing the season ranked second nationally by USA TODAY...Helped his team to an 8-2 record as a senior and an eighth-place finish in the state... Intercepted eight passes... All-city selection... Started at free safety in the Southwest Ohio All-Star Game... Coached by Pat Mancuso... Also lettered once in basketball and three times in track... Won-all state track honors as a senior, finishing second in the state in the long jump... A Speech major... Born February 3, 1967.

Here's one of the best players in the Atlantic Coast Conference... Might well be the finest center in college football... A dominating performer in the Tar Heel interior last fall... Graded out at 80 percent overall... Missed the Navy game with a sprained knee suffered in practice, but started all 10 others... Was sensational in a game at Maryland, grading 79 percent with 17 knockdowns and three pins... Graded 86 percent at Georgia Tech with seven knockdowns... Came back from missing the Navy game and was outstanding against Auburn, grading 79 percent with three pins and four knockdowns... His big junior season came after a solid sophomore year... Started 11 of 12 games in 1986, missing the Maryland start after suffering back spasms in practice that week... Had really come into his own the previous spring... Gained needed weight between the end of the 1985 season and the spring of 1986... That gave him added strength and made him a truly dynamic performer... Broke his right hand that spring... But, learned to snap left-handed during spring break and returned to the practice field... Didn't want to give anyone else a chance to win his job... Originally moved into the starting lineup late in 1985... Had played in a reserve role early that year before seeing extensive action at Maryland... Became the starter the following week against Clemson... Came to Carolina as a tight end and played there during a red-shirt 1984 season... Was shifted to center the next spring...A very good all-around athlete... Has great feet and good punch as a blocker... Great second and third-effort player... Plays every play like it is the only play... Graded 96 percent on effort alone last season... Very aggressive, but also can play with finesse... A tenacious blocker in the running game who has developed into a premier pass blocker as well... Smart and competitive... Has fine work habits... Possesses great inner drive... A leader by example... Was successful last spring every time he was on the field and in every phase of the offense... Needs to do a better job of retaining his body weight... That could be tough because he expends so much energy anytime he practices or plays... Tight end, linebacker and punter at Fairmont High School... Caught 32 passes as a senior for 599 yards and eight touchdowns... Also had 46 solo tackles, 27 assists and 13 quarterback sacks... Averaged 35.5 yards a punt... All-area selection... Named to the All-Southern Ohio Team... Coached by Doug Schmidt... Won three letters in both football and basketball... Team MVP in each sport as a senior... All-area basketball choice... Has a double major of Economics and Industrial Relations... Born April 28, 1966.

Allan Gorry

Offensive Guard
6-0, 259, Senior
Hickory, N.C.

Non-scholarship player who has been an important backup in the offensive line for the last three years... Has played center and both guard positions in game competition... Expected to see plenty of action again this fall... Goes into the new season as a backup at quick guard... However, he's a swing player who could play the other side, too... Missed the last week of spring practice with an injury... Was in the thick of the fight for playing time at the time of his injury... Moves very well which is vital in the new Tar Heel offensive system... Has worked to develop good strength... Gets fine leverage on his blocks... Finished 1987 as Pat Crowley's backup at right guard on the depth chart, although he was also used at other positions... Saw his most extensive playing time midway through the 1986 season... However, a pulled hamstring cut into that action... Gave a gutsy performance against Maryland that year... Although slowed by the hamstring he came off the bench for 17 plays because of other injuries in the line...Tar Heels ran right behind him for one touchdown... Made his only career start in 1985 at Georgia Tech... Opened that game at guard because of an injury to C.A. Brooks... Attended The Hill School in Pottstown, Pa.... Lettered twice in football, basketball and wrestling... All-conference selection in football... His brother, Tommy, is a former Tar Heel wrestler... Majoring in Industrial Relations... Born March 6, 1966.

Antonio Goss

Outside Linebacker
6-4, 228, Senior
Randleman, N.C.

One of Carolina's leading all-star candidates... Has the ability to be one of the best defensive players in the country and contend for All-America honors... An extremely gifted athlete... In the same mold as some of the Tar Heels' past outside linebackers—Mike Wilcher, Calvin Daniels and Lawrence Taylor... Can do all the things a great outside linebacker must be able to do—rush the passer, play the option and drop and cover... A very intelligent football player who understands the game and what he's supposed to do... Understands how his position fits into the total defensive scheme... Fastest player at this spot... Has great acceleration to go with his speed... Big, strong and a good hitter... Has excellent instincts... Capable of being the big-play performer the young defense needs... Has fine leadership qualities and is being counted on in that area... The most experienced player on defense... Should be a great help to the young defense and the entire team... Impressed the new coaching staff with his hard work on the practice field last spring... Gave a great effort in every practice session... Was the best defensive player on the practice field and set a great example with his work habits... In spring testing, he had the best vertical jump on the team (37 inches) and the best long jump (10 feet, 1¼ inches)... Started all 11 games at outside linebacker last fall in his first season at the position... Carolina's fifth-leading tackler with 43 solo hits and 36 assists... Had one sack and six tackles for losses... A fine pass rusher, he was credited with 13 quarterback pressures... Forced one fumble and recovered four... Also broke up four passes... Played a great game at Oklahoma with six tackles, two assists, two quarterback pressures, one tackle for a loss and one pass broken up... Was in on 12 hits against Illinois, including three solos... Made five tackles and had three assists at Georgia Tech... Had two tackles, six assists and a sack at N.C. State... Made seven solo tackles against Clemson, assisted on two others, forced one fumble and recovered another... Was moved to outside linebacker in the spring of 1987 after playing strong safety in an eight-man front the previous year... Played well early in 1986 until spraining an ankle at Florida State... Missed the next three games entirely and saw only spot duty after that... Best games may have been the season finale against Duke and the Aloha Bowl against Arizona.

Saw extensive action as a red-shirt freshman in 1985... Split time at strong safety with Howard Feggins... Finished 10th on the team in total hits with 64... Had a great game against Wake Forest with eight hits, including five solo tackles... Also broke up a pass with a jarring hit... Made two big plays in a goal-line stand that day... Stopped Michael Ramseur twice at the one-yard line... Wake did not score on that possession after having first-and-goal at the two... Had six solo tackles and five assists at Virginia... Worked at tailback in 1984, his initial season on campus... Moved to defense the following spring... Won four football letters at Randleman High School, starting three years at tailback and free safety... As a senior, was the only player from North Carolina on the Parade All-America Team and also was chosen to the All-America squad picked by the National High School Coaches Association... Randleman was 39-2 with Goss in the starting lineup, winning its last 26 in a row... Played on teams which won three straight state championships with records of 13-1, 13-1 and 13-0... Ran for 2,045 yards as a senior and scored 41 touchdowns... Capped his career in the state championship game against East Carteret by carrying 29 times for 213 yards and scoring all five TDs in a 35-0 victory... Named High School Player of the Year by the GREENSBORO NEWS & RECORD... Was on that paper's all-state team as both a junior and a senior, the only underclassman so honored in his junior year... Also selected to the Associated Press all-state team as a senior and to the RALEIGH TIMES Top Five in North Carolina... Chosen for the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game... Ran for 1,952 yards as a junior and scored 29 touchdowns... Finished his high school career with over 5,000 yards rushing and 82 touchdowns... Had five games in which he ran for over 200 yards and one with over 300... Won All-South, all-conference and all-county honors... All-conference and all-county on both offense and defense... Coached by Charlie Gregory... Lettered three times in basketball and twice each in baseball and track... Majoring in Sociology... Born August 11, 1966.

Cecil Gray

Defensive Tackle
Norfolk, Va.

A key man on defense for Carolina... Has a tremendous amount of athletic ability... Also has gotten playing time in each of the last two seasons and has some valuable game experience... In fact, is the most experienced defensive lineman on the squad... A two-year letterman... Goes into the fall as the backup at left defensive tackle... However, was slowed during spring practice by a knee injury, missing two complete weeks of work... Injury was not serious and he will be 100 percent this fall... Expected to immediately contend for a starting spot... Possesses good strength and gets off blocks well... Runs well for such a big man... Must continue developing his physical tools... Needs to be mentally tougher and more consistent... The consistency should come with more playing time and repetitions on the practice field... Started the first two games last fall against Illinois and Oklahoma... Had four solo tackles and an assist in the opener with the Illini... Played in a reserve role after that... Had a sack at Maryland and two tackles for losses at N.C. State... One of only four true freshmen to play in 1986... Best performance may have come against Arizona in the Aloha Bowl... Started the second half that day and recorded a sack... Won four football letters at Norfolk Catholic High School... A two-way tackle who had 126 tackles and five sacks as a senior... Was in on 149 tackles with 12 sacks as a junior... Credited with nine sacks as a sophomore and six as a freshman... Scholastic Coach All-America as a senior... Also named to the INDIANAPOLIS STAR All-America Team... Chosen to the ROANOKE TIMES Top Five in Virginia... All-Tidewater selection... Was picked to the Virginia All-State Catholic Team on both offense and defense... Member of the Prep Academic All-America Team... Coached by John O'Hara... Won four letters in track and three in basketball... All-Tidewater and All-State Catholic choice in basketball... State champion in the shot put and discus... Named his school's top performer in football, basketball and track as a senior... Majoring in Journalism... Born February 16, 1968.

Kurt Green

Wide Receiver
Durham, N.C.

Competing with Junnie Demery for the backup role at flanker... Ended the spring behind Randy Marriott and Demery at that spot... However, expected to push Demery in the fall... Has the speed to make things happen... A very consistent performer during the spring... Had two catches in the Blue-White Game... Non-scholarship player who has a good understanding of the game... Worked as a defensive back in 1986 and was moved to offense last year... Lettered twice in football at Pinecrest High School in Southern Pines... Played wide receiver and defensive back and also handled punting and place-kicking duties... Coached by Burgin Beale... Also lettered three times in baseball and twice in basketball... Member of the National Honor Society... After graduating from high school, he spent 18 months in Italy on a Mormon mission... A Political Science major... Born July 12, 1964.

Quarterback
Vienna, Va.

One of the most important players on the Tar Heel roster... The only one of Carolina's top four quarterbacks who has ever been in a varsity game... However, he did not play at all last year after undergoing major shoulder surgery in August, 1987... Also was unable to throw last spring... His status for the fall remains unknown... If he is able to play, it would be a tremendous boost to the Carolina offense... The keys will be how well his right shoulder is and how much his layoff has hurt him... He practiced in some run execution situations last spring, but was able to do little else...

Was on the field, however, and in all the meetings... Understands the offense and knows what to do under center... If healthy, he's one of the top two quarterbacks... His presence would take a lot of pressure off red-shirt freshman Deems May, the number one quarterback at this time... His shoulder was originally injured late in the 1986 Aloha Bowl... Surgery was performed to correct a separation, but the shoulder continued to slide out of its socket... He was then sent to Dr. Frank Jobe, the noted shoulder specialist, last summer... Jobe repaired the shoulder much as he had done with Chicago Bear quarterback Jim McMahon, who had a similar problem... Jobe is also the doctor who operated on the shoulder of Mark Maye, last year's Tar Heel quarterback... Hall experienced further discomfort last spring when he tried to throw... An arthroscopy was performed in Chapel Hill at that time and a fibrous band removed which had been impeding the movement of a tendon... Doctors gave Hall a rehabilitation process which allowed him to begin throwing in early summer... If anyone can come back, it's Hall... Very confident of his own ability and is devoted to the game... Much of his success as a quarterback has come because of his self-confidence... Has a knack for instilling that confidence in others... Wants the ball when the game is on the line... Although he had developed into a good drop-back passer before his injury, he's actually been at his best when he's been out of the pocket and on the run... Has good speed for a quarterback and the ability to make things happen... A streaky player in the past who has been brilliant when he's been hot... Intelligent and a hard worker, he wants to be a coach.

Was the starting quarterback in Carolina's first five games of 1986... Suffered a sprained knee late in the fifth game at Wake Forest... That sidelined him, allowing Maye to take over the signal-calling duties... Had played the finest game of his career against the Deacons before getting hurt... Completed 12 of 22 passes that day for 163 yards and four touchdowns, all in the first half... The four TD passes were the most of the entire Atlantic Coast Conference season... Had also thrown one scoring pass in each of the season's first four games... Was the second-ranked passer in the ACC at the time of his injury... Was leading the league in both lowest interception percentage and highest touchdown percentage at that time... In addition, Carolina was 4-0-1 in his five starts... Finished the year playing behind Maye, who had a great second half himself... Threw only two passes after his injury, both at Clemson... Hit on 43 of 88 passes for 616 yards, eight touchdowns and three interceptions... Longest play was a 55-yard TD pass to William Humes at Kansas... Had become the Tar Heels' starting quarterback in the latter stages of the 1985 season... Played in just three of Carolina's first seven games that year as a true freshman, seeing only spot action... Then played the entire second half of a loss at Maryland... Started the final three games... Completed 38 of 79 passes for 559 yards and four touchdowns... Scored once himself on a four-yard run against Duke... Became the first true freshman to start a game at quarterback for the Tar Heels since Chuck Sharpe in 1978... Turned in a sensational performance in his first collegiate start... Completed 12 of 20 passes for 182 yards and one touchdown as Carolina came from behind to defeat Clemson, 21-20... Directed 80 and 70-yard drives in the fourth quarter, hitting seven of eight passes... Made an outstanding play in the first drive when he eluded a heavy pass rush on third-and-nine to fire a 17-yard pass to Quinton Smith... That march culminated in a three-yard Hall-to-Arnold Franklin touchdown pass... Hall then took the Tar Heels 70 yards, the winning touchdown coming with just 10 seconds on the clock... ACC Rookie of the Week for that performance... Completed 14 of 26 passes for 242 yards and two touchdowns in the season finale against Duke... The 242 yards was the most ever by a Carolina freshman... His career passing efficiency of 124.15 is the fifth-best in school history... Ranks 20th in career completions with 81.

Quarterbacked James Madison High School to an 8-2 record in 1984... Completed 77 of 152 passes for 1,255 yards and 17 touchdowns... Gained 609 yards rushing on 82 carries, averaging 7.4 yards an attempt... Scored six touchdowns himself... All-Northern Region and all-district choice... Picked to the ROANOKE TIMES Top 25 in Virginia... Chosen for the East-West All-Star Game... Named his team's MVP... Coached by Chuck Sell... Won two letters in football and two in basketball... His brother, David, is a former running back at Virginia... Another brother, Joey, was a linebacker at Western Kentucky... Majoring in Political Science... Born March 28, 1967.

Darrell Hamilton

Offensive Tackle
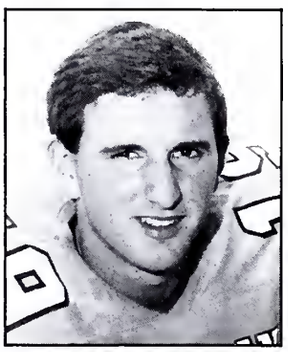
Washington, D.C.

The starter at quick tackle... Has the athletic ability to be an outstanding player... A potential all-star candidate... If he makes the expected improvement over the summer, capable of contending for post-season honors... A three-year letterman with good experience... Started 11 games at tackle last season... Did a good job throughout the year... Top grading performance was 88 percent at Georgia Tech where he had 10 knockdowns and two pins... Graded 85 percent at Navy... Had nine knockdowns and two pins while grading 77 percent at Maryland... Had his solid season after coming back from a serious knee injury earlier in his career... After being red-shirted in 1984, started the first three games of the 1985 season at right tackle... Did an outstanding job in those games and seemed headed toward a dynamic rookie season... However, suffered torn knee ligaments in the third game against VMI and was lost for the remainder of the year... Underwent surgery and rehabilitation... Came back to play as a backup in 1986... Saw limited action early in the year... Began to come on at the end of the season... Started at right tackle against Maryland, Virginia and Duke because of injuries to other linemen... Did an exceptional job in the Virginia game... That set the stage for his starting position last fall... Began slowly in practice last spring... Started making rapid improvement as he adapted to the new offensive system... A top-flight pass blocker who has developed into a force in the running game, too... Needs more consistency and better upper body strength... Played both offensive and defensive tackle at Anacostia High School... Was a member of two East Interhigh championship teams and one city championship team... All-Interhigh and all-metro selection... Honorable mention All-America on teams picked by Parade and the National High School Coaches Association... Three-year letterman in football and basketball... As a senior, made 62 solo tackles, assisted on 47 others, recorded nine sacks and recovered four fumbles... Coached by Willie Stewart... Majoring in RTVMP... Born May 11, 1965.



15

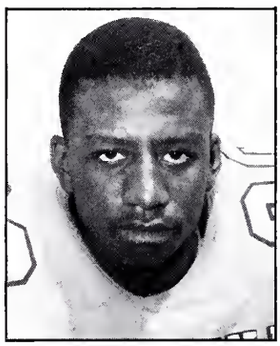
Steve Harrison

Quarterback
6-4, 191, Sophomore
Snow Hill, N.C.

Non-scholarship player... Should handle work with the scout team this fall... Spent one year at Mount Olive College before transferring to Carolina... Played quarterback at Greene Central High School... Led his team to the Eastern 3-A Finals in 1984... As a senior, passed for over 800 yards and 10 touchdowns... All-conference and all-area selection... Coached by Spence Grantham... Won two football letters, two in basketball and four in tennis... Three-time tennis MVP and conference player of the year... Played one year of basketball at Mount Olive... Majoring in History... Born July 28, 1968.

"We're a much better football team if Jonathan Hall is healthy. Then we've got a guy who has been under fire at quarterback. I think Deems May has the ability to be a very good player for us, but having a player of Jonathan's experience would just make our situation so much better."

Darrell Moody
Offensive Coordinator



20

Sterling Hayden

Defensive Back
6-2, 182, Senior
Campbell, Ohio

Veteran player who has won three letters.. Has played on special teams and also seen some action in the secondary... Been an exceptional special teams performer... Has played every position in the defensive backfield during his career here... Also has played as a nickel back in some defensive packages.. Worked at both strong and weak safety last spring... Listed as a backup at both positions going into the fall... Was slowed at one point during the spring when he couldn't shake the flu... Has the capabilities to contribute this season... Possesses good football intelligence... One of four true freshmen to play in 1985... Played tailback, flanker and cornerback at Ursuline High School... Lettered twice in football and played on a conference championship team each year... Intercepted seven passes as a junior, returning three for touchdowns... Had five interceptions as a senior... Led his team in receptions as a junior and then rushed for 1,049 yards as a senior... Scored a conference-leading 14 touchdowns in his final season... Also returned punts.. UPI all-state selection... All-Northeast Ohio and two-time all-conference pick... Chosen for the Ohio High School All-Star Game.. Co-captain as a senior and team MVP... Chosen Ursuline's best defensive back as a junior and top offensive back as a senior... Coached by Dick Angle... Also won two letters in basketball and three in track... His major is RTVMP... Born October 17, 1966.

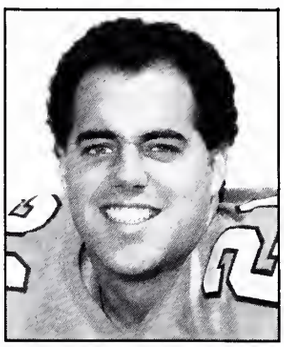
Pete Henry

Tight End
6-5, 220, Freshman
Wilmette, Ill.

A walk-on wide receiver who was moved to tight end in spring practice... Has some possibilities at this spot.. Has a lot to learn, but could eventually contribute... In spring testing, had the second-best vertical jump on the team at 34 inches and the third-best long jump at 10 feet... Played football for the first time as a senior at New Trier High School... A two-way starter at cornerback and wide receiver... His team posted an 8-3 record and made the Illinois Sweet 16... Coached by Eugene Cichowski... Also won three letters in basketball and two in baseball... Team co-captain in basketball as a senior and all-conference choice... Averaged 13 points and seven rebounds a game on a 22-8 squad... Played on two conference baseball title teams... Was 4-0 with a 2.45 ERA as a pitcher in his junior season and topped the team in home runs and RBI as a centerfielder the following year.. National Merit Scholar and National Achievement Scholar... Came to Carolina on a Morehead Scholarship, the most prestigious academic grant awarded by the University.. Currently enrolled in the General College... Born July 30, 1969.



21

Defensive Back
5-11, 190, Senior
Fayetteville, N.C.

Non-scholarship player in the secondary.. Worked mainly at strong safety in spring practice... Made improvement as the spring progressed... Didn't miss a single practice... Should contribute on the scout team this fall... Played wide receiver, running back and strong safety at Douglas Byrd High School... All-city, all-county and all-conference as a senior in the secondary... Lettered three times... Played on conference championship teams in each of his last two years there... As a senior, his team went 13-1, finishing state 4-A runner-up... Coached by Bob Paroli... Won three letters in baseball and twice was all-conference... All-state as a senior with a .529 batting average... Received the Douglas Byrd Scholar-Athlete award as a senior and graduated with honors... Played junior varsity baseball at Carolina for two years before an injury forced him to give up the sport... Majoring in Biology... Born August 21, 1966.

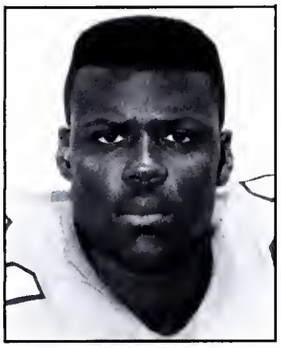
Stuffy Hewitt

Defensive Back
6-3, 203, Sophomore
Catawba. N.C.

Young player who could have an outstanding future in the sport... Goes into the fall as the number two weak safety... Still feeling his way at the position... But, has the ability to play... Has great range... A sideline-to-sideline player because of his quickness... Made some big plays in the Blue-White Game... Has good size... Plays with a lot of determination... Studies the game... Will be a special teams player for sure and should also see action in the secondary... In spring testing, had the second-best long jump on the team—10 feet 3/4 inches.. A reserve last fall after being redshirted in 1986... Played running back and free safety at Bunker Hill High School... Led his team to an 8-2-1 record as a senior and the third round of the state playoffs... Rushed for 180 yards against an 11-0 North Rowan team in the second round... Ran for over 1,300 yards and scored 12 touchdowns in his senior year... Made 40 tackles and intercepted two passes... All-conference selection... Coached by Tom Brown... Also lettered in basketball and track... A Recreation Administration major... Born December 12, 1967.

"We're going to try to play as many people as possible in the secondary. We want our younger kids to get some experience, especially a kid like Stuffy Hewitt. He's capable of being a very good player for us. He has the size and quickness you look for in a defensive back. It's up to us to get him the playing time he needs to develop."

Vince Hoch
Secondary Coach



81

Tony Hoggard

Defensive Tackle
6-4, 245, Freshman
Powellsville, N.C.

A reserve at defensive tackle... Missed the off-season training program because of illness... Was behind throughout the spring because of that... Has the potential to play... Has good leverage... Just needs to develop all his physical tools... With work in the summer, has a chance to see action this fall... Red-shirted last season... A three-time letterman at Bertie High School... Played offensive tackle, defensive tackle, defensive guard and defensive end... Made 116 tackles as a senior... Had eight sacks... All-East and all-conference choice... Selected for the East-West All-Star game... Team MVP... Coached by Ron Cooke... Won four letters in basketball and two in track... All-conference and team MVP in track... Only sophomore every to score over 150 points in a basketball season at Bertie... School athlete of the year as a senior... Born April 28, 1969.

Dwight Hollier

Linebacker
6-3, 219, Freshman
Hampton, Va.

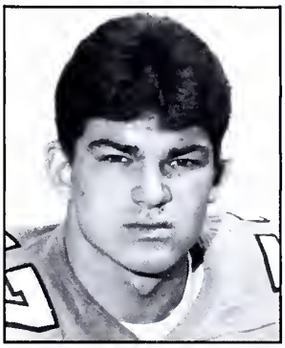
Came from nowhere in spring practice to win a starting position... Red-shirted as a freshman last fall, he was an unknown quantity when practice opened... Immediately impressed the new coaching staff... Grabbed a starting job early and never relinquished it... Was the most consistent inside linebacker on the field during the drills... In fact, probably joined Antonio Goss as the most consistent defensive players at any position... Has a chance to be a fine player... Possesses all the tools to play... Has exceptional quickness and speed... Also has good height for this position... Just needs experience... Is working to get bigger and stronger... That will happen as he matures... Came to Carolina from Kecoughtan High School... Played there with current Tar Heel teammate Doxie Jordan... District player of the year at linebacker in his senior season... Named to the ROANOKE TIMES Top 25 in Virginia... Bally All-America selection... Coached by John Pauls... In Carolina's General College... Born April 21, 1969.

81

Bill Hollister

Tight End
6-3, 221, Sophomore
Eufaula, Ala.

Non-scholarship player who is a backup at tight end... Hard worker on the field... Intelligent player... Has worked to gain needed weight, adding 12 pounds in the last year... Came to Carolina on a Morehead Scholarship, the most prestigious academic grant awarded by the University... Played at Lejeune High School in North Carolina... Played cornerback, defensive end, linebacker, tight end and center... Lettered four times... All-conference as both a junior and senior... All-county and All-East as a senior... Coached by Pete Anderton... Also won two letters in basketball and baseball and one in track... School MVP in both football and basketball as a senior and voted Lejeune's top athlete... His father, William, played at Wisconsin... Enrolled in the General College at Carolina... Born August 28, 1968.



57

Mike Hopkins

Outside Linebacker
Falls Church, Va.

Moved from linebacker to outside linebacker after the first two weeks of spring practice... Then was injured and missed a week of work... Hard to evaluate because he was on the field so little at this position... Lined up behind Antonio Goss and Mike Bowman at one outside linebacker post... Needs to get bigger, stronger and faster... Wants to be a good player and will work at those things... Has a good attitude about the game... Plus, natural maturity will help in those areas, too... Red-shirted last fall... Played on a 10-3 district championship team at George C. Marshall High School... Defensive end and linebacker who helped spark his team to the Northern Region title and the state semi-finals... Was in on 121 tackles as a senior with 18 sacks, three interceptions and two blocked field goals... Made 87 tackles in his junior season with a school-record 25 sacks and one interception... Two-time all-district and all-region choice... Great Falls District Defensive Player of the Year in 1986... Named to the East-West All-Star Game... Won three football letters... Coached by Neil Callahan... Won two letters in baseball and one in track... A General College student... Born June 5, 1969.

Bryan Hough

Deep Snapper
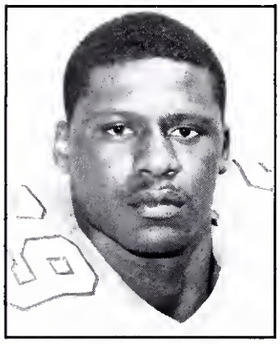
Mount Holly, N.C.

Handled most of the team's deep snapping duties a year ago... Did a good job last season... Should fill that role again this fall... Originally came out for the team in the fall of 1986... Has lettered each year he's played... Saw most of his 1986 action late in the season after Tony Cooper was injured... Cooper had opened the year as the regular deep snapper... However, Hough did a fine job down the stretch as Carolina went to the Aloha Bowl... A center, guard and middle linebacker at East Gaston High School... Coached there by Duane Alderman... Earned two letters in football, two in wrestling and three in baseball... All-conference wrestler... Attended Boys State... Majoring in Industrial Relations... Born May 16, 1968.

"Our kicking game is really unsettled. I'm not sure who's going to be our punter or place-kicker. The only thing I know is that Bryan Hough will be the deep snapper. He's proven he can handle that very difficult job."

Mack Brown
Head Coach



89

Tight End
6-5, 224, Senior
Toledo, Ohio

Goes into the fall as the number two tight end... Could be a key man in the passing game this year... However, is still recovering from a serious knee injury suffered in 1986... Tore knee ligaments in the third game of that season at Florida State... Was splitting time at tight end at the time of the injury... Underwent corrective surgery... Missed all of spring practice in 1987 and was never really 100 percent last fall... Saw just spot action... Was tentative at the start of practice last spring... As spring went along, he began to come on... Put himself in a position where he can contribute to the team... However, must develop more confidence in his knee... Still runs quite well... A fine receiver and an intelligent player... Has worked to become a better blocker... Saw action as the number three tight end in 1985 and also played on special teams... Was red-shirted in 1984... Named City League Player of the Year at Macomber-Whitney Tech in 1983... Also division and district player of the year... Tight end, defensive tackle and punter... All-division, all-city, all-district and all-state selection... Chosen to play in Ohio's North-South All-Star Game... Named to the academic all-city team... Played on two City League championship teams and three teams which won division titles... Caught 30 passes as a senior for 505 yards and three touchdowns, averaging 16.8 yards a catch... Had 67 total hits on defense and 16 tackles for losses... Averaged 35.5 yards a punt... Coached by John Johnson... Earned four letters in football and track and three in basketball... His brother, Dennis, played linebacker at Ohio State... An Economics major... Born January 20, 1966.

Creighton Incorminias

Offensive Tackle
Hampton, Va.

Should be one of the best linemen in the Atlantic Coast Conference this fall... Capable of contending for all-star honors... Has improved each year he's been on the Carolina campus... Started 10 games at right tackle last fall... Missed a start at Oklahoma... Had sprained his left knee in pre-season practice... Was only able to go 18 plays against Illinois in the opener before the knee forced him to the sidelines... Then came the game with the Sooners... Returned to the lineup at Georgia Tech and played very well... Graded 86 percent with four pins and two knockdowns as he almost was back to 100 percent... Had a fine day at Navy, grading 85 percent... Was outstanding against Maryland, grading 82 percent with 15 knockdowns and one pin... Played very well as a sophomore in 1986... However, was over-shadowed by All-America Harris Barton, who worked at the other tackle slot... Started the first nine games that year before spraining an ankle at Clemson... Did not play in the 10th game with Virginia, but returned to action in a reserve role against Duke in the finale and started in the Aloha Bowl... Best performance may have been against Maryland when he started at left tackle with Barton shifting to center for the injured Jeff Garnica... Was in on 103 snaps against the Terps that day... Played both tackle slots during that game and did an outstanding job... First extensive playing time had come against Maryland the previous year... Had seen only limited action early in the season before playing a great deal at College Park... Moved into the starting lineup the following week against Clemson... Started the last three games at right tackle... Played solidly although only a year out of high school... One of just four true freshmen to play that season... Made a good transition last spring to the new coaching staff and what is expected of him in the new offense... Realized he needed to lose weight and has done that... Dropped 11 pounds during spring practice... That hasn't affected his strength... One of the team's strongest players... Has good football sense and doesn't make mental mistakes... A hard worker who wants to be a great player and has a chance to be one... Should be one of the leaders in the offensive line... Was a two-way tackle, center and nose guard at Bethel High School... Won All-South honors... Associated Press all-state selection on defense... All-district choice... All-region on both offense and defense... Name to the ROANOKE TIMES Top 25 in Virginia... Team captain as a junior and senior... Coached by Dennis Kozlowski... Also lettered in basketball and wrestling... District, region and state wrestling champion in unlimited weight class as a senior... USA and AAU state champion as a junior... His father, Creighton, played football at St. Augustine's in Raleigh from 1961 to 1965... Majoring in Speech... Born February 5, 1967.

"Offensive tackle is a solid position for us. There is no substitute for having lined up and played Oklahoma, Auburn and Clemson. That experience factor is so important. Not only have Inco and Darrell (Hamilton) done that, but they also have a lot of talent. I think both are capable of being post-season all-stars."

Terry Lewis
Tackle, Tight End Coach

Chris Jacobs

Nose Guard
Mocksville, N.C.

Played as a backup at nose guard and defensive tackle in 1985 after being red-shirted in 1984... Gave up football prior to the 1986 season... Returned to the team last spring... Despite his layoff, did a good job in spring practice... Has something to prove and began doing it in the spring work... Worked hard to make himself a contributor... Had a shoulder injury in the spring, but stayed on the practice field... A senior in an area where there is little experience... Gave leadership and maturity to the defensive front... A competitor who plays hard even when tired... Goes into the fall as the number two man at nose guard... Defensive tackle and place-kicker at Davie County High School... Kicked three field goals and 18 PATS as a senior... Had seven quarterback sacks... A starter in the Shrine Bowl... Also selected for the East-West All-Star Game... All-Northwest North Carolina and all-conference... Named to the RALEIGH TIMES Top 25 in North Carolina... Coached by Mike Carter... Won two letters in football and basketball and three in track... Team MVP in all three sports as a senior... Conference shot put champion... 1983 national finalist in the shot at the Junior Olympics... An Industrial Relations major... Born February 24, 1966.

John Jacobs

Tight End
6-4, 233, Sophomore
Smithfield, N.C.

Goes into the fall as the number three tight end... Capable of making important contributions... Plays hard... A physically tough competitor... Has fine hands as a receiver... Needs better strength and must work on his quickness... Saw considerable action last year at this position... Opened the season as the number three man... However, became the chief backup to Daryl Parham after starter John Keller was injured at Georgia Tech... Played in every game and was the team's sixth-leading receiver... Had 10 catches for 100 yards... Had three catches in a game twice—against Navy for 23 yards and against Auburn for 38 yards... Was red-shirted in 1986... A two-year starter at tight end and a three-year regular at linebacker for Smithfield-Selma High School... Twice won all-conference honors... Named on both offense and defense as a senior... Made 25 catches for 355 yards and two touchdowns... Spartans' leading tackler on defense... Led his team to the Eastern 4-A title game as a senior... All-metro choice three times... All-East selection as a senior... Named to the DURHAM MORNING HERALD Sweet 16, the RALEIGH TIMES Top 25 in North Carolina and the RALEIGH NEWS & OBSERVER Top 30 in the state... Team MVP as a senior... Coached by Jack Gaster... Chosen for the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game... Won three letters in football and basketball and one in baseball and golf... All-conference in basketball as a senior... Majoring in Administration of Criminal Justice... Born April 15, 1968.

Jim Jauch

Defensive Back
6-1, 180, Senior
Vienna, Va.

Competing for playing time at left cornerback... Had a bad ankle in spring practice, but never missed a workout... However, the ankle certainly hindered his progress... Goes into the fall number three on the depth chart... Capable of contributing... Will certainly play on special teams where he has done an excellent job in the past... Saw reserve action at cornerback for the last three years and on special teams... Started the final two regular-season games of the 1986 season at right cornerback... Made two outstanding plays in the 1985 Wake Forest game during a goal-line stand... A tough, physical player who is a good hitter... Also one of the team's fastest defensive backs... Dedicated to the game and a hard worker... Originally came to Carolina in 1984 and was red-shirted... Won three football letters at St. Paul's High School in Winnipeg, Manitoba and then played his senior year at Oakton High in Virginia... His father, Ray, was a head coach in the Canadian Football League and then in the USFL... An all-district and all-region choice at Oakton... Coached there by Bob Herb... Played defensive back and wide receiver... Had six catches for 180 yards and three touchdowns... Chosen for the Virginia East-West All-Star Game... Won all-city honors three times in Winnipeg and played on a city championship team in 1982... Also lettered three years in track... His brother, Joey, is a freshman wide receiver at Carolina this fall... Has two other brothers who were college running backs—Jeff at North Dakota and John at South Dakota... Administration of Criminal Justice is his major... Born June 25, 1965.

Also lettered three times in track... Sixth in the long jump in the state championships... Chosen Kecoughthan's Male Athlete of the Year as a senior... Enrolled in Carolina's General College... Born June 27, 1969.

Matt Keene

Defensive Back
5-11, 178, Freshman
Goldsboro, N.C.

A backup in the defensive backfield... Worked at all four secondary spots during spring practice... Can make a big contribution on the scout team this fall... Did not miss a spring practice... Has a great attitude about the sport... Non-scholarship player who has good intelligence on the field... Played offensive guard and linebacker at Rosewood High School... All-conference choice as a senior and named team's most valuable offensive lineman... Played on one conference championship team and one co-championship squad... As a sophomore, his team was ranked number two in the state and played in the Eastern championship game... Team was ranked number one in the state for eight weeks of his junior season... Coached by Branch Pope... Won two letters in tennis... In the General College at Carolina... Born February 14, 1969.

"John Keller is the type of guy who will help our football team with his mere presence on the field. He's a veteran and a young man with good leadership qualities. I think he's made a fine comeback from his knee injury and we need him to be an important part of our passing attack. He is also an excellent student and is going to be a success in whatever he does in his future life."

John Keller

Tight End
6-4, 224, Senior
Toledo, Ohio

Carolina's starting tight end and an important man in the Tar Heel passing game .. Has only played this position a little over a year, but has shown the ability to be an excellent receiver... Would have more experience, but was injured most of last season... Sprained a knee in the third game of the year at Georgia Tech and sat out the rest of the fall... Came back to do a good job in spring practice... Did not show any ill effects from the injury... Was originally moved to tight end in the spring of 1986.. Did a fine job that fall... Opened that season as the number three tight end, but became the top backup after Damon Hueston was injured at Florida State... First catch of his career was for seven yards and a touchdown at Wake Forest... Started the Maryland game after first-teammer Dave Truitt sprained an ankle at LSU... Caught six passes against the Terps for 37 yards and a touchdown... Played a great deal against Clemson and Virginia... Started at Duke in the season finale with Truitt still slowed by his ankle... Finished the year as Carolina's third-leading receiver with 16 catches for 113 yards and two TDs... Had played a great deal in 1985 as a strong safety... Worked at quarterback while being red-shirted in 1984... Expected to have a big year this fall... A good, all-around athlete... Very knowledgeable on the field and doesn't make mental mistakes... Possesses excellent hands and good concentration... That combination makes him very good at catching the ball in a crowd... Has great work ethics and good leadership qualities... Intelligent young man who was an Academic All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection last fall... Won all-city honors at three positions in his senior year at Central Catholic High School—quarterback, free safety and place-kicker... Named Most Valuable Back in Northwest Ohio... All-league, all-division and all-state... Chosen for the Ohio North-South All-Star Game... Academic All-America... CYO Athlete of the Year... Passed for 1,150 yards as a senior... Had 23 career interceptions... His team won the city championship in 1982... Coached by Nick Toth... Won three letters in football, two in basketball and two in baseball... His father, John, was a pitcher in the Cincinnati Reds' farm system at one time... An uncle, Richard Keller, was a halfback at Notre Dame in the early 1950's... Double-majoring in Speech and Political Science... Born October 5, 1965.

One of the reserves at wide receiver... Non-scholarship player... Worked at flanker during spring practice... Played at Garinger High School... Coached there by Ken Lowrance... In the General College at Carolina... Born February 9, 1969.

Bill Lee

Linebacker
6-1, 212, Sophomore
Maitland, Fla.

Non-scholarship player who made some strides during spring practice... Was impressive with some big hits in the last two scrimmages... Has worked hard to be a contributor to the Tar Heel program... Tough and a good competitor .. Could help on special teams this fall... Played linebacker, fullback and wingback at Winter Park High School... Two-time all-conference selection... Named to the 5-A all-state team as a senior... Had 184 tackles in his final year with two interceptions... Also blocked two punts... Player of the Year in Central Florida... Voted one of the state's top 10 linebackers... Team MVP... His team reached the state semi-finals in 1984 and 1985 and had a three-year record of 32-5... Coached by Larry Gergley... Selected for the North-South All-Star Game... Won three football letters and two in baseball... Majoring in Industrial Relations... Born September 20, 1968.

Mike Lohrer

Offensive Guard
6-5, 240, Freshman
Troy, Ohio

Did a solid job in spring practice... But, has a lot of veterans ahead of him on the depth chart at the guard positions... However, three of the top five guards are seniors... Will be brought along this fall to replace one of them... Definitely a prospect for future playing time... Hard worker who is going to get better and better... Red-shirted last season... Came to Chapel Hill from Troy High School... Two-year starter at offensive and defensive tackle... Team co-captain as a senior... Helped Troy to two straight appearances in the state playoffs and a two-season record of 20-3... Played on two conference championship teams and a state semi-finalist in 1985... Sparked an offensive line which helped Troy amass 3,900 yards in 10 regular-season games in 1985 and 3,800 in 1986... Coached by Steve Nolan... Studying in Carolina's General College... Born May 23, 1969.

Richard Long

Wide Receiver
6-0, 173 Freshman
Lake Waccamaw, N.C.

Non-scholarship player who is a backup at wide receiver... Listed at flanker on the depth chart... Came to Carolina from Hallsboro High School... Played tight end and outside linebacker there... Made 30 solo tackles as a senior... Coached by Raymond Marlowe... Won two letters in football, two in basketball and one in track... Studying in the General College... Born February 23, 1969.

Steve Lowe

Linebacker
6-2, 224, Junior
Westlake, Ohio

Showed the most improvement of any linebacker during spring practice... Made good progress throughout the drills... Will be a contributor this fall... Listed as the number three man at the strongside linebacker... Has a chance to push for the number two spot this fall... A hard worker with good strength... Has seen reserve action in each of his first two years and has also played on special teams... Could be a factor on special teams again this fall... Saw his most playing time last year against Navy and Wake Forest... Was in on 28 plays at Annapolis and 14 against the Deacons... Played well in a reserve role at Clemson in 1986... Was in on 27 plays from scrimmage and made six hits... Red-shirted in 1985... Won three football letters as a linebacker and punter at St. Edwards High School... Team co-captain as a senior and named the squad's best defensive lineman... All-Independent selection... Was in on 80 tackles for a 9-1 team and intercepted a pass... Coached by Al O'Neil... 23

Randy Marriott

Wide Receiver
Wendell, N.C.

A top all-star candidate in his senior season... Should be one of the best offensive players in the Atlantic Coast Conference... Has shown the ability to be a sensational big-play performer... Tar Heels' leading receiver last fall.... Had 36 catches for 634 yards and four touchdowns, averaging 17.6 yards a reception... Only started five games, but shared playing time at the two wide receiver posts with Eric Lewis and Quinton Smith... Ranked seventh in the ACC in catches... Led the conference in kickoff returns, averaging 22.5 yards an attempt... Also topped the league in all-purpose running, averaging 113.9 yards a game on receptions, returns and rushing attempts... However, it was as a receiver that he made his biggest plays... Turned in one of the greatest performances in school history to help spark a 30-23 come-from-behind victory at Georgia Tech... Caught nine passes that day for a school-record 247 yards and three touchdowns... The nine catches were the most of his career in one game... One of the touchdowns covered 93 yards, the longest pass play in Tar Heel history... Also had 25 and 18-yard TD receptions in the fourth quarter as Carolina rallied for 20 points... The 93-yard pass from Mark Maye was the longest play of any kind by a Tar Heel since Delbert Powell's 98-yard kickoff return in 1976... Previously, the longest pass ever was 84 yards and was caught by Eddie Bryant against Duke in 1943... Marriott now has two of the four longest catches ever at Carolina... In 1986 he and Maye teammed up for an 82-yard touchdown at Duke... That is now tied with a Kevin Anthony-to-Earl Winfield play for the third-longest in school records... The 93-yarder was the longest pass play of the ACC season... The 247 yards on receptions was the second-highest total by any player in the nation all year... Only player with more was Quinn Early of Iowa with 256 against Northwestern... It was the third-highest total in ACC history, topped only by the 283 of Duke's Chris Castor in 1982 against Wake Forest and the 271 of Wake's Wayne

Baumgardner in 1980 against South Carolina... Carolina's previous school record had been 158 by Bob Lacey against Michigan State in 1962... The three TD catches equalled the school record set by Charles Waddell against Clemson in 1974, Mark Smith against Miami of Ohio in 1983 and Winfield against Wake Forest in 1985... That also matched the most by any player in the ACC last fall... The 93-yard catch cut the Tech lead from 20-3 to 20-10 late in the third quarter... Then with Tech leading 23-16, he caught the 25-yard scoring strike to tie the game with 6:48 to play... After an interception got the Tar Heels the ball back, he caught his 18-yarder to win the game with 4:32 on the clock... ACC Lineman of the Week for that effort... His other scores came on a 19-yard reverse at Navy and a 51-yard pass at Virginia... Also had a big 39-yard catch at Maryland and a 29-yarder against Auburn... His five total touchdowns tied him for the team lead.

Heads into his senior season as the 18th-leading receiver in school history with 50 catches for 875 yards... His current average of 17.5 yards per catch is the highest career mark ever at Carolina... The 875 yards on receptions is the 10th-highest figure among Tar Heel receivers... Ranks 12th in career touchdown catches with seven... His 36 receptions last year were the ninth-most ever in one season by a Carolina player... His 634 reception yards were the fourth-most of any ACC player last fall... He needs 125 yards on catches this year to become only the eighth Tar Heel to hit the 1,000-yard mark... If he matched his 36 receptions of last season, he would move into seventh place on the all-time pass-catching list... However, he is being counted on to make more than that... Had 27 kickoff returns in 1987 for 607 yards... Both figures were school records... Longest return was 50 yards against Duke... Has a career kickoff return average of 22.1, the seventh-best all-time Tar Heel mark... Ranks sixth in career kickoff return yards at 641 (29 attempts)... His 22.5 mark on kickoff returns last year was the best by a Carolina leader since Phil Farris averaged 26.8 in 1979... Is only the second Tar Heel player to lead the ACC in kickoff returns... James Betterson did it in 1974... Needs 16 kickoff returns to break Don McCauley's career record of 44 and 404 yards on returns to beat McCauley's record of 1,044... Only the second receiver to lead Carolina in all-purpose running in the last 25 years... Winfield did it in 1985... Seventh Tar Heel to lead the ACC in all-purpose running, but the first Carolina receiver to do so.

Began to blossom as a sophomore in 1986... Had 13 catches that year for 223 yards and three touchdowns... Averaged 17.2 yards a reception... Scoring catches came against Wake Forest, N.C. State and Duke... Had four receptions for 116 yards against the Blue Devils, including the 82-yarder from Maye... In fact, 12 of his 13 receptions came in the last seven games of the year... Started the last two games against Virginia and Duke... Had a six-yard touchdown catch against Arizona in the Aloha Bowl... Saw only limited playing time in 1985, catching one pass against VMI... Was red-shirted in 1984... Simply put, has great natural ability and has come to realize how to best make use of it... Possesses good quickness and speed... A very dangerous runner after he gets the football... Can turn a short pass into a big gainer... A very fluid player, but an intense competitor... Did an excellent job last spring of adapting to the new offensive system... Will line up at flanker in this fall's attack... Caught the ball consistently in the spring work... Had a 69-yard touchdown run off a reverse in the Blue-White Game... Tar Heels would like to get the ball to him as much as possible, in a variety of ways, to take advantage of his skills.

Came to Carolina from East Wake High School where he had 47 catches for 720 yards and seven touchdowns as a senior flanker... Had 35 carries for 353 yards and three more TDs... Wake County 3-A Player of the Year... Named to the RALEIGH TIMES Top Five in North Carolina... GREENSBORO NEWS & RECORD all-state selection... Member of the ORLANDO SENTINEL All-South Team... North Carolina's MVP in the Shrine Bowl... Made eight catches there for 128 yards and his team's only touchdown.... Caught 41 passes as a junior for 813 yards and six TDs... Scored four times and gained 350 yards on 21 rushing attempts... Had career totals of 111 receptions for 1,933 yards (17.4 yards a catch) and 15 touchdowns and 61 carries for 804 yards (13.2) and nine touchdowns... Twice an All-East, all-metro and all-conference selection... Coached by Johnny Sasser... Earned three letters in football and track and two in basketball... Competed in track at Carolina in 1984... Won the triple jump at the Joe Hilton Invitational and the ACC Indoor Invitational... Majoring in RTVMP... Born November 1, 1965.

Kennard Martin

Tailback
Winston-Salem, N.C

In the running for playing time at tailback... Will be trying to bounce back from a disappointing 1987 season this fall... Has the capabilities to do that... After working at both tailback and fullback in the spring of 1987, concentrated mainly on tailback when last season began... Played in each of the first three games and started at Georgia Tech... Turned in his best performance there... Had nine carries for 41 yards, caught three passes for 27 and returned four kickoffs for 85... However, suffered a strained knee and pulled hamstring in the fourth quarter... Missed the following two games against Navy and Auburn... Returned to action against Wake Forest... Saw spot duty with four carries for 14 yards... During the next week was suspended from the team for the remainder of the season for disciplinary reasons... Rejoined the squad during spring practice... Started off the spring very well... However, was injured and slowed for a while... Possesses good overall athletic ability... A fine natural runner... Has a great knack for breaking tackles and keeping his feet... Also has good hands as a receiver... Capable of making the big play... However, needs more consistency... First came to Carolina in 1986 and was red-shirted... Set a dozen rushing, scoring and total offense records at Parkland High School... Ran for 2,105 yards as a senior... Averaged 8.2 yards a rush and scored 25 touchdowns... Also scored 10 times on two-point conversions... Led the Mustangs to an 11-2 record and a spot in the state playoffs... Gained 203 yards and scored three TDs in the playoff opener... Rushed for 172 yards and scored four times in the second round... Conference, Piedmont and City-County Player of the Year... Associated Press and GREENSBORO NEWS & RECORD all-state selection... Chosen to the DURHAM MORNING HERALD Sweet 16, the RALEIGH NEWS & OBSERVER Top Five in North Carolina and the RALEIGH TIMES Top 25... Rushed for 1,239 yards as a sophomore and 910 yards as a junior for a career total of 4,254... Had 495 career carries for an average of 8.6 yards a rush... Scored 47 touchdowns and 302 points... Coached by Homer Thompson... Also lettered in track... Majoring in Economics... Born June 10, 1968.

Deems May

Quarterback
Lexington, N.C.

Carolina's number one quarterback... Won that position with a strong showing in spring practice... Has a good feel for the game... Possesses tremendous poise for such a young player... Understands his limitations and plays within them... A good decision-maker... His passing improved a great deal during the spring work... That improvement should continue... Has good accuracy as a passer... With his size, he should get stronger... Is a physically tough player and can be effective running the football... Completed 10 of 14 passes in the Blue-White Game for 130 yards... That included a 15-yard touchdown pass to Reggie Clark... Had three carries for 11 yards... Is going to get better and better as he gains more experience... Really hasn't played in almost two years... Was red-shirted last fall... Missed most of his senior season at Lexington High School with a knee injury... Played in just three games that year before getting hurt in a 13-0 win over North Rowan... Passed for 224 yards and two touchdowns in his shortened final season... Operating out of a wishbone attack, he ran for 131 yards and one TD... Despite his injury, still made Parade and Scholastic Coach All-America teams... Named to the DURHAM MORNING HERALD Sweet 16 and the RALEIGH NEWS & OBSERVER Top Five in North Carolina... As a junior, ran for 925 yards and 22 touchdowns... Passed for 1,050 yards and 10 scores... Threw for over 1,300 yards and 15 touchdowns as a sophomore... Added 13 TDs on the ground and 650 yards rushing... Had one performance that year in which he passed for 241 yards in the second half of a game against Davie County... All-conference, all-area and All-Northwest as both a sophomore and junior... His team won three straight conference championships and state titles in his junior and senior seasons... In his three years as a starter, quarterbacked Lexington to a 26-5 record... Coached by Gary Whitman... Lettered three times in football, twice in basketball and once in baseball... As a sophomore, averaged 15.3 points and 11 rebounds in basketball... Averaged 18.8 points and 14 rebounds as a junior... Twice was all-county, all-conference, all-area and All-Northwest... His father, Bert, played football at N.C. State... Had a great uncle, Billy Myers, who played at Carolina in the mid-Forties... Vann May, an uncle, played at Duke... In spring testing, tied for the fourth-best vertical jump on the team at 32 inches... Enrolled in the General College at Carolina... Born March 6, 1969.

Scott McAlister

Quarterback
6-3, 204, Freshman
Greensboro, N.C.

Third on the depth chart at quarterback... Has good natural talent... Needs to improve his decision-making... Completed two of four passes in the Blue-White Game for 54 yards with an interception... Could be the Tar Heel punter this fall... Averaged 35.7 yards on six punts in the spring game... Red-shirted last year... Broke or tied 22 passing records at Western Guilford High School... Completed 164 of 313 passes as a senior for 2,340 yards and 17 touchdowns... Completion percentage was 52.4... His yardage total was the second-highest in the state... Guided his team to the quarter-finals of the state playoffs... Averaged over 40 yards a punt for three straight seasons, including a 40.8 mark as a senior... All-conference and all-county punter for three years... All-conference quarterback as a junior and senior and all-county quarterback as a senior... Conference player of the year and county offensive player of the year in his final season... GREENSBORO NEWS & RECORD all-state choice as a punter... Chosen to the DURHAM MORNING HERALD Sweet 16 and the RALEIGH TIMES Top 25... Team MVP... Starting quarterback for North Carolina in the Shrine Bowl... Selected for the East-West All-Star Game... Won three letters for Coach Doug Henderson... Also lettered three times in baseball as a pitcher and first baseman... All-conference and all-county in baseball... Played on a state 3-A championship team in 1985... Had an 0.86 ERA in his junior season... Selected to Who's Who Among American High School Students... In the General College at Carolina... Born March 30, 1969.

Robert Miley

Punter
6-3, 185, Sophomore
Southern Pines, N.C.

Only was able to practice one day last spring... Missed the rest of the drills with an injury... Impossible to evaluate because the new staff hasn't seen him kick... Non-scholarship player... Came out on his own in the fall of 1986... Won two letters in football at Pinecrest High School... An All-conference punter there... Coached by Burgin Beale... Also lettered twice in basketball... Has not declared a college major... Born June 12, 1968.

Don Millen

Outside Linebacker
6-5, 230, Sophomore
Atlanta, Ga.

Top backup to John Reed at one outside linebacker post... Saw some action in a reserve role last year and on special teams... However, needs more experience... Very intelligent... Understands schemes... A tough individual, but needs to get stronger and quicker... Wants to be a good player and is capable of getting where he needs to be physically... Has the best size of anyone at this position... Being counted on to play a great deal this fall... Was red-shirted in 1986... Worked at strong safety during that red-shirt season... Went to outside linebacker the following spring... Tight end and linebacker at Marist High School... All-state AAA selection... Made 102 tackles, recovered three fumbles and intercepted a pass for a 9-3 team as a senior... Also had 11 catches for 151 yards and two touchdowns... Team captain... As a junior, helped spark Marist to a 14-1 record and a second-place finish in the state... Had 95 tackles that year, five fumble recoveries and a pair of interceptions... Had two catches, one for a touchdown... Coached by Alan Chadwick... Won two football letters and three in basketball... Played on a 25-2 regional championship basketball team as a junior and a 26-3 state runner-up team as a senior... Averaged 10 points and eight rebounds... His grandfather, Bill Schroeder, was a member of Tulane's 1932 Rose Bowl team... His brother, Alec, is a freshman lineman at Carolina this fall... Majoring in Economics... Born May 26, 1968.

"We're planning on starting Deems May at quarterback. He earned that position in the spring with a lot of hard work and a lot of improvement. He's way ahead of everybody else at this position. Now, if Jonathan (Hall) comes back healthy this fall, we'll certainly give him an opportunity to challenge for the starting job. But, we can't count on that.

"I think everyone on our staff and on our team has a lot of confidence in Deems. He's a tough kid who can run the option and he's getting better and better as a passer. He's always been a winner and I believe he can be a winner for us."

Darrell Moody
Offensive Coordinator

69

Dave Mohler

Offensive Tackle
6-6, 246, Sophomore
Chevy Chase, Md.

A reserve at quick tackle... Has the ability to play at this position... However, needs to get stronger in order to make a contribution... Needs to gain that strength over the summer... Saw only limited action last year... Was red-shirted in 1986... Captain of an 8-1 St. Albans team in 1985... A two-way tackle... Led an offensive line which helped St. Albans rush for 2,400 yards and a defensive front which gave up only 400 yards on the ground... Star of a last-minute goal-line stand as St. Albans defeated St. Stephens for the first time in 17 years... All-league and all-metro... Coached by Dick Allanson... Won two letters in football, two in track and two in lacrosse... His brother, Bill, was a basketball player at Harvard... A Speech major... Born April 13, 1968.

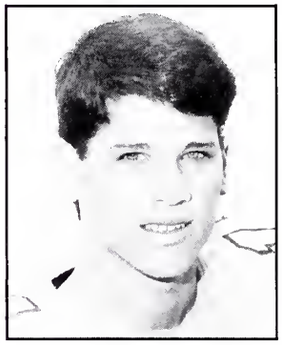
Dennis Moore

Center
6-5, 240, Freshman
Middletown, Pa.

Opened spring practice at offensive guard... Shifted to center early in the drills... Still adapting to the new position... Has promise at this spot... Will compete for playing time as a center in the future... Red-shirted last fall... Played offensive tackle and defensive end at Middletown Area High School... All Mid-Pennsylvania selection on both offense and defense... Helped his team to a 12-1 record as a senior and a district championship... Member of the Pennsylvania Big 33 Team... Lettered three times... Adidas All-America honorable mention as a senior... Coached by Dennis Iezzi... Won two letters in track and one in basketball... A student in the General College... Born July 5, 1969.



11

Place-Kicker

Non-scholarship player who came out on his own in the spring... Soccer-style kicker... Was a safety, punter and place-kicker at Jordan High School... Won three letters and was team captain as a senior... Three-times an all-area, all-conference and all city-county selection... Won All-East honors as a senior... Chosen for the East-West All-Star Game... Coached by Larry Junkin... Enrolled in the General College... Born June 20, 1969.

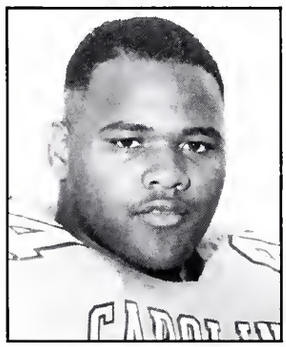
James Neely

Defensive Back
5-11, 172, Sophomore
New York, N.Y.

A reserve in the defensive secondary... Walk-on who joined the team two years ago... Did not see any action last fall... Hard worker last spring... Did not miss a practice... Tied for the fourth-best vertical jump on the team in spring testing at 32 inches... Excellent student... Attended Bronx High School of Science... Majoring in Biology... Born May 7, 1968.



94

David Newkirk

Nose Guard
Smithfield, N.C.

Earned the starting position at nose guard going into the fall... Won the job after battling Chris Jacobs and Alex Simakas for the spot all spring... Has very little experience in the defensive line... Saw only limited action last year behind Carlton Bailey, an All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection... However, has great tools to play this position... Runs well and has excellent quickness... Fine all-around athlete... Will make a lot of improvement as he gets more experience... Started spring practice slowly, but then began to come on... Came to understand the position better... Has been a good special teams player for the past two seasons... One of four players to see action as a true freshman in 1986... Worked at linebacker that year... Moved to nose guard after the season and prior to the Aloha Bowl... Was a two-time all-metro selection at South Johnston High School... Played linebacker and fullback as a senior after working at offensive and defensive tackle as a sophomore and junior... Averaged 14 solo tackles a game in his final year... Chosen to play in the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game... Named to the RALEIGH NEWS & OBSERVER Top 15 in North Carolina, the RALEIGH TIMES Top 25 and the DURHAM MORNING HERALD Sweet 16... All-East choice... Coached by Bud Deters...Won three letters in football and three in wrestling... Majoring in Education... Born November 30, 1967.

"David Newkirk is capable of giving us good play at nose guard. He has the athletic tools to play there. He just lacks experience. The problem is that he's not the only defensive lineman with that problem. None of them have played and you can't replace game experience. What I want this group to do is hustle and play with enthusiasm. If we do that, we have a chance to be competitive."

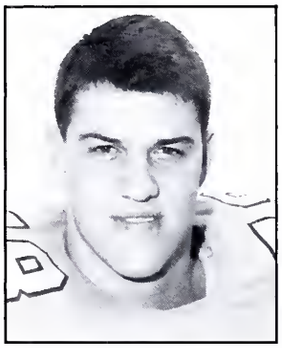
Mike Nusdeo

Defensive Back
6-0, 175, Junior
Orange, Conn.

Non-scholarship player who is a tough, hard-nosed competitor... Aggressive and active on the field... Worked at all four secondary spots in the spring... Didn't miss a practice... Attended Amity Regional High School and Milford Academy... Starting free safety for three years in high school and also at Milford... Won three high school letters in football, three in baseball and two in basketball... Football MVP as a senior... Leading tackler on his team, averaging 11 per game... All-district selection in both football and baseball... Coached in high school by Bill Johnson and at Milford by Vin Sinagra... Majoring in Studio Art... Born March 10, 1966.

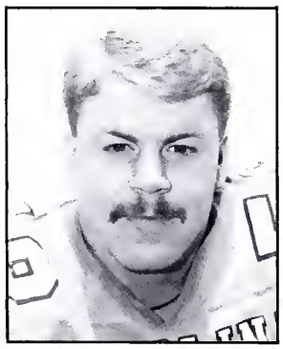


78

Andrew Oberg

Offensive Tackle
6-8, 264, Freshman
Rochester, Pa.

Good young prospect in the offensive line... Listed at quick tackle on the depth chart... Working behind Darrell Hamilton and Bill Boyd there... However, has the ability to play... Needs experience and repetitions on the practice field... Wasn't able to get those things during a red-shirt freshman season last fall... Needs to mature physically... A hard worker and an intelligent player... Expected to push Boyd for playing time this year... With starting tackles Hamilton and Creighton Incorminias both seniors, should see a lot of action in the future... Offensive and defensive tackle at Rochester High School... Played on a conference championship team as a sophomore... Team captain as a senior... All-region selection... Chosen to play in the Pennsylvania-Ohio Football Classic... Won three football letters... Coached by Dan Matsook... Also lettered once in track... His brother, Chris, played offensive tackle at Bucknell... In Carolina's General College... Born February 2, 1969.



72

Jay O'Hara

Nose Guard
5-11, 235, Freshman
Roxboro, N.C.

A linebacker last fall on the scout team... Shifted to nose guard during spring practice... Hard worker... Has a great desire to play... Needs to get bigger... Showed in the spring that he can make a contribution in the future... Played at Person County High School... Coached there by John Lacy Harris, a former Carolina player... Enrolled in the General College... Born March 2, 1969.

Jay Palmisano

Tailback
5-10, 177, Sophomore
Melbourne Beach, Fla.

One of three true freshmen to play last fall... Saw brief action in a game at Navy... Worked at wide receiver... Also played wide receiver in the spring... Moved to tailback at the end of spring practice... Hard to evaluate at this new position... Played tailback, fullback and strong safety at Melbourne High School... Won three football letters there... All-county, all-conference and all-area selection... Played on a district championship team in each of the last two seasons... Rushed for 850 yards as a senior and scored 12 touchdowns... Had a single-game high of 193 yards... Ran for 150 yards and scored three times in Melbourne's first win ever over arch-rival Palm Bay High... Started 33 straight games at Melbourne... Team MVP as a senior... Coached by Tom McIntyre... Played with fellow Tar Heel Bill Bollinger at Melbourne... Lettered twice in track... Has a sister, Lisa, who won a track scholarship to Troy State... A student in the General College... Born April 12, 1969.

30

Steven Penn

Wide Receiver
Pisgah Forest, N.C.

Reserve at wide receiver... Non-scholarship player who works at split end... Did a good job in spring testing, tying for the fourth-best vertical jump on the team at 32 inches... Wide receiver, safety and punter at Brevard High School... Had 20 receptions as a junior and 10 interceptions... Caught 39 passes as a senior, scored 13 touchdowns and intercepted 10 passes... Scored 17 career touchdowns and had 22 career interceptions... All-Western North Carolina as a defensive back as a junior and senior... All-conference as a senior... Team's defensive MVP as a junior and offensive MVP as a senior... As a junior, played on a 11-2 conference championship team which reached the state semi-finals... Team went 9-2 and tied for conference title in his senior year... Played in the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game... Had three catches for 77 yards in the East-West Game... Coached by Frank Robinson... Won three letters in football, four in golf and two in basketball... In the General College... Born November 19, 1968.

"To be successful at this level of competition, you've got to have non-scholarship players on your team. Walk-ons can mean so much to a program. They're a great help in practice and, quite honestly, that's where the contributions will come for most of them. But, if a guy has some ability, we'll give him a chance. You never know when you'll find a kid like Mike Chatham who went from walk-on to All-ACC here back in the late Seventies."

90

John Reed

Outside Linebacker
6-3, 221, Junior
Tampa, Fla.

Started the first nine games of the 1987 season at outside linebacker... Carolina's ninth-leading tackler with 30 solo hits and 22 assists... Had three sacks, two tackles for losses, seven quarterback pressures and two forced fumbles... Played an outstanding game at Maryland... Made three tackles against the Terps, assisted on three others, had two sacks for 16 yards in losses, was credited with two other quarterback pressures, had another tackle for a two-yard loss and forced a fumble... His other sack came at Georgia Tech where he also had four solo tackles and one assist... Had won his starting spot with a sensational performance during 1987 spring practice... A reserve defensive end in 1986, he had been red-shirted the previous year... Being counted on heavily for a big season this fall... Has experience and is going to get even better as he plays more... Has good toughness... A contact player and a solid hitter... His strength is playing on the tight end and rushing the passer... Improved his pass drop a great deal in the spring work... Put emphasis on that because he wants and needs to be a more versatile player... Is working to become a more disciplined player and made strides in that area during spring practice... Needs to be a little quicker to be an even better pass rusher... Plays with a lot of intensity and enthusiasm... Was a three-year starter at Hillsborough High School... Played defensive tackle and tight end... Had 85 solo tackles as a senior with 10 sacks and 20 tackles for losses... Caused four fumbles and recovered two... All-Northside, all-county and all-conference... Won all-state honors and was named to Florida's Cream of the Top list... Coached by Dick O'Brien... Earned three football letters and one in basketball... Majoring in Economics... Born January 20, 1966.

36

Joe Ruscillo

Fullback
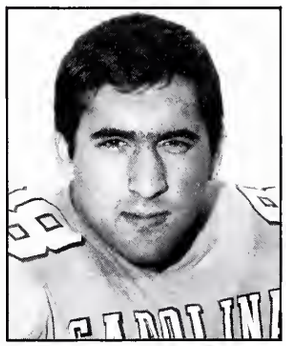
Franklin Square, N.Y.

Red-shirted as a defensive back last fall... Shifted to offense after the first week of spring practice... Needs to get stronger and be more physical before he can make a major contribution... Has the ability to run the football... Had three carries for seven yards in the Blue-White Game... Was a multi-purpose back at Valley Stream North High School... Played cornerback, wide receiver and quarterback... Also returned kicks... All-Nassau County as a wide receiver in his senior year... All-conference choice as a defensive back... Intercepted seven passes... Returned three punts and two kickoffs for touchdowns... Led his team in scoring... Coached by John Mieke... Had five catches for 125 yards in post-season New York High School All-Star Game... Also lettered in basketball... Studying in the General College at Carolina... Born December 18, 1968.



88

Alex Simakas

Defensive Tackle
6-4, 255, Sophomore
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Versatile player who could be used at any of the three positions in the defensive front... Listed as the number three man at all three spots on the pre-season depth chart... Capable of changing the depth chart with his summer work and fall practice... Was impressive at times last spring... However, was hampered by an ankle injury during most of the spring work... Tried to practice anyway... Didn't miss a lot of time on the field, but was slowed by the injury... Mentally tough and very determined... Plays hard and has good football sense... Saw only brief playing time last fall... Red-shirted in 1986... Comes from an excellent high school program and was well-schooled fundamentally when he arrived on campus... Was captain of his North Allegheny High School team as a senior... Played tight end and defensive end... Won first-team all-conference honors on offense and was a second-team choice on defense... Made nine catches for 110 yards and one touchdown... Was in on 95 tackles, including 52 solo hits... Recorded nine sacks and recovered three fumbles... Named to the PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE Fabulous 22 Team... Coached by Tim Vermillion... Lettered twice in football and three times in track... A Business Administration major... Born October 19, 1968.

Brad Smith

Tailback
6-0, 174, Freshman
Boardman, Ohio

Worked at wide receiver during a red-shirt season last fall... Switched to tailback after the first week of spring practice... Did a good job in the spring work... Was a pleasant surprise, moving into the number three tailback position... A very consistent player... Smart and tough... Doesn't have great speed, but is an elusive runner... Needs to get stronger... A record-setting tailback at Boardman High School... Also played defensive back there... Team captain as a senior... Missed several games in his final season because of an injury... Still rushed for 500 yards in six games... Had 85 carries, averaging 5.9 yards per attempt... Scored five touchdowns and caught 15 passes... All-conference selection... Gained a school-record 1,048 yards on 110 rushes as a junior... Also set records with 235 yards in one game and four touchdowns in a game... Coached by Bill Bohren... Won two letters in football, three in basketball and one in track... A General College student... Born August 31, 1968.

Walter Smith

Place-Kicker
5-11, 172, Freshman
Wilmington, N.C.

Soccer-style kicker... Non-scholarship player who came out for the team on his own... Had a PAT in the Blue-White Game... Handled place-kicking duties at New Hanover High... As a senior, made nine of 10 field goal attempts and 24 of 25 extra points... Longest field goal was 47 yards... Coached by Joe Miller... Lettered in football, baseball and soccer... Played on conference championship teams in baseball and soccer... Enrolled in the General College at Carolina... Born February 15, 1969.

Aaron Staples

Tailback
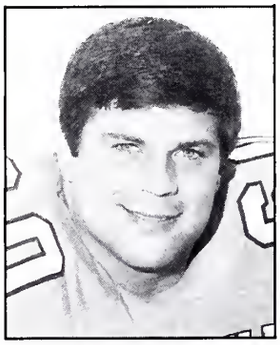
Fieldale, Va.

A reserve defensive back last fall... Saw only spot duty in the secondary with most of his action coming on special teams... Moved to tailback after eight practices last spring... Made great strides in a short time, finishing the drills as the number two player at the position... Heads into the fall as the top backup to Torin Dorn... Has a lot of natural ability... A hard-nosed, punishing runner... Has a knack for falling forward when tackled... Possesses fine speed and good running instincts... Needs to become more comfortable in the passing game... That should come with experience... Had 11 carries for 56 yards in the Blue-White Game and scored on a seven-yard run... Came to Carolina from Bassett High School... Played tailback and cornerback there... All-Piedmont selection three straight years and All-Timesland for two seasons... All-state choice as a senior... Piedmont Player of the Year as a junior, rushing for 1,150 yards... Averaged 6.9 yards a rush as a senior, gaining 1,468 yards on 213 carries... In one game he rushed for 231 yards and scored five touchdowns on just 15 carries... ROANOKE TIMES Top 25 in Virginia selection... Named his team's MVP and outstanding back for two years... Team captain as a senior and had his jersey retired... Coached by Jerry Cannady... Won three letters in football and track and two in basketball... RTVMP major... Born September 16, 1967.



60

Steve Steinbacher

Offensive Guard
6-4, 269, Senior
Newtown Square, Pa.

An experienced player in the offensive interior... Has seen a great deal of action in each of the past two seasons and is being counted on for plenty of playing time this fall... Goes into the new year as the starter at strong guard... A lot of competition is expected for that job, but he's capable of keeping it... Started five games last year, including four at left guard... Shared that spot with Ralph Phifer, but really played about 70 percent of the time... Got his season off to a great start against Illinois in the opener, grading 84 percent with four knockdowns and three pins... Played both guard and center in that game... Started at center for the injured Jeff Garnica at Navy and graded 84 percent with one pin and five knockdowns... Played as a backup early in 1986 at both guard positions... Tar Heels were able to roll Steinbacher, Phifer and Pat Crowley in and out of games, keeping fresh people in the lineup... Moved into a starting spot at left guard for the final four regular-season games and the Aloha Bowl... Was especially consistent as a starter... Played a great game that year against Maryland... Was in on 103 snaps against the Terps, working at both left guard and center... Did a fine job in relief at Wake Forest, grading 84 percent with eight knockdowns on just 46 plays... Saw some reserve action in 1985... Started one game at guard that year because of an injury to Pat Sheehan... Red-shirted in 1984... Intelligent player who doesn't make a lot of mental mistakes... Has played all five interior blocking positions since coming to Carolina... A fundamentally sound player who had a very steady spring... Had the third best vertical jump on the team in spring testing at 32.5 inches... Won three football letters at Radnor High School... Played offensive guard and defensive tackle... Team captain as a senior... All-league and all-county... Picked to the Main Line All-Star Team... Received Delaware County Coaches Association awards for being the county's best offensive lineman and defensive tackle... Played in the All-Star Hero Bowl... Coached by George Hopson... Lettered twice in basketball and served as team captain as a senior... His father, Donald, was an offensive lineman at Penn State under Rip Engle and Joe Paterno... Has a sister on the Carolina swimming team... His family has now moved to Greenville, S.C.... An Economics major... Born January 8, 1967.

17

Quarterback
6-4, 202, Freshman
Kensington, Md.

In the race for the number three quarterback job... His poise and decision-making were impressive in the spring... Needs to work on his arm strength... Completed five of 10 passes in the Blue-White Game for 21 yards... Red-shirted last fall... Two-year starting quarterback at Episcopal High School... Transferred there after playing at T.C. Williams High as a sophomore... Led Episcopal to a 13-6 record as the starter... Completed 98 of 152 passes for 1,872 yards as a junior and senior... Rushed 72 times for 264 yards... Northern Virginia passing leader among private school players in his senior year... Coached by Joe Robinson, who has since become the Tar Heel recruiting director... Won a total of three football letters and three in basketball during his high school career... All-conference and all-state in basketball... Episcopal's basketball record in his two years there was 42-8... His father, Richard, played quarterback at Navy in 1962 and 1963 and also was on the crew team... In the General College... Born January 7, 1968.

12

Brad Sullivan

Defensive Back
5-11, 185, Senior
Durham, N.C.

Has a chance to contribute in the secondary this fall... Originally came to Carolina in the fall of 1984 as a tailback and was red-shirted... Saw limited action the following season... Gave up the sport at that time to concentrate on running track... Decided to return to the team last spring... Really is an unknown quantity... A pulled hamstring limited his work in spring practice... However, has a lot of athletic ability... Smooth and agile on the field... Also has outstanding speed and quickness which the Tar Heels need in the secondary... Will get a long look when fall practice opens... Saw most of his playing time early in 1985... Ran for 60 yards in the third game against VMI and scored on eight and one-yard runs... Turned in a solid performance in the fourth game at Georgia Tech, rushing for 62 yards on 16 carries... Also caught four passes that day in his only career start... Sprained an ankle and only had two carries the next week... Got lost in a shuffle of players at the tailback spot and carried the ball just one time from scrimmage in the last six games... Became a sprinter for the Tar Heel track team... Owns school indoor records for 60-yard dash and 100 meters... Qualified for the NCAA Championships as a freshman in the 55-yard dash... Finished third in the 60 at the 1987 Millrose Games and fifth at 55 meters in the 1987 Vitalis Olympic Invitational... Track tri-captain last season... Was a track and football star at Hillside High School... Started at tailback there as a junior and senior... Rushed for over 1,500 yards... Averaged just under eight yards a carry as a senior... Team MVP... Had one game in which he gained 178 yards on only 16 carries and another in which he ran 11 times for 135 yards... Also played defensive back... Twice an all-conference and all-area selection... Coached by Sam Jones... Won three letters in football and four in track... Ran the 100 and 200 meters... Was fifth nationally in the 100 at the 1983 Junior Olympic competition... Chosen Durham's most outstanding male athlete by the Durham Sports Club in his senior year... Senior class president at Hillside... His brother, Dwight, was a fullback at N.C. State from 1977 to 1981... His father ran track at Alcorn A & M... Born July 22, 1966.

James Thompson

Fullback
Lumberton, N.C.

Starting fullback and an important man in the Tar Heel offense... Has developed into an outstanding blocker in his Carolina career... However, that will not be his primary role this fall... Also being counted on to help establish an inside running game in the new offense... Started all 11 games last year... Team's third-leading rusher... Gained 375 yards on 86 carries, averaging 4.4 yards a rush... Played a brilliant game at N.C. State with 17 knockdown blocks and 94 yards rushing... That was the most yards gained by a Tar Heel fullback since Eddie Colson had 119 against Wake Forest in 1983... Was the unsung hero in Carolina's dramatic come-from-behind victory at Georgia Tech, grading 85 percent on 72 plays and knocking down 11 defenders with his blocking... Added 42 yards on 10 carries... Had 11 knockdowns against Illinois and 49 yards rushing, his second-high game of the year... Finished the Maryland game at tailback because of injuries at that position and made no mistakes at that spot... Had also been the team's third-leading ground-gainer in 1986 with 341 yards... Averaged 4.7 yards a carry... Played as a backup early that season before starting the last six regular-season games and the Aloha Bowl... Moved into the starting lineup after Brad Lopp was injured at Wake Forest and has been a fixture there ever since... Played a sensational game that day against Wake... Rushed for a season-high 86 yards on 11 carries and had two catches... Carried on five of Carolina's last 11 plays in a 76-yard drive which killed the last 4:15 of the 40-30 victory... Gained 54 yards in that march as Wake tried desperately to get the ball back... Also had eight knockdowns as a blocker... Next best rushing performance was 72 yards on nine carries against Virginia... Also did an outstanding job of blocking that day as tailback Derrick Fenner ran for an Atlantic Coast Conference-record 328 yards... His only career touchdown came that season on a tackle-busting 11-yard run against Georgia Tech... Had not become a prominent player earlier in his career because of a leg injury... Injured a knee in the 1984 season and was red-shirted... The injury kept him out of spring practice in 1985 and he spent that entire fall trying to catch up to the other backs... Now rates as the team's most experienced back... Big, strong and powerful... Strength and toughness are two of his top assets... Showed last spring he has good running ability... Made great strides in the spring of executing the running game... Began to cut better as the drills went along... Had six carries for 32 yards in the Blue-White Game... Great leg strength makes him tough to bring down... Built low to the ground, he bounces off tacklers... A very durable player... A good leader and a hard worker... Leads by example and does a fine job in the weight room... Gained 1,056 yards on 126 carries at Lumberton High School as senior... Averaged 8.4 yards a rush and scored 13 touchdowns... Played his first three years at South Robeson High... Was all-conference at South Robeson as a junior and at Lumberton as a senior... Played in the same backfield as a senior with tailback Tim Worley, who went to Georgia... All-East 4-A selection... Named to the RALEIGH TIMES Top 25 in North Carolina... Chosen for the Shrine Bowl and the East-West All-Star Game... Coached by Bob Hanna, a former Tar Heel linebacker... Listed in America's Outstanding Names and Faces in 1984... A Speech major... Born December 5, 1965.

Bernard Timmons

Linebacker
6-2, 211, Sophomore
Fort Bragg, N.C.

Young player with a chance to be an outstanding linebacker... Goes into the fall battling Mitch Wike for the starting position at one inside spot... Saw reserve action behind Wike last year... Had 19 solo tackles and 13 assists... Intercepted a pass in the season opener against Illinois... Got his most action against Auburn... Came off the bench against the Tigers after Wike suffered an eye injury... Was in on 71 plays with eight tackles, six assists and one pass broken up... Because of injuries in the backfield, practiced at tailback the week before the Maryland game... Played one series at that spot against the Terps, gaining nine yards on five carries... Had practiced at tailback in 1986 while being red-shirted... Moved to linebacker the following spring... Has as much athletic ability as anyone on the team... Has good size, speed and quickness... Displayed all that last spring... Did an outstanding job throughout spring practice... Needs to get stronger and play with more consistency... Because of his ability and potential, he needs to be a factor on defense for the Tar Heels to be as strong as they possibly can... Being counted on to make major contributions, either as a starter or top reserve... A four-year starter at E.E. Smith High School... Played tailback and linebacker... Associated Press all-state selection at running back and named to the GREENSBORO NEWS & RECORD all-state team as a linebacker... All-East as a linebacker... Chosen to the ORLANDO SENTINEL All-South Team... Member of the DURHAM MORNING HERALD Sweet 16 and the RALEIGH NEWS & OBSERVER Top 15 in North Carolina... Rushed for 1,530 yards as a senior, averaging 9.2 yards a carry... Scored 18 touchdowns... Was Cumberland County Player of the Year... Had four-year totals of 3,868 yards rushing and 29 touchdowns... Dennis Tripp

Defensive Tackle
6-3, 245, Sophomore
Farmville, N.C.

A reserve at linebacker last fall who was switched to defensive tackle in the spring... That may have been the best personnel move made in the spring drills... Has a chance to be an outstanding player at this position... Worked his way into a starting spot with a fine spring showing... Could have been a good linebacker, but there were four players ahead of him at those spots... The team's need was in the defensive front and he will be a great help... Loves to play and competes every second he's on the field... A very intense player... Made the transition to tackle quickly... Gives the Tar Heels good quickness up front... Needs to get bigger and stronger, but has already started doing that... Originally came to Chapel Hill in the fall of 1986 and was red-shirted... A three-year starter at offensive guard and linebacker at Farmville Central High School... Won four letters in baseball, three in football, two in basketball, one in track and one in wrestling... Co-captain of the football, basketball and track teams as a senior... Played on two football teams which won conference championships... A two-time all-area and all-conference choice... All-East as a senior... Associated Press and GREENSBORO NEWS & RECORD all-state selection... Named to the DURHAM MORNING HERALD Sweet 16, the RALEIGH TIMES Top 25 in North Carolina and the RALEIGH NEWS & OBSERVER Top 15... Co-captain of North Carolina's Shrine Bowl team and also chosen for the East-West All-Star Game... Coached by Dixon Sauls... A two-year basketball starter who averaged 9.8 points and 8.2 rebounds... Conference champion in the shot put and as part of an 880-yard relay team... Also threw the discus and ran the intermediate hurdles... An Education major... Born February 13, 1967.

In the General College at Carolina... Born May 2, 1969.

"We're so young defensively that it's imperative we get good leadership from the few guys who do have some experience. Dan Vooletich could be that type of leader for us in the secondary. He's smart, understands the game and has gotten a lot of playing time. We're certainly going to be counting on him for more than just game action. He can provide some of the intangibles we need."

Defensive Coordinator

Dan Vooletich

Defensive Back
6-0, 188, Junior
Ann Arbor, Mich.

Ended spring practice as the starter at strong safety... Switched to that spot from weak safety during spring practice... Was the starter at weak safety in all 11 games last year... Did a good job at that position... Carolina's sixth-leading tackler with 36 solo hits and 38 assists... Recovered a fumble, intercepted two passes and broke up six others... Had a great day at Georgia Tech... Was all over the field, making nine tackles, assisting on four others and knocking down a pass... His fumble recovery came at Oklahoma, where he also was in on 10 hits... Both his interceptions were end zone steals against Virginia and Duke... Had played much of the 1986 season as a nickel back... Started the last two regular-season games against Virginia and Duke and also in the Aloha Bowl... Intercepted two passes against Virginia in his first start... Was in on 20 total hits during the year... Handled deep snaps in an emergency situation at Clemson that season after an injury to regular snapper Tony Cooper... Was red-shirted in 1985... Good, all-around athlete... Agile and moves his feet well... Tough and aggressive, he's a good hitter... Very intelligent player who made the move to strong safety easily... Very coachable young man... Plays hard and has a lot of savvy... Understands the game and the price one has to pay in order to play... Suffered a broken hand the second week of spring practice... Dave Wolfe

Nose Guard
6-3, 237, Sophomore
Boardman, Ohio

In his first season at nose guard... Worked at linebacker while being red-shirted in 1986 and then played outside linebacker last fall... Shifted to nose guard during spring practice... A completely new position to him... Had never played with his hands on the ground, even in high school... However, has potential at this spot... Needs practice time, but has a chance to contribute... His summer work and pre-season practice will determine how much action he sees this fall... Played defensive end at Boardman High School... Made 79 solo tackles as a senior and recorded nine quarterback sacks... His sacks and other tackles behind the line of scrimmage accounted for losses totalling 189 yards... Recovered three fumbles... All-Northeast Ohio and all-conference... Coached by Bill Bohren... One of 40 Carolina students selected for an honors program in Business... Born December 9, 1967.

Five Retired Jersies

Five Carolina football numbers— 22, 46, 50, 59 and 99— have been retired over the years in honor of the men who wore them.

The number 22 was almost as well known in this state as the athlete who wore it— Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice. One of college football's all-time superstars, Justice was an All-America halfback at Carolina from 1946 to 1949. In fact, those years generally are known as simply "The Justice Era" in Chapel Hill.

Justice still holds numerous school records, including the career total offense mark. A tailback in Coach Carl Snavely's single-wing attack, he was a dynamic weapon as a runner, passer, punter and return specialist. Justice is a member of the College Football Hall of Fame. A lengthy story on his career appears elsewhere in this book.

Bill "Cotton" Sutherland was a blocking back on the first of the Justice teams in 1946. Although just a freshman from Laurinburg, he showed great promise as a player and was extremely popular with his teammates.

However, in the spring of 1947 he was killed in an automobile accident. Snavely was stunned by the loss of Sutherland's life and was instrumental in geting his number 46 retired.

Number 50 belonged to Art Weiner, a two-time All-America end in the late Forties. It appeared Weiner was meant for stardom when he scored a touchdown on his first collegiate play. That came against Virginia Tech in 1946. He did not disappoint anyone.

In 1947 Weiner caught 20 passes for 396 yards, averaging 19.8 yards a reception. It was an amazing total considering that the Tar Heels were a power-packed team, loaded with talent and featuring a number of outstanding ends.

However, Weiner's figures were to get even more impressive. He won All-America honors as a junior, catching 31 passes and finishing seventh in the nation in receiving. As a senior he led the country in pass-catching with 52 receptions. That total still stands as the school single-season record. His 106 career catches are the second-most in Tar Heel history.

But, Weiner was more than just a great receiver. He was also a star defender in a time when players were expected to play both ways. In fact, his most famous play at Carolina probably was one he made on defense. He stormed through the Duke line to block a field goal attempt on the game's last play to preserve a 21-20 Tar Heel win over the Blue Devils in his senior year.

Weiner went on from Carolina to play in the Senior Bowl and was voted the game's outstanding lineman. He played briefly with the old New York Yankees, but a knee injury ended his career.

How great of a player was Weiner?

Well, Wally Butts of Georgia, one of the game's winningest coaches and himself a former end, once called Weiner "the greatest pass-catching end I've ever seen."

Another end, Andy Bershak, wore 59. Also a two-way performer, Bershak won All-America honors in 1939. He was a brilliant defensive player and a solid receiver, too.

Bershak also played basketball at Carolina. He wasn't a high scorer, but was a rugged rebounder and, as might be expected, an excellent defender.

However, Bershak believed there was more to life than just athletics. He tried to excel in every phase of student life and did so. He was an honor student and a member of the Order of the Golden Fleece and the Order of the Grail, the University's two most prestigious honorary societies. He also served as president of the Athletic Association.

A man with a great love for his alma mater, he stayed on at Carolina as a graduate assistant coach.

Unfortunately, his life came to a tragically early end. He came down with Bright's Disease and died in 1943.

Carolina's first All-America, George Barclay, wore the number 99. He was a three-year starter at offensive guard and linebacker. At 5-11 and 185 pounds, he excelled as a downfield blocker and was a tenacious tackler.

Barclay was a special thorn in the side of Virginia fans. In 1933 he intercepted a Cavalier pass and ran 35 yards for a touchdown as the Tar Heels scored a 14-0 victory. The following year he opened the game's scoring with a 55-yard interception return for a touchdown as Carolina won, 25-6.

Carolina posted a 7-1-1 record in his senior year as Barclay became the school's first All-America player. He later returned to Chapel Hill to coach the Tar Heels in the 1950's.

Tar Heelia

Academic All-Americas

Carolina's most recent is quarterback Kevin Anthony, a first-team selection in 1985. A complete list of Tar Heels who have won this honor is located on page 116 of this brochure.

Accommodations

There are numerous hotels and motels in the Chapel Hill, Durham and Research Triangle Park areas. However, on the weekend of a big game, space can be tight. Members of the media unable to make reservations of their own should contact the Carolina Sports Information Office (919) 962-2123. Magic can sometimes be worked there.

All-Americas

Twenty-two Carolina football players have received first-team All-America honors with numerous others gaining second and third-team recognition. The first-team selections stretch from guard George Barclay in 1934 to tackle Harris Barton in 1986 and include five players who were so honored in two different seasons: end Paul Severin in 1939 and 1940, halfback Charlie Justice in 1948 and 1949, end Art Weiner in 1948 and 1949, offensive guard David Drechsler in 1981 and 1982 and defensive tackle William Fuller in 1982 and 1983. More All-America data is available on pages 117-119.

All-Star Candidates

While Carolina has a number of players with the potential to be outstanding players, some have already attracted attention from the national and regional media in pre-season magazines and stories, based on their performances of the past. This group includes center Jeff Garnica, outside linebacker Antonio Goss, wide receiver Randy Marriott, offensive guard Pat Crowley and tailback Torin Dorn. All are legitimate contenders for post-season honors. There are some other players, such as offensive tackles Darrell Hamilton and Creighton Incorminias for example, who could join that list with big seasons.

Alumni

As of June 1, there were 169,715 living Carolina alumni. Of that total, 53 percent live in the state of North Carolina. But, alumni reside in all 50 states and in 123 foreign countries. One half of the undergraduate degrees have been awarded in the last 20 years.

Alumni Association

It's located in the Alumni House, next to the Carolina Inn, and is headed by Doug Dibbert, director of alumni affairs, and Bo Dunlap, assistant director. They can be reached at (919) 962-1208.

Alumni MVP

Defensive coordinator Carl Torbush won that title last spring when he was chosen the most outstanding player in the annual alumni football game at his alma mater, Carson-Newman.

Announcer

Field announcer at Kenan Stadium is Kearney Andrews of Lexington, N.C.

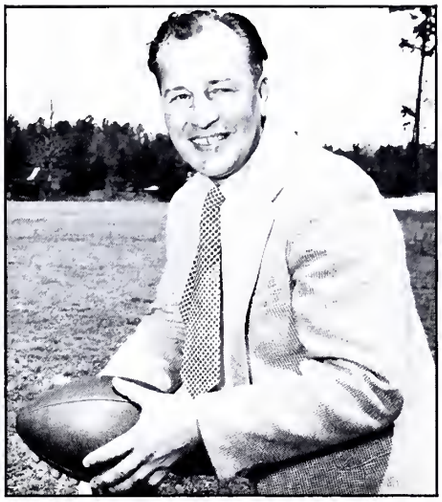
Atlantic Coast Conference

Carolina was a charter member of the Atlantic Coast Conference when it was formed in 1953. Other current members of the league are Clemson, Duke, Georgia Tech, Maryland, N.C. State, Virginia and Wake Forest. The league offices are located in Greensboro, N.C. Gene Corrigan is the conference commissioner and Marvin (Skeeter) Francis is assistant commissioner and director of the service bureau.

Bainbridge

When Charlie Justice signed up to enlist in World War II, he was asked which branch of the service he preferred. He told the draft board that since he couldn't swim, he should be in the army. Justice, of course, was immediately put in the navy and sent to Bainbridge Naval Training Station in Maryland. Each base fielded its own football team. Although lined up against college and professional stars, Justice, just out of high school, was an immediate sensation. Bainbridge went undefeated in 1943 and was ranked the number one service team in the country.

It was at Bainbridge that Charlie got his nickname. An observer commented, while watching him play, "Say, that Justice kid runs just like a choo choo train." The tag stuck and Charlie Justice became interchangeable with Choo Choo Justice. Charlie spent two seasons at Bainbridge before being shipped to Hawaii. He played there for the Pearl Harbor Navy All-Stars.



George Barclay not only was Carolina's first All-America, but also came back here to be head coach in the 1950's.

Barclay, George

Carolina's first football All-America in 1934. Barclay played offensive guard and linebacker. He was named captain of the 1934 team which went 7-1-1. Barclay later served as Carolina's head coach form 1953 to 1955.

Blanchard, Felix (Doc)

The great Army All-America fullback who actually began his college football career at Carolina. He enrolled at Chapel Hill in 1941. But, because of the war, the army took him away. He was enrolled at West Point where he became a three-time All-America and part of the famed Mr. Inside and Mr. Outside tandem with Glenn Davis. Blanchard won the Heisman Trophy in 1945.

Blanchard's son, Tony, was a star tight end at Carolina from 1968 to 1970 and still ranks as the 11th-leading receiver in school history.

Big Plays

Carolina has two players who have proven they can make them in Torin Dorn and Randy Marriott. In last year's season opener against Illinois, Dorn broke off 56 and 69-yard runs. However, a sprained ankle at the completion of that 69-yard sprint hampered him the rest of the fall. As a freshman in 1986, he had a 58-yard touchdown run against Arizona in the Aloha Bowl, longest in that bowl's history.

Marriott teammed up with quarterback Mark Maye on a 93-yard pass play last year at Georgia Tech, the longest ever at Carolina. In 1986 he caught an 82-yard pass from Maye at Duke. That equals the third-longest catch in school records.

Bowl Games

Carolina has gone bowling 16 times with 12 of those appearances coming in the last 18 years. The all-time Tar Heel bowl record is 6-10. Carolina's post-season trips have been to the Sugar Bowl in 1947 and 1949; the Cotton Bowl in 1950; the Gator Bowl in 1963, 1971, 1979 and 1981; the Peach Bowl in 1970, 1976 and 1983; the Sun Bowl in 1972, 1974 and 1982; the Liberty Bowl in 1977; the Bluebonnet Bowl in 1980; and the Aloha Bowl in 1986.

More information on these games can be found in the records section of this brochure.

Captains

Carolina's captains for this fall will be chosen during pre-season workouts. Tar Heel players will vote for captains following the conclusion of two-a-day drills.

Carmichael Cup

The Carmichael Cup, inaugerated by the Atlantic Coast Conference during the 1961-62 school year, was a memorial to the late William Donald Carmichael, Jr. of Chapel Hill. He served for many years as comptroller at Carolina. The Cup was awarded annually for excellence in all sports and really was a power rating of ACC athletic competition. Each of the officially recognized men's sports (one in which a conference champion was crowned) counted equally with the first-place finisher receiving eight points, the second-place team seven and so on down the line.

The league voted to drop the trophy after North Carolina won it nine times in 10 years and shared it the other season.

Chapel Hill

Home of the University of North Carolina, the town traces its history back to 1792 when it was known as New Hope Chapel Hill. It was named for New Hope Chapel, a church located atop a hill.

Today, the town has about 36,000 permanent residents. However, when the University is in session, the population goes above 65,000. Because of the University's presence, the town is like a cosmopolitan city, but it still maintains the charm of a village.

Chapel Hill was rated the third best place to live nationally out of 329 metro areas surveyed in the 1985 Places Rated Almanac, published by Randy McNally. It is part of an urban region known as the Research Triangle. Time Magazine named this area "one of the 20 nicest places to live in the United States." It was also rated in two other recent surveys as being among the five best places to live in America.

Cheerleaders

Tar Heel cheerleaders for the 1988-89 school year are Erica Bryant of Marietta, Ga.; Chris Chalfant of Concord, N.C.; Richard Cox of Clemmons, N.C.; Lisa Edwards of Florence, S.C.; Mark Evans of Washington, N.C.; Brooke Ferguson of Charlotte, N.C.; Tom Haizlip of Raleigh, N.C.; Kelley O'Donnell of Charlotte, N.C.; Shea Roberts of Myrtle Beach, S.C.; Donna Sigmon of Claremont, N.C.; T.J. Snyder of Cobleskill, N.Y.; Marc Turner of Charlotte, N.C.; Jeff Varner of Greensboro, N.C.; Doug Venable of Charlotte, N.C.; Mary White of Winston-Salem, N.C.; and Billy Worsley of Washington, N.C.

Cheerleading

None allowed in the press box.

Coeds

There are plenty of them in Chapel Hill. In fact, there are many more women students at Carolina than there are men. But, that has not always been the case.

Women first registered for admission to Carolina in 1896. They were required to be Chapel Hill residents and were admitted only as graduate students or upper level transfers. Five coeds registered, the first being Mary S. MacRae, daughter of the law school dean. Of the five, Sally Walker Stockard received the first earned degree in 1898.

The first women freshmen were admitted in 1917. In 1925 admission was revoked except in pre-medicine, pharmacy and chemistry. Regulations regarding the admission of coeds changed several times during the next 40 years.

In 1965 women were first accepted as freshmen without the special restrictions of being a Chapel Hill resident; living with their parents or husbands; or planning to study in the following areas: art, music, dramatic art or dental hygiene and, for North Carolina residents only— medical technology, nursing, pharmacy or physical therapy. However, the number of women was kept to a minimum because of limited dormitory space.

All restrictions were lifted and women had as much of a chance as men of getting into Carolina in 1972. An equal percentage of men and women were admitted in 1975. Last spring the campus was 57 percent female and 43 percent male.

CoSIDA

College Sports Information Directors of America.

Davie, William R.

"The Father of the University," a revolutionary patriot, a governor of North Carolina and the recipient of the University's first honorary doctor of laws degree. A graduate of Princeton, Davie was a cavalry officer in the Revolutionary War and a delegate to the Philadelphia Constitutional Convention of 1787.

Davie persuaded this state's new legislature to charter the University, the first state institution in the country. Ratification occurred just 20 days after North Carolina ratified the U.S. Constitution. Only days after the University was chartered, a bill was introduced to provide building fund and support for the school through escheats and tax exemptions. Davie prepared the ordinance fixing the seat of the University and played a leading role in the construction of buildings and the selection of the faculty. Davie steered a building loan through the General Assembly in December of 1791 which was the only state appropriation for the University until after the Civil War.

Davie, as grand master of masons, laid the cornerstone to Old East, now the oldest state university building in the nation, on October 12, 1793.

Dorsett, Tony

The only major college player other than Carolina's Amos Lawrence to rush for 1,000 yards in four straight seasons. Lawrence gained 1,211 yards in 1977, had 1,043 in 1978, ran for 1,019 in 1979 and then had 1,118 in 1980.

Duke

Alma mater of new Carolina Chancellor Paul Hardin. It is situated just eight miles from Chapel Hill, near enough so its students can come to Carolina and have a good time. This is the school where Lefty Driesell was taught English and Richard Nixon studied law. Trails Carolina in the all-time football series, 38-32-4.

Durham, Woody

Now in his 18th year of handling radio play-by-play commentary for the North Carolina Tar Heels. Durham, a 1963 Carolina graduate, has the most recognizable voice in the entire state as Tar Heel games can be heard anywhere in North Carolina. He's famous for his meticulous preparation for every broadcast. Durham is vice-president and executive sports director of the Village Companies in Chapel Hill, loves to play golf and has been voted North Carolina sportscaster of the year so many times the award may be retired.

Educational Foundation

This is the organization which raises funds for athletic scholarships at Carolina. Founded in 1938, the Foundation has helped over 5,000 men and women attend college. It has a current scholarship budget of $2.25 million for the 1988-89 school year. While large contributions are needed to meet this budget, one can join the Foundation with a $50 membership fee. Information on the Foundation, its purposes and how to join can be obtained by calling (919) 962-2393. Mary Baggett, whose voice is almost as well known to members as that of endowment director Ernie Williamson, will handle your call and get you to the appropriate person to answer your questions.

Equipment Room

Facilities

Carolina's are among the best in the nation and getting better all the time. The Student-Athlete Development Center at Kenan Stadium features the best equipment available to help young people with their studies and a weight room that is second to none on a college campus. The Tar Heel football locker room was renovated last spring and the expansion of the stadium over the summer has included the construction of a football lettermen's lounge. Much of the credit for all this should go to Paul Hoolahan, associate athletic director at Carolina. However, he would prefer to get credit for helping Don McCauley break O.J. Simpson's NCAA rushing record in 1970 when he was an All-Atlantic Coast Conference tackle.

First Game

Carolina's first football game was played against Wake Forest on October 18, 1888. The site was the State Fair in Raleigh.

The University was represented by a team of sophomores who had defeated the rest of the student body and was looking for new opposition. A game with Wake Forest sophomores was arranged. The rules of "foot ball" were vastly different then than they are now. In fact, there were very few rules at all. However, according to THE NEWS AND OBSERVER of Raleigh, "the game was exciting and was played by excellent teams on both sides. It was witnessed by a tremendous crowd. The players were uniformed and were a skilled and active set of boys."

Each goal counted two points and Wake won the game, 6-4. This was the first intercollegiate game of "foot ball" played in the state of North Carolina.

Forward Pass

Carolina has been given credit for throwing the first forward pass in the game. The immortal John Heisman is the man who gave that distinction to the Tar Heels in a 1928 edition of Collier's Weekly. Heisman had witnessed the event in a Carolina-Georgia game played in Atlanta on October 26, 1895. More information on the play is available on page 135 of this brochure.

Franklin Street

Most famous street in North Carolina. It's the main thoroughfare through downtown Chapel Hill. However, there are other streets and roads in this college town with famous names. Among them are Justice, Weiner, Barclay, Severin, Branch, Fetzer and Hartig. All were named for important figures in Carolina's football history.

General College

All freshmen and sophomores are enrolled in the University's General College and must complete 13 to 14 general education courses along with about seven free electives. The general education courses reflect the faculty's thoughts on what students will need to lead productive and meaningful lives. These courses are in English, mathematics, the sciences, history and foreign language. They provide the foundation for balanced development and are taken by all students, regardless of intended fields of study.

Also, the General College provides students with a chance to explore different areas of interest and to recognize personal strengths and weaknesses while selecting a major field of study and preparing for a lifetime of learning.

The General College features extensive guidance and personal counseling to students. Each student receives personal assistance and encouragement in selecting courses and maintaining scholastic standards from an adviser, a regular, full-time member of the University faculty.

Hark The Sound (alma mater)

Hark the sound of Tar Heel voices
Ringing clear and free
Singing Carolina's praises
Shouting UNC
Hail to the brightest star of all
Clear its radiance shine
Carolina priceless gem
Receive all praises thine.

Chorus
I'm a Tar Heel born
I'm a Tar Heel bred
And when I die
I'm a Tar Heel dead.
So it's RAH, RAH
Car'lin-a lin-a
RAH, RAH, Car'lin-a lin-a
RAH, RAH, Car'lin-a lin-a
RAH! RAH! RAH!

Homecoming

Every football weekend is a good one to be in Chapel Hill, but Homecoming has always been special to many alumni. Reunions are often planned around this date.

Homecoming this fall will be October 22 when the Tar Heels face Georgia Tech. Kickoff time will be 2 p.m. In a break from tradition, students will hold the annual Homecoming parade on Saturday morning. This march through campus has occurred on Friday afternoons in the past. However, it was moved to Saturday this year so more returning alumni and fans could watch it.

Ideas

Most of the ones that turn up in the Carolina Sports Information Office are stolen from others. For example, the idea for this section of the Tar Heel football brochure came from Purdue. A similar listing has appeared in Boilermaker football guides for years and the idea was brought to Carolina by Assistant SID Dave Lohse, a former student on the Purdue sports information staff.

Jobe, Frank

Famed shoulder specialist in Los Angeles who performed surgery on Tar Heel quarterback Jonathan Hall and last year's Carolina starter, Mark Maye. Jobe is also the doctor who operated on the shoulder of Chicago Bears quarterback Jim McMahon.

Justice, Charlie

The most famous of all Carolina football players, Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice is regarded by many as the greatest all-around player in the history of the South. Justice, a triple-threat tailback from a single-wing formation, starred on Tar Heel teams from 1946 to 1949. He helped spark Carolina to two Sugar Bowl appearances and one trip to the Cotton Bowl. He still holds many school total offense and punting records.

Justice was the subject of a book, "Choo Choo, the Charlie Justice Story," by Bob Quincy and Julian Scheer and of a song, "All The Way Choo Choo," by Orville Campbell and Hank Bebee. Charlie and his wife, Sarah, now live in Cherryville, N.C., but he is a frequent visitor to Chapel Hill. A profile on Justice can be found on pages 120 and 121 of this publication.

Kenan Stadium

Home of Carolina's Tar Heels and called by Inside Sports magazine one of the five best places in the country to watch a college game. Capacity at the stadium has been expanded to 52,000 over the summer with the addition of 2,000 new seats in a prime location— between the 40-yard lines on each side of the field. Room was made for the additional seats by the destruction of the old press box and chancellor's box. A new press box has been added to the top of the stadium's south side. Surrounded by trees, the stadium is in a natural valley and a beautiful setting. More information on Kenan can be found on pages 66 and 67 of this brochure.

Kenan, William Rand, Jr.

Benefactor of Kenan Stadium. A native of Wilmington, N.C., Kenan was an 1894 Carolina graduate who lettered in both football and baseball. During his work on campus, he discovered carbide, laying a foundation for success in chemistry, engineering and building. His skill as an engineer and his ability as a director of great enterprises put him in demand all over the world. In railway transportation, gas lighting, water and electric power, hotel and real estate operation, he became one of the financial and industrial leaders of his generation.

Kenan Stadium was built as a memorial to his parents, William R. Kenan and Mary Hargrave Kenan. He was an 1864 Carolina graduate and she was a Chapel Hill native.

Kicking Game

This is an area of special concern to Carolina Coach Mack Brown. Last year's kicker-of-all-trades Kenny Miller is gone and the search is on for a new punter and place-kicker. Cannon Watson ended the spring as the number one place-kicker with Scott McAlister the top punter. However, Watson saw only brief action two years ago as a kickoff man and McAlister has never been in a college game. Since he's going to have an inexperienced player on the field anyway, Brown wants to look at some incoming freshmen this fall before settling on his kickers.

Lettermen's Day

The Louisville game has been officially designated as Lettermen's Day. In conjunction with the 100th anniversary of Carolina football, an effort is being made to get as many former Tar Heel lettermen as possible back in Kenan Stadium that day.

Lights

Kenan Stadium will have permanent lights for the first time this fall. Installed over the summer was a General Electric low-mount system which minimizes the height of the lightpoles. It is similar to the system used at Soldier Field in Chicago.

However, there have been two games played here under the lights in the past. Portable lights were brought into Kenan for the 1983 Duke and the 1987 Clemson games. Those games had late afternoon starts so they could be televised. Lights were a necessity since they finished after dark.

Linebackers

Over the years Carolina has produced as many outstanding linebackers as any school in the South. Six Tar Heel linebackers were still active in the National Football League last year, including Pro Bowlers Lawrence Taylor and Mike Wilcher. More information on Carolina's star linebackers can be found on page 130 of this publication.

LT

Not only the greatest linebacker in Carolina history, but regarded by many as the best ever to play the game. In 1980 Lawrence Taylor was the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year and a consensus All-America. He had a school-record 16 sacks that season for 127 yards in losses. Taylor was chosen second in the NFL draft behind Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers.

Mack Attack

That was the name given to the potent offense Mack Brown put together as offensive coordinator at LSU in 1982. The Tigers, 3-7-1 in 1981, improved to 8-2-1 and earned a berth in the Orange Bowl. LSU averaged over 400 yards a game in offense.

Mason, Morris

Longtime equipment manager at Kenan Fieldhouse. Mason served in that capacity from 1927 to 1973, an incredible 46-year period. It has been said that he came with the stadium since his first year on the job was also the initial season Kenan Stadium was used. Although he did not travel with the team in his first year, Mason saw every Tar Heel football game, home and away, for the next 45 seasons. In that period he became a friend and confidant to a multitude of Carolina players. He's retired now, but can always be found in Kenan Stadium on a Football Saturday.

McNair, Lailee

A Carolina cheerleader in the early 1970's who was one of the most photographed coeds on campus. Posing pretty girls with football players used to be a common practice on most college campuses. It was a sure way to get the player's picture in the newspapers. However, that practice has died out in most places, probably a result of the women's liberation movement as much as anything. Lailee also helped Coach Bill Dooley organize the first group of Sweet Carolines at Carolina. The sister of Tar Heel tennis All-America Freddy McNair, Lailee is now married to former U.S. Davis Cupper Erik Van Dillen.

Lailee McNair

Morehead Patterson Bell Tower

Located next to Kenan Stadium and generally referred to as simply the "Bell Tower." The 172-foot tower is built on a knoll and rises 200 feet above the campus. It contains a 10-bell carillon which calls students to class, provides twilight music and serenades football fans.

The Bell Tower was dedicated on November 26, 1932, just prior to the Carolina-Virginia football game. A replica of the famous West Point chime, the tower was the $100,000 gift of John Motley Morehead, then American ambassador to Sweden, and Rufus Lenoir Patterson II, a New York tobacco manufacturer. A concert, played entirely by hand, was heard 12 miles away in Durham. Students in the UNC Department of Music were bell ringers, playing the tower's carillon and presenting evening concerts and programs for special campus events until the late 1960's. Then an electronic control system for the chimes and a clock was installed.

The bells range in weight from 300 pounds to almost two tons. The bell tower has a four-faced clock and is crowned with a spire. The area surrounding the tower base was landscaped during the structure's construction and now is a small garden with pathways lined by boxwood hedges.

Morehead Planetarium

More than three million visitors have been attracted to the nation's first university affiliated— and the South's first— planetarium since it opened its doors in 1949. NASA astronauts from the Mercury expeditions through initial Space Shuttle flights used the facility as a celestial navigation training center.

The nucleus of the building is the Star Theater where presentations feature such topics as cosmology, black holes, space travel, sky watching, stars, galaxies and science fiction.

The planetarium also houses a 24-inch telescope and free art and scientific exhibitions, including a 35-foot walk-in Copernician Orrery, which demonstrates the movements of the planets and moons in the solar system. A sundial surrounded by a wide variety of hybrid rose bushes is located on the building's north side.

Planetarium shows are held nightly with additional shows on weekends.

Morehead Scholars

Two members of the current Tar Heel football team, Bill Hollister and Pete Henry, are attending Carolina on Morehead Scholarships, the most prestigious academic grants awarded by the University.

The Morehead program was established in 1951 by the late John Motley Morehead, a North Carolina native and an 1891 UNC graduate. The awards, which provide all-expense paid undergraduate educations at Carolina, are worth more than $32,000 to in-state students and $42,000 to out-of-state students for four years. Selection is based on merit and achievement, leadership and service, character, academic standing and motivation.

Morehead Scholars receive eight-to-12-week summer internships annually to supplement classroom work with practical experience through departments of public safety, major corporations, outdoor leadership schools and independent travel-study abroad.

The program is one of the largest and most lucrative scholarship ventures of its kind for undergraduate students. The awards are patterned after the Rhodes Scholarships at Oxford University in England. About 60 awards are presented annually. More than 1,600 Morehead Scholars have graduated from Carolina. Almost 250 were enrolled during the 1987-88 academic year.

N.C. Memorial Hospital

Opened in 1952, N.C. Memorial Hospital was designed to serve the state as an institution that would care for seriously ill citizens while serving as a teaching resource at Carolina. The hospital stands on a hillside among many health care facilities, including the UNC medical, nursing, public health, dental and pharmacy schools and N.C. Jaycee Burn Center, comprising one of the most outstanding medical complexes in the country. Chapel Hill boasts more physicians per capita than any community its size in the nation.

N.C. Memorial has about 600 patient beds and more than 160 outpatient clinics. Their services range from general medical care to treatment for specialized problems. The hospital's services include family-centered maternal and infant care and outpatient surgery. Carolina's students, thus, have access to the best in medical care if it should be needed.

N.C. State

Alma mater of Tar Heel offensive coordinator Darrell Moody. State's campus is neatly divided by railroad tracks right through the heart of it. The school's fight song was written by some original young Wolfpacker to that well-known sports melody, "As The Caissons Go Rolling Along." Formerly, North Carolina A&M, State trails Carolina in the all-time football series, 52-19-6.

Bumper stickers like this were big hits with Tar Heel fans in 1974, as was the running of James (Boom Boom) Betterson.

Nicknames

No college athlete may have ever had a more famous nickname than Choo Choo Justice. But, the Tar Heels have had a lot of other players with popular monikers. In the early part of the sport's history here, there were Mink Cunningham, Bull Council, Monk McDonald, Goat Randolph, Rabbitt Bonner, Ox Shuford, Icky Garrett and Runt Lowe. Then came Sweet Jim Lalanne, Snuffy Stirnweiss, Goo Goo Gantt and Rip Hawkins.

The Seventies saw Boom Boom Betterson, Rocket Man (Mel Collins), Space Cowboy (Mike Voight), Famous Amos Lawrence and Billy The Horse Johnson. More recently, some of Carolina's players have been known simply by their initials. Lawrence Taylor was thus just LT and Kelvin Bryant was KB.

Norfolk, Va.

City which has produced five different All-Atlantic Coast Conference football players at Carolina, more than any other town. Those players are Buddy Payne (1957), Gene Brown (1972), Mike Mansfield (1972), Amos Lawrence (1977 and 1980) and Ricky Barden (1978 and 1979).

In addition, seven other Tar Heel All-ACC performers have been from the general Tidewater area of Virginia: Mike Voight (1975 and 1976), William Fuller (1981, 1982 and 1983) and Larry Griffin (1985) of Chesapeake; Chris Hanburger (1963 and 1964), Ron Spruill (1981 and 1982) and Walter Bailey (1986) of Hampton; and Lawrence Taylor (1980) of Williamsburg.

Officials

The Atlantic Coast Conference operates with a seven-man crew: a referee, umpire, head linesman, field judge, line judge, side judge and back judge. However, Tar Heel rivals in the league simply refer to each as "Carolina ref."

Old Well

The visual symbol of the University, the Old Well is pictured frequently on school literature, Christmas cards and student souveniers. Originally the sole water supply for campus, the Old Well still serves as a popular water fountain with water supplied by the town of Chapel Hill.

The original well was dug before 1800. The structure consisted of eight square wooden columns, windlass and a top of slanted boards. In 1896 health officials ordered the open well closed and the University installed a hand pump. At that time, the present decorative form was given to the structure. The pump was replaced by a drinking fountain in 1925. In 1954 the University renovated the well again, replacing a concrete base with stone, the roof with new steel covered with copper sheeting and the old wood fountain with one of Grawol granite from Sweden. Brick walks were added at that time as were nearby benches and plants.

Operation Football

A whirlwind media tour of the Atlantic Coast Conference's eight member schools during pre-season football drills. Writers and broadcasters meet with players and coaches from each team and observe practice. The longest-running such trip still in existence, the tour results in ACC football getting a lot of media attention over a 10-day period. Wagonmaster for this journey is Marvin "Skeeter" Francis, ACC assistant commissioner and service bureau director.

Pecan Pie

A popular dessert in the South and prepared wonderfully at a number of Chapel Hill restaurants. Best served heated and a la mode. Carolina Athletic Director John Swofford and SID Rick Brewer have been known to skip their entrees completely just to get to this delicacy quicker.

Photo Armbands

Photographers will not be allowed on the Kenan Stadium sidelines without an armband. They can be picked up in the press box prior to each game. However, each photographer must pick up his or her own armband.

Picture Day

Picture Day this year for Mack Brown's Tar Heels will be Sunday, August 21, in Kenan Stadium. Starting time is 3 p.m.

Pines

These are the tall trees which so magnificently surround Kenan Stadium. There is an old story that when Mr. Kenan gave the stadium to the University, he did so on condition that the stadium never rise higher than the tops of the trees. That's why expansion of the stadium has been done gradually over the years as the trees have continued to grow. It's a great story, but it's not true.

The Pines also was a famous restaurant in Chapel Hill for many years. Tar Heel coaches had many of their press conferences there. When Bill Dooley was coaching at Carolina he always had a back room reserved the night of each home game. He and his coaching staff would gather there with friends for a late dinner. The Pines was destroyed by fire, but a new building was constructed on the same property. It also carried the name The Pines for a while, but now operates as Slug's at The Pines. It is one of several restaurants in North and South Carolina run by Slug Claiborne of Charlotte.

Practice

North Carolina practices daily during the football season on Navy Field. This complex includes three complete football fields, one of them covered by artificial turf for special uses. Located on Ridge Road, Navy Field is just a short walk from Kenan Fieldhouse and the Tar Heel locker rooms.

Carolina practices are open to the media. However, members of the press should check by the Carolina Sports Information Office to pick up an admission pass.

Press Conferences

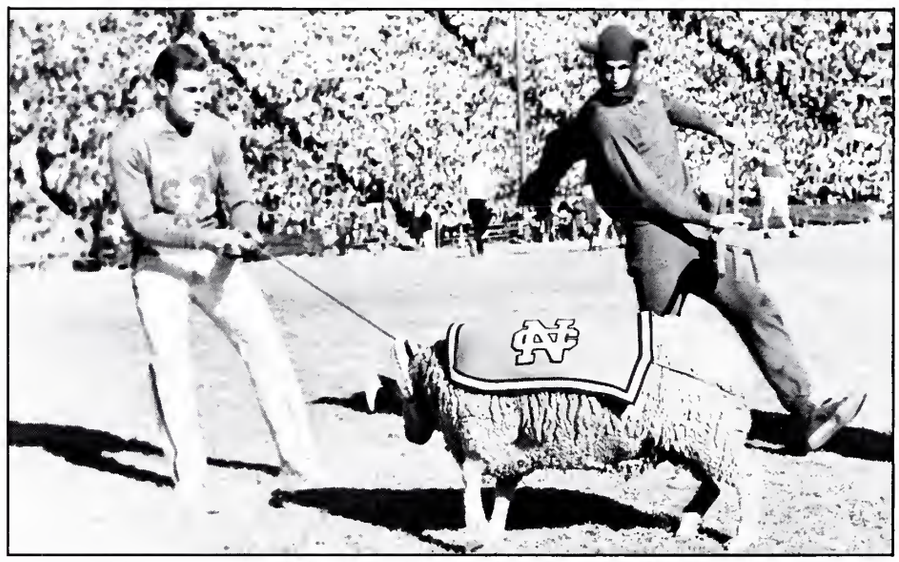
Mack Brown meets with the media each Tuesday preceding a game during the football season. Television and radio tapes are done at 11:30 a.m. with lunch served at noon. Brown has a question-and-answer session with newspapermen following the meal.

Professional Players

A list of former Tar Heel players who have also played professional football can be found on pages 136 and 137.

Radio Network

The Tar Heel Football Network includes over 60 stations in three states. The Network is operated by Village Companies of Chapel Hill with Diane Smith as manager and Jim Heavner as executive producer. Woody Durham is beginning his 18th season of handling the play-by-play work with Freddy Kiger adding color commentary.



A Rameses of the past prepares to duel with one of those intelligent Duke Blue Devils. Only someone with a Duke education could come up with a costume like that.

Rameses

The Tar Heel football mascot. A white ram has served in this capacity since 1924. Cheerleader Vic Huggins brought the original Rameses to campus. He had decided on a ram as a mascot by linking it with the nickname of Tar Heel star Jack Merritt, a fullback known as "The Battering Ram." Rameses has been a fixture ever since.

He's easily the finest mascot in the Atlantic Coast Conference since live animals are much better at this line of work than students dressed up in ridiculous costumes. Rameses has his most fun prior to the Duke game when he tries to outwit Blue Devil students trying to ramnap him. An old story that Richard Nixon, while a law student at Duke, was involved in an attempt to heist the Tar Heel mascot was denied by the White House during his presidency. Of course, a lot of other things were also denied by the White House in those days, too.

The current Carolina mascot is Rameses IXI.

Rathskeller

Better known as simply The Rat. Located in Amber Alley on Franklin Street, The Rat is a longtime favorite of Carolina students and alumni for food and drink. Established in 1946, The Rat serves sandwiches and pizza for lunch and complete dinners at night. In addition to food, you can also find out who's going to win Saturday's college football games, the name of the next heavyweight champion of the world and how far ahead of the opposition the Dodgers are in the National League West if your waiter happens to be Davis Blackwell. Like most of The Rat's waiters, Davis has been around so long the place wouldn't be the same without him.

Retired Numbers

Five football numbers have been retired at Carolina: 22 for Charlie Justice, 46 for Cotton Sutherland, 50 for Art Weiner, 59 for Andy Bershak and 99 for George Barclay. More information on these retired numbers can be found on page 48 of this media guide.

Return Men

Carolina has been blessed over the years with a number of exciting punt and kickoff return artists, including some of the best the college game has ever seen. The most famous, of course, was Charlie Justice. Justice has both the highest kickoff and punt return averages in school history. Choo Choo averaged 26.6 yards on 31 kickoff returns, including a 90-yarder for a touchdown against Florida in 1946. As a punt return man, Justice had a 14.2 average on 68 attempts. He brought back four punts for touchdowns— 70 yards against Florida in 1946; 84 yards against Georgia and 50 yards against Virginia in 1948; and 75 yards against William and Mary in 1949.

However, there are some longtime observers of football in this state who say Justice might not have been the school's best at returning punts. They say Johnny Branch was unsurpassed in that area. Unfortunately, complete season records for 1929 and 1930 are unavailable so it is impossible to get an accurate average-per-return for Branch. But, as a senior in 1931 he averaged 19.8 yards on 10 returns. His career average had to be an incredible figure as evidenced by that season and partial records of his long plays the two previous years.

As a sophomore, Branch didn't play fulltime as he was just one of the stars on the famous "Team of a Million Backs." However, he did have a 60-yard punt return against Georgia Tech and another of 43 yards against Maryland. In 1930 he had punt returns covering 63, 68, 85 and 96 yards. The 85-yard sprint was for a touchdown against Virginia Tech, while the 96-yarder, still the longest in Tar Heel history, accounted for a score against Maryland. As a senior, the 5-5, 150-pound Branch had a 44-yard touchdown return against Virginia.

Other top punt return men have included George Stirnweiss, Hugh Cox, Dick Dashiell, Bud Carson and Greg Poole. James Betterson, Ken Willard and Don McCauley excelled in the kickoff return spot.

Rivalries

The Tar Heels have a lot of big ones in the Atlantic Coast Conference, seven to be exact. It's no secret that in league competition, Carolina is the team all other schools in the ACC would like to beat the most. That's why what has been accomplished here in athletics over the years is so amazing— the fact that everytime the Tar Heels take the field in an ACC event, they're facing an opponent ready to give its top effort of the year.

Now who does Carolina consider its biggest rival? One would get seven different answers from a group of Tar Heel fans. Safest reply is probably, "whoever the next opponent is."

Road Trip

The most famous road trip in Carolina football history was made by the 1892 team which played three games in four days, winning them all. The Tar Heels departed Chapel Hill by train on Tuesday, November 22, for Atlanta. They arrived at noon the following day and blasted Auburn, 64-0. It was back on a train that evening for a ride to Nashville and a 24-0 win over Vanderbilt on Thursday. Carolina then went back to Atlanta for a 26-0 victory over Virginia on Saturday.

Earlier in the year, the Tar Heels had played two other games on successive days, winning at Richmond, 40-0, and losing to Virginia in Charlottesville, 30-18. A 24-0 win over Trinity (now Duke) gave Carolina a final 5-1 record with all games played away from home. It was a road show not even Hope and Crosby would be able to top.

Secretaries

Trying to keep up with Carolina's workaholic football staff is an outstanding group of secretaries. The office supervisor and Mack Brown's personal secretary is Becky Medford. Like Coach Brown, she's in her first year in the football office, but has already proven to be a great addition to the program. Maria Smith and Nana Morelli handle the assistant coaches, Teresa Pollard works on recruiting with Joe Robinson and Joyce Goodwin is the main support for the academic support staff.

Simpson, O.J.

Former Southern California All-America tailback whose NCAA single-season rushing record was broken by Carolina's Don McCauley in 1970. McCauley ran for 1,720 yards that season. Simpson's old record of 1,709 had been set in 1968.

Smith

The most popular surname of Tar Heel football lettermen. There have been 19 lettermen named Smith, 17 players and two managers. The first was a manager, William Hopton Smith, in 1903. The first player was John Franklin Smith, a tackle, in 1932. The most recent was Quinton Smith, a wide receiver last fall. The Carolina Smiths have been Bennie, Bill, Bob, Brian, Charles, Chip, Darryl, Dick, Foyell Pennington, Jan, John Franklin, Mark, Mike, Moyer, Quinton, Robbie, Roger, Wade and William Hopton.

There are two Smiths on this year's squad: Brad, a tailback, and Walter, a place-kicker.

Sports Information Office

The Carolina Sports Information Office is located on the main office level of the Smith Center. Rick Brewer is beginning his 14th year as its director and his 21st as a staff member. He's directly responsible for the publicizing of the Tar Heel football team. However, his two assistants, Dave Lohse and Scott Jared, also help with the many things that have to be done in an office which handles a major college football program. Lohse, in fact, edits the game programs sold in Kenan Stadium each Saturday. The staff also includes intern Steve Kirschner, secretary Lee Snyder and a group of student workers headed by veterans Mike Hill, Jon Vaden and Steve Walston.

Sweet Carolines

This is a group of Carolina coeds who are of great assistance in the football office. During the week they help the secretarial staff with a wide range of duties. On Saturdays of home games they act as hostesses for prospective student-athletes and their parents who are visiting the campus.

Tailgating

Part of the tradition of a Football Saturday in Chapel Hill is eating off the back of a car before heading into the stadium. Most popular tailgate food is fried chicken. However, there is a varied menu throughout the parking lots around Kenan Stadium. Some fans now set up grills and have charbroiled hamburgers, hot dogs and steaks.

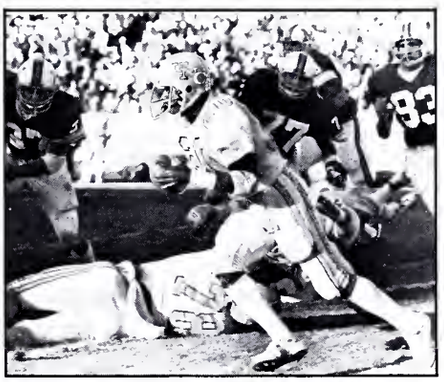
Team of A Million Backs

This was the great 1929 team which was so deep it fielded four entire backfields, all featuring top-notch performers. Carolina posted a 9-1 record under Coach Chuck Collins, scoring 346 points to rank second to Southern California in the nation in scoring. That average of 34.6 points per game for a season still stands as a school record. The only loss was a 19-12 setback to Georgia when the Bulldogs scored twice in the fourth quarter to win. A fumble recovery set up the winning touchdown.

Among the famed "million backs" were Jimmy Ward, Pete Wyrick, Jim Magner, Jimmy Maus, Strud Nash, Phil Jackson, Chuck Erickson, Henry House, Pap Harden, Yank Spaulding, Johnny Branch and Rip Slusser. Jackson threw a 78-yard touchdown pass to Spaulding against Maryland that year which stood for 14 seasons as the longest pass play in school history and still ranks as the fifth-longest.

While the team was noted for its game-breaking backs, it also had a host of outstanding linemen such as Ray Farris, Don Holt, Bill Koenig, Ned Lipscomb, Ellis Fysal, Bud Eskew, Fenton Adkins and Julian Fenner.

This team was a huge hit at the gate, drawing a record attendance of 139,500. That was topped by a crowd of 31,000 for a 41-7 rout of Virginia in Kenan Stadium.



Amos Lawrence and Tony Dorsett each had four 1,000-yard seasons—the only major college players ever to accomplish that feat.

Thousand-Yard Backs

Carolina has produced more 1,000-yard rushers than any other school in the country. Nine different Tar Heels have combined for 18 1,000-yard seasons. Southern California ranks second in 1,000-yard backs with 17. Carolina's group includes Don McCauley, who set an NCAA rushing record with 1,720 yards in 1970, and Amos Lawrence, one of only two major college players in history to post four 1,000-yard seasons. For more information on the Tar Heels' 1,000-yard performers, see pages 128 and 129.

Ticket Information

Information on Carolina football tickets can be obtained at the Athletic Ticket Office, located on the office level of the Smith Center. Ken Brown, director of ticket operations, and his excellent staff can be reached at (919) 962-2296. However, one should drop by or call early as another season of sellouts is anticipated.

Two Point Conversions

Carolina attempted only one two-point conversion last season, scoring on a pass from Mark Maye to Eric Lewis. Mack Brown's high-scoring Tulane team attempted seven and converted two.

Unbeaten Season

Carolina's only perfect record was posted in 1898 when the Tar Heels were 9-0-0. Seven opponents were shut out— Guilford (18-0), North Carolina A&M (34-0), Greensboro Athletic Association (11-0), Oak Ridge (11-0), Davidson (11-0), Georgia (53-0) and Auburn (29-0). VPI fell, 28-6, and in the season finale on Thanksgiving Day, Virginia was beaten, 6-2. Will Reynolds was the Tar Heel coach and the team was captained by Frank Rogers.

The regular Carolina lineup included Herman Koehler (165 pounds) and Edwin Gregory (166) at end; Samuel Shull (175) and Frank Bennett (190) at tackle; R.S. Cromartie (155) and Ike Phifer (190) at guard; Mink Cunningham (148) at center; Rogers (150) at quarterback; Vernon Howell (138) and James MacRae (160) at halfback; and Ernest Graves (170) at fullback.

Victories

Carolina has 514 of them on the football field. That's the 20th-highest total in college history.

Victory Bell

The Victory Bell goes annually to the winner of the Carolina-Duke football game. A large bell on wheels, this prize to the winner of the big season finale was originated in the 1940's by Norm Sper, a Tar Heel cheerleader.

Wade, Jake

First fulltime sports information director at Carolina. A 1923 Tar Heel graduate, he returned to Chapel Hill in 1946 to handle sports publicity. Until that time the sports information work was done by the University News Bureau. Jake arrived back on campus just in time to help make Charlie Justice one of the most famous college football stars of all time. The Carolina Caravan columns he wrote in news releases were a big hit with fans and newspapermen alike.

Jake had been a highly successful newspaperman himself before taking the job at his alma mater. He worked on a number of newspapers, but probably gained his greatest fame as sports editor of the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER where he covered most of Joe Louis's championship fights and regularly staffed the World Series. However, his columns in the OBSERVER, Sports Parade, often were intimate pieces that had nothing to do with sports. Some of those ranked as his best columns, along with colorful essays on the Carolina-Duke football rivalry.

After Jake's death in 1962, he was honored by his fellow sports information directors. CoSIDA named one of its two most prestigious awards after him. The Jake Wade Award is presented annually to a member of the media who has made outstanding contributions to the field of intercollegiate athletics.

Williamson, Ernie

One of the best known figures in Carolina athletics. Williamson, a tackle at Chapel Hill during the Justice Era, served as executive vice-president of the Educational Foundation from 1957 to 1986. In that role he became a friend to more Tar Heel alumni than anyone outside the Alumni Office itself. Ernie still serves the Foundation as director of the endowment. He's also a tremendous source of information on Carolina's athletic history.

Winning Streak

The most victories Carolina has ever put together in a row is 14 and was accomplished before the turn of the century. The Tar Heels went 9-0 in 1898 and then captured their first five games of the 1899 season before a tie with North Carolina A&M. A 13-game winning streak occurred during the 1947 and 1948 seasons. That included the last seven games of 1947 and the first six of 1948. That also was ended by a tie, a 7-7 deadlock with William and Mary.

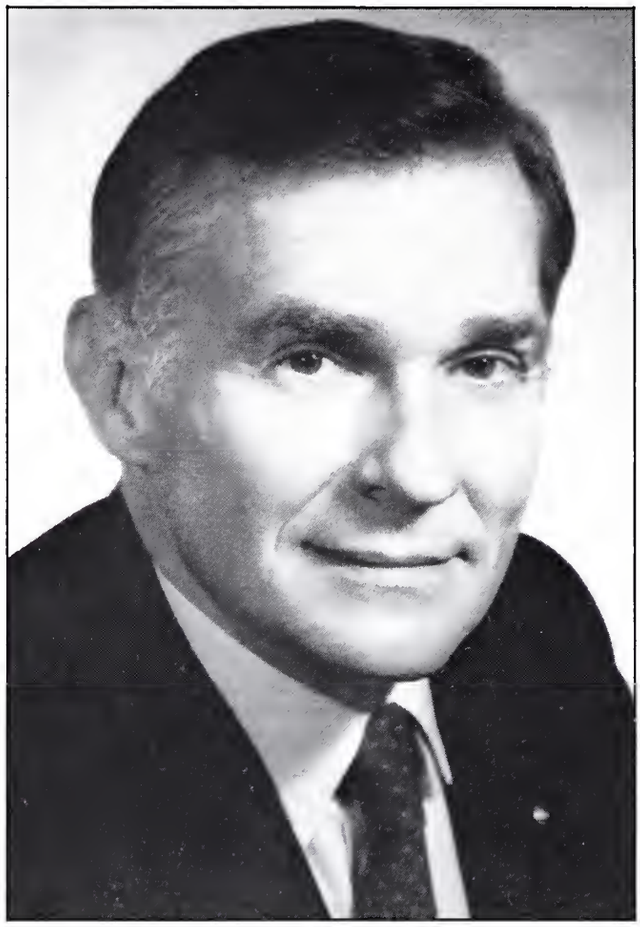
Chancellor Paul Hardin



North Carolina native Paul Hardin is the newly elected seventh chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

When he took office July 1, he brought a reputation as a national spokesman for higher education and a record as an administrator of integrity, dedication and commitment. He comes to Chapel Hill as the University prepares to observe its 200th anniversary.

"I have a passion for higher education," Hardin said after being elected unanimously by the UNC Board of Governors in April.

"I have a deep respect for those who advance knowledge by their scholarship and share it with tomorrow's leaders by their effective teaching," he said. "I have high hopes and great affection for students of all ages, origins and opinions. I also know a good university when I see one, and I am committed to protecting and enlarging the excellence which I find in Chapel Hill."

Hardin has been a fixture on college and university campuses ever since he enrolled at Duke University at the age of 17. He comes to the University after serving as president of Drew University in Madison, N.J., since 1975. The Methodist school has 2,475 students, and Hardin left after steering the school toward a sound academic standing and financial stability when many small colleges were faced with declining enrollments.

He also was president of Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas, from 1972 to 1974, president of Wofford College in Spartanburg, S.C., from 1968 to 1972 and a member of the Duke law school faculty for 10 years. He has been a visiting professor at the law schools of the universities of Texas, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Hardin was named one of the 100 most effective university leaders in the nation in a 1987 study conducted by researchers at Bowling Green University. The study found that the best presidents are "strong risk-taking leaders with a dream" who rely on respect rather than popularity and work long hours.

Although he has been associated with private schools, Hardin knows about public institutions. He has been a member of the Board of Higher Education in New Jersey since 1983.

At Drew, Hardin was active with fund raising, increasing its endowment from $22 million to about $70 million. He helped bring in capital funds as well as two endowed chairs—the William R. Kenan professorship in history and the Baldwin professorship in humanities.

New programs started at Drew during Hardin's tenure include a freshman seminar series to promote critical thinking and writing skills; the Charles A. Dana Research Institute for Scientists Emeriti, which brings retired corporate scientists to campus to continue their research and to interact with students; and College Connection, an educational, cultural and self-enrichment program for minority high school students. He also believes in the value of computers in the educational process. Drew was the first liberal arts institution to issue a personal computer to all entering freshmen, which they take with them after graduation.

In other educational activities, Hardin is the co-chairman of the Japan-U.S. Conference of University Presidents, was a member of the Board of Directors of the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, has served twice as president of the National Association of Schools and Colleges of the United Methodist Church, and was chairman of the National Commission on United Methodist Higher Education.

While teaching at Duke University, he won a four-year Ford Foundation grant for summer study in comparative law. He traveled to universities in Canada, Jamaica, Nigeria and Scotland. He published numerous articles on legal topics and is co-author of two books, "Cases and Materials on the Administration of Criminal Justice" and "Evidence: Cases and Materials." His other writings have addressed civil and criminal trial procedures in Scotland, executive privilege in the federal courts and college campus unrest.

He has been involved in politics, running for mayor of Durham in 1967 and serving as the second chairman of Durham's Human Relations Council

Hardin, 57, was a Phi Beta Kappa graduate in English at Duke in 1952 and a member of the varsity golf team. He graduated from Duke's law school in 1954, first in his class, and edited the law review. Hardin practiced law briefly in Alabama before returning to Duke in 1958 to teach law. A former member of Duke's Board of Trustees, he holds five honorary degrees.

Born in Charlotte, Hardin and his wife, Barbara, call several places in North Carolina home because they were the children of Methodist ministers. During his youth, he lived in Concord, Waynesville, Wadesboro, Asheboro, Shelby and High Point. She is from the eastern part of the state. They have three children: Paul Russell, an attorney with the Woodruff Foundations in Atlanta; Sandra Mikush, associate director of the annual fund at Duke; and Dorothy Holmes, a third-grade teacher in Birmingham, Mich. His parents, Dorothy and the Rev. Paul Hardin Jr., live in Asheville.

Director of Athletics John Swofford

The director of athletics at the University of North Carolina is John Swofford, nationally recognized as one of the best administrators in intercollegiate sports.

Swofford, a 1971 Carolina graduate, is in his ninth year as head of his alma mater's athletic department. The Tar Heel program is one of the biggest in the South, fielding 26 varsity teams, and one of the finest in the nation in terms of success both on and off the playing field.

In his short time as athletic director, Swofford has already seen Carolina teams win 45 Atlantic Coast Conference championships and 10 national collegiate titles. In addition, he has guided the department through a period of tremendous change which has left it both vastly different and vastly better than it was when he took its top job in 1980.

With Swofford in the lead, Carolina successfully completed a $34 million fund-raising drive to construct the Smith Center, a complex which includes a 21,444-seat basketball arena and an Olympic-size swimming pool. He was also the driving force behind the expansion of Kenan Stadium which took place last summer and the building of a new press box there. He has a special love for the stadium and made sure its natural beauty would not be damaged before going ahead with the greatly needed alterations.

Swofford planned the construction of the Student-Athlete Development Center as an addition to Kenan Fieldhouse. That building, a one-of-a-kind facility, includes the most modern equipment to aid student-athletes in their studies and physical development.

A Morehead Scholar himself, Swofford has a special interest in the academic side of intercollegiate athletics. The new academic center at Kenan is a prototype in its field. Swofford has also established a special award to annually honor the top student in each of the Tar Heels' 26 sports. In addition, he has expanded the academic support staff to better serve the student-athletes who use its services.

Since Swofford became athletic director, a new tennis stadium and clubhouse have been built; Boshamer Stadium has been expanded and dressing rooms renovated for the Tar Heel baseball team; three new holes have been completed at Finley Golf Course; the football practice fields have been rebuilt and lighted; a new Astroturf playing field installed; the Fetzer Field track has been resurfaced; and the department has been computerized.

Nationally, Swofford was appointed to the NCAA Football Television Committee in 1982 and was named its chairman in 1984. He handled the committee during the stormy dispute over football television rights. He is currently chairman of the NCAA Communications Committee. Swofford also is a member of the NCAA Football Post-Season Bowl Committee and served on a sub-committee last year which investigated a possible national championship playoff. He served as chairman of the ACC Television Committee when the current basketball contract was signed. This is generally considered to be the most lucrative regional television agreement in college sports.

These accomplishments are a good indication Swofford is well aware of the problems facing intercollegiate athletics and how to cope with them. But, Chancellor Christopher Fordham knew that when he named him to replace Bill Cobey as athletic director on May 1, 1980.

"My single greatest desire is for our program to be a shining example that you can be nationally competitive at the major-college level without breaking the rules or prostituting academic integrity," says Swofford.

"Our approach is not complicated. I tell our coaches three things: we want to be competitive for ACC championships, we expect our student-athletes to graduate and cheating will not be tolerated. If we accomplish those things, we can be termed successful.

"Our basic philosophy is not complex. It is a commitment to excellence and integrity; to represent our University in a positive way and reflect her character and values; and to care about our athletes as people, constantly keeping in mind that their positive development as human beings is paramount."

A native of North Wilkesboro, N.C., Swofford was a two-time all-state football player and a three-sport MVP at Wilkes Central High School. An honor student in high school, he majored in psychology and industrial relations at Carolina.

Swofford played quarterback and defensive back on Tar Heel football teams in 1969, 1970 and 1971. Those last two teams went to bowl games. He tied a then-school record against Vanderbilt in 1969 by throwing three touchdown passes in one game.

He was named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll and Who's Who in College Athletics. He also served as president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes on campus.

In 1973 he earned a masters in athletic administration at Ohio University. In his time there Swofford served as a graduate assistant to the assistant business manager of athletics.

From 1973 to 1976 he was athletic ticket manager and assistant to the director of athletic facilities and finance at the University of Virginia. He returned to Carolina in May, 1976 as assistant athletic director and business manager, handling all the athletic department's business affairs. Among his many other responsibilities were handling fund-raising affairs, team travel and the athletic dining hall. He also coordinated sports camps.

Although he remained assistant athletic director, Swofford dropped the business manager title and was named assistant executive vice-president of the Educational Foundation in January, 1979. In that job he was in charge of the overall financial structure of the athletic department. His position with the Educational Foundation involved general office procedures, membership services and fund-raising.

Swofford is a member of the executive committee of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics and is on the alumni advisory board for the Ohio University Sports Administration program. He received the Distinguished Alumni Award from Ohio University in 1984. He has been inducted into the Order of the Golden Fleece, Carolina's highest honorary society.

Swofford serves on the board of directors of the Chapel Hill Ronald McDonald House and North Carolina National Bank in Chapel Hill. He also was on the board of directors for North Carolina Amateur Sports which brought the 1987 U.S. Olympic Festival to this area.

A regular jogger, Swofford enjoys reading and tennis. He is married to the former Becky Owens of North Wilkesboro. They have two children, Autumn and Chad.

Head Coach Mack Brown

The new head football coach at the University of North Carolina is Mack Brown, who rebuilt Tulane's football program in just three seasons and is regarded as one of the brightest young minds in the game.

The selection of Brown, 37, as the new Tar Heel coach was made by Carolina Athletic Director John Swofford and approved by Chancellor Christopher Fordham. Brown accepted the position December 15.

In announcing the choice of Brown to replace Dick Crum as the Tar Heel coach, Swofford said, "We wanted a man of integrity, a leader and a motivator with a passion for college football and someone with an entertaining offense.

"Mack's name ran through the entire search process. We believe this is the right fit, the right man at the right time for Carolina football."

Outgoing and personable, Brown was an immediate hit in his new job in Chapel Hill. Even in this early stage of his Carolina career, Brown has clearly proven to be a person with tremendous communicating skills. He mixes well with people from all walks of life and has made himself available to students, faculty, alumni, fans and media.

On the field, Brown has best been known for helping develop some of the most explosive offenses in college football. As an offensive coordinator, he directed record-setting attacks at Oklahoma, LSU and Iowa State.

And, Brown has been a winner, too. He rejuvenated Tulane's sagging football fortunes in just three years, taking the Green Wave to only its fifth bowl game since 1940 last fall.

Brown plans to win in Chapel Hill, as well.

"Everything you need to have a great football program is here," he says, "facilities, a dedicated staff, a tremendous academic institution and outstanding high school talent in this and surrounding states.

"Fifteen years ago when I started coaching I put together a list of jobs in which I thought I would have interest. Carolina was very high on that list.

"We're talking about a university that has one of the best athletic programs in the country. We're talking about a program that believes in ethics and a university that also believes in having the highest regard for academic standards."

Brown says he has three goals for the student-athletes who play for him.

"The number one thing is for each young person to get his degree. We also want them to do the best they can academically to prepare themselves for later life.

"The second thing is that we want to win. And last, but certainly not least, we want the young people to have fun."

> "North Carolina hired a fantastic young coach, someone the University will be proud of for many years. He's great with kids and he's great for kids. He'll emphasize education and convince players of its importance.
> "Offensively, he's got a fantastic mind. He's very innovative. He's an outstanding teacher, an outstanding motivator and is extremely capable on game days. I've known him in all types of situations. I would have to say North Carolina hit a home run."

Brown's Tulane team certainly had fun a year ago in completing one of the fastest turn-arounds in the country. Brown went to Tulane on December 16, 1984 as head coach and was also appointed the school's athletic director the following April. The Green Wave had suffered three straight losing seasons before Brown's arrival in New Orleans and went 1-10 and 4-7 in his first two years on the job.

However, Tulane posted a 6-5 regular-season record last fall, earning a spot opposite Washington in the Independence Bowl. In the process, the Green Wave set school records for total offense and points. Tulane ranked 11th in the nation in scoring, averaging 32.5 points a game. Wide receiver Marc Zeno won first-team All-America honors and quarterback Terrence Jones was fourth nationally in total offense and 10th in passing.

"Simply amazing" is the way Appalachian State Athletic Director Jim Garner describes Brown's success at Tulane. Garner, who gave Brown his first head coaching job at Appalachian, has followed his career closely.

"He had to build the Tulane program back from ashes," says Garner. "It was almost like he walked into a war zone down there, but he's got that kind of competitiveness. He refuses to use the word 'failure.' He was determined to make that program go."

Brown's successes at Tulane came in other places as well as on the football field. As athletic director, he oversaw the construction of a new football locker room facility, a football practice field surrounded by an eight-lane all-weather track, an artificial turf practice area and the first

Brown and Carolina's greatest player, Charlie Justice

"Mack Brown is the future of college coaching. He could be in the Bear Bryant class. He has coaching ability, charisma, honesty and integrity. He's an excellent coach and more importantly, he's a tremendous person.

"I think hiring him is the wisest move North Carolina has made since they hired Dean Smith."

Appalachian State Athletic Director

phase of a multi-million dollar baseball stadium. He also got plans underway for a new athletic office complex.

With Brown in the lead, the Green Wave Club, Tulane's fund-raising arm, raised over 1.4 million dollars in each of the past two years, up from an average of $800,000. However, coaching is what Brown enjoys most. With his enthusiasm for the game and the great rapport he has with young people, it's easy to understand why he's been so successful.

In his first head coaching job at Appalachian, he directed the Mountaineers to a 6-5 record in 1983 at the age of 32. He went to Oklahoma the following season as offensive coordinator.

In his year on Barry Switzer's staff, the Sooners averaged 325.8 yards a game in total offense in compiling a 9-2-1 record, won the Big Eight championship and earned a berth in the Orange Bowl. Brown helped Oklahoma develop its best passing attack in years to go along with its alway potent option-oriented running game. His success there helped lead to the Tulane job.

Prior to taking the head coach's position at Appalachian, Brown, at age 31, had been offensive coordinator at LSU in 1982. The Tigers went 8-2-1 and played in the Orange Bowl. The "Mack Attack" offense was the second most improved in the nation that fall, averaging over 400 yards a game.

While at Iowa State, from 1979 to 1981, Brown served as receivers coach for one year and as offensive coordinator for the last two seasons. In his time as offensive coordinator the Cyclones broke 17 school and Big Eight Conference records and produced league leaders in rushing and total offense.

Brown began his full-time coaching career at Southern Mississippi in 1974, working with receivers for four seasons, and then spent one year coaching that same position at Memphis State.

A native of Cookeville, Tenn., Brown attended Vanderbilt and Florida State. He lettered twice as a running back for the Seminoles in 1971 and 1972. He finished work on his bachelor's degree in education at FSU in 1974. While there, he worked on a part-time basis, coaching receivers and the junior varsity. He received his master's degree in administration from Southern Mississippi in 1976.

Brown had been a three-sport star at Putnam County High School, lettering three times in football. He won all-state and All-America honors and was selected one of the nation's top 100 running backs by Scholastic Magazine in 1968. He was class president and a Who's Who in America choice.

"Mack has everything a school like North Carolina could want. Carolina is extremely lucky to get someone of his magnitude. I think maybe the best way to describe him is to say he's a young Dean Smith. I like to think of him as being like Dean was when he first started at Carolina 27 years ago.

"Everybody will love the guy, from the students to the faculty to the alumni to the media. I don't think you'll ever find a more people-conscious person than Mack Brown. He is just a person who is genuinely interested in people, whether they can do something for him or not.

"Make no mistake about it, though. Mack is also a fine football coach. He is one of the bright young coaches in America today. Carolina will be a well-coached, competitive football team and they will be an exciting offensive team. There's no question in my mind that he will be highly successful in Chapel Hill."

Director of Player Personnel

In the eyes of many observers, Brown is off to a fine start as only Carolina's third head coach in 22 years. Although he was hired and assembled a staff at a relatively late date as far as recruiting is concerned, Brown was still able to salvage a good initial class of incoming freshmen. Much of the credit for that has to be attributed to him and his personality. He has a special magnetism which has to make him an effective recruiter.

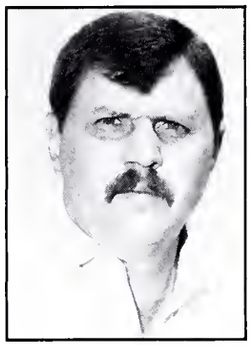
And, he's looking forward to recruiting again in North Carolina and Virginia.

"I know from my time at Appalachian that there are some outstanding high school coaches in these two states," he says. "I'm looking forward to renewing some old friendships and creating new ones. Our goal is to recruit the Atlantic Coast Conference area in general with special emphasis on North Carolina and Virginia. Traditionally, that's where Carolina has gotten some of its best players.

"We are the state university. We should recruit here first. Kids in this area have grown up hearing about Carolina. They are familiar with what it means to play here. Now, that certainly doesn't mean we won't go outside the ACC area for players. If there are young people in another part of the country who have an interest in us, we'll talk to them. But, I do think we should take advantage of the fine high school coaching and talent we have here before we look elsewhere."

Brown is married to the former Debbie Morris of Pensacola, Fla. They have two children, Katherine Jane (11) and Barbara Ellen (8).

The Tar Heel Staff



Dan Brooks

(Defensive Line Coach)

Coaching the Tar Heel defensive front is Dan Brooks, who grew up and spent the early part of his career working in western North Carolina.

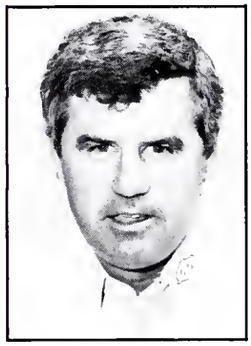
Brooks came to Carolina last winter from the University of Florida where he had been coaching the Gator middle guards. Two of his players there, Tim Newton in 1984 and Jeff Roth in 1987, won All-Southeastern Conference honors. Newton was a second-team All-America.

A native of Sparta, N.C., Brooks played football at Appalachian State in 1969 before joining the U.S. Army Special Forces School that December. He served in the Special Forces division for three years and also played interservice football with the Army Gunners. He then enrolled at Western Carolina in 1972, receiving his B.S. in Education in 1976.

While at Western Carolina, he coached the Catamounts' defensive ends for two seasons. After graduation, he became offensive and defensive line coach at Kings Mountain High School in North Carolina in 1976. He was defensive coordinator and offensive line coach in 1977 and then served as the school's head coach and athletic director from 1978 to 1982.

In 1983 he joined the Florida staff as a graduate assistant. He received a masters degree in Administration and Supervision from Florida the following year and also became a full-time member of the coaching staff.

Brooks is married to the former Kathy Whitaker. They have a daughter, Tara, who is six, and a two-year-old son, Rhett.



Jim Cavanaugh

(Wide Receiver Coach)

Jim Cavanaugh, the offensive coordinator and quarterback coach at the University of Maryland last season, will work with the Carolina wide receivers this fall.

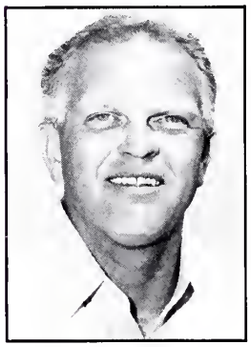
Cavanaugh finished his sixth year with the Terrapins last season. He had coached running backs there from 1982 to 1986. He has also spent five other years in the Atlantic Coast Conference, coaching at N.C. State and Virginia. He has helped coach four ACC championship teams— three at Maryland and one at State.

An All-Southern Conference wide receiver at William and Mary, Cavanaugh caught 117 passes in his college career for 1,600 yards. He was an honorable mention All-America.

After graduation in 1970, Cavanaugh coached two years of high school football in Newport News, Va. at Newport News High and Denbigh High. He then went to N.C. State as a graduate assistant to Lou Holtz. After receiving a masters degree in Education there, he spent three years coaching receivers and running backs at VMI. He returned to N.C. State to coach wide receivers in 1977 and 1978.

In 1979 he became offensive coordinator at Marshall. After serving there for two seasons, he came back to the ACC to coach the Virginia wide receivers in 1981. He joined Bobby Ross's Maryland staff the following year.

A native of Queens, N.Y., Cavanaugh is married to the former Marsha Carnell of Atlanta, Ga. They have two children, Ryan and Lauren.



Les Herrin

(Outside Linebacker Coach)

Working with the Tar Heel outside linebackers is Les Herrin, who had been defensive coordinator at East Carolina for the past two seasons.

Herrin, a native of Waycross, Ga., had been at East Carolina for three years. He coached the linebackers in his first season there and then added the coordinator's role in 1986.

Prior to going to ECU, Herrin had been the linebacker coach at Clemson for four years, including 1981 when the Tigers won the national championship. One of his star players there, Jeff Davis, was a consensus first-team All-America. Before going to Clemson, Herrin had been defensive coordinator at Appalachian State.

A 1971 graduate of Western Carolina, Herrin earned four football letters for the Catamounts. He was team captain and most valuable defensive player in 1970 and team MVP in 1971.

Herrin has a B.A. in Education and a masters degree in Health and Physical Education.

After leaving Western Carolina, Herrin served as an assistant on the high school level for five years in Rutherfordton and Lexington, N.C. He then spent three years as head coach and athletic director at Central Davidson High School where his teams were 29-6 and won three straight conference championships.

Herrin is married to the former Shirley Andrews of Hillsborough, N.C. They have a son, Deke.

Vince Hoch

(Secondary Coach)

Running the Carolina secondary is Vince Hoch, an 18-year veteran of college coaching.

Hoch came to Chapel Hill last December from Tulane. He was one of five coaches Mack Brown brought with him off his Green Wave staff.

A native of Harrisburg, Pa., Hoch is a 1966 graduate of Pfeiffer College. Prior to going to Pfeiffer, he signed a football grant-in-aid with Arizona State. However, he instead spent four seasons playing professional baseball in the Chicago Cubs' and Washington Senators' organizations.

He began his coaching career with two years at John Harris High School, his alma mater, and then two at Millville High in New Jersey. Following those jobs he was on the Temple staff for 13 straight years, during which the Owls posted a 76-45-3 record. He was the defensive line coach from 1970 to 1973, worked with linebackers from 1974 to 1977 and then handled the secondary from 1978 to 1982. He also was defensive coordinator from 1972 to 1982 and assistant head coach from 1980 to 1982.

In 1983 Hoch went to Memphis State to work for the late Rex Dockery for one season. He then worked briefly for Lou Holtz at Minnesota before becoming assistant head coach and defensive coordinator at Kansas under Mike Gottfried. He went to Mississippi State in 1986 and his pass defense finished sixth in the national statistics. He then joined Brown at Tulane last season.

Hoch is married to the former Constance Hackett. They have two daughters, Sharon and Michele.

Terry Lewis

(Tight End and Offensive Tackle Coach)

Terry Lewis, an all-star player at Southern University, is coaching the Tar Heel offensive tackles and tight ends.

Lewis was a member of Mack Brown's Tulane staff last season and joined him at Carolina in December after Brown was named the head coach here.

A native of Memphis, Tenn., Lewis is a 1970 graduate of Southern where he won all-conference and All-America honors as a senior offensive lineman. He played briefly with the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League before beginning his coaching career.

Lewis's first coaching job was at the U.S. Naval Academy Prep School in 1971. He then was on Navy's staff from 1972 to 1974 before going to Western Michigan for two years. He then spent two seasons each at Illinois and Southern. He coached at East Carolina in 1981 and then went back to Navy for a two-year stint.

In 1984 Lewis began a three-year stop at LSU. In that period, the Tigers went to the Sugar Bowl twice and to the Liberty Bowl once. He left there to join Brown at Tulane last season. In all of his coaching assignments, Lewis has worked with the offensive line.

Lewis is married to the former Tessa Sanders. They have three children— Terry II (18), Jonathan (11), and Wyatt (nine).

Milo McCarthy

(Running Back Coach)

Coaching the Tar Heel running backs is Milo McCarthy, who has helped produce some of the best backs in Southwest Conference history.

McCarthy is one of five Tulane coaches who joined Mack Brown at Carolina in December. He had just completed his first season with the Green Wave after spending the first part of his college coaching career at Southern Mississippi and SMU.

A native of New Orleans, La., McCarthy is a 1968 graduate of Southern Mississippi. He was a star running back for the Golden Eagles, ranking 11th on USM's career rushing list with 1,240 yards and scoring 10 touchdowns. He completed a masters degree in Education at Southern Miss in 1970.

Following four years of coaching in the high school ranks, McCarthy joined Bobby Collins's Southern Mississippi staff in 1975 as tight end coach. He began working with running backs in 1976. One of his players there was Denver Bronco star Sammy Winder. Brown and Carolina offensive coordinator Darrell Moody worked with him at USM.

McCarthy went to SMU in 1982 for five years, returned briefly to Southern Mississippi and then joined Brown at Tulane last season. While at SMU, he coached three Southwest Conference rushing champions— Eric Dickerson in 1982 and Reggie Dupard in 1983 and 1985.

McCarthy is married to the former Jacqueline Ohlsen. They have three sons— Sean (18), Scott (17) and Shane (11).

Darrell Moody

(Offensive Coordinator and Quarterback Coach)

Darrell Moody, who has worked with Mack Brown at four other schools, will be Carolina's offensive coordinator and quarterback coach.

Moody had that same role for the last three years at Tulane. In that time his quarterback, Terrence Jones, set Green Wave total offense records for a game, season and career. Jones was fourth in the nation last year in total offense and Tulane was 11th in scoring.

A native of Asheboro, N.C., Moody was an all-state football and baseball player at Asheboro High School. He played both sports at N.C. State, graduating in 1970. He also got his masters there.

He began his coaching career at Asheboro High in 1971 and 1972. He returned to N.C. State as a graduate assistant in 1973 and 1974 before taking his first full-time position at Southern Mississippi. Brown was also on the Golden Eagle staff.

Moody returned to N.C. State from 1976 to 1979, coaching quarterbacks and running backs the last three years. He then coached running backs at LSU from 1980 to 1983. Brown was his coordinator there in 1982. The two men were also together briefly at Appalachian State before Brown went to Oklahoma. Moody served as the Mountaineers' assistant head coach in 1984. He then joined Brown at Tulane the following season.

Married to the former Martha Ann Henry, Moody and his wife have two children, Christopher Lee (13) and Michael Scott (seven).

Monk Tomlinson

(Offensive Guard and Center Coach)

Monk Tomlinson brings 29 years of coaching experience to his job as the man in charge of the Tar Heel offensive guards and centers.

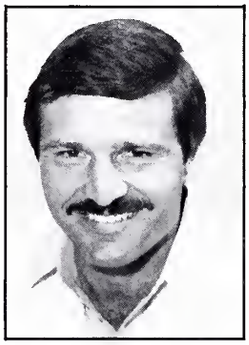
Tomlinson was one of five Tulane coaches brought to Carolina last December by Mack Brown. He had handled the same positions assignment in three years on Brown's Green Wave Staff.

A 1959 graduate of William and Mary, Tomlinson began his coaching career at Maryville College in Tennessee. He was the offensive line coach there from 1959 to 1963. He then served as the school's head coach until 1971.

From 1971 to 1973, Tomlinson was offensive backfield coach at Tennessee Tech. He then spent 10 years at Northeast Louisiana before going to Tulane. He was the backfield coach from 1974 to 1978 and then served as offensive line coach and recruiting coordinator during the rest of his time there.

A native of Norfolk, Va., Tomlinson was an all-state player at Maury High School. He then was a three-year starter at William and Mary at offensive guard and linebacker. In addition to his undergraduate degree, Tomlinson also received a masters from Tennessee in 1971.

Tomlinson is married to the former Shirley Ann Burgess. They have two children, Julie Ann and John Curtis.



Carl Torbush

(Defensive Coordinator and Linebacker Coach)

Coordinating Carolina's defense is Carl Torbush, who gave up the head coaching position at Louisiana Tech to join Mack Brown's Tar Heel staff. Torbush will also coach the inside linebackers.

Prior to taking the Louisiana Tech job last season, Torbush had been defensive coordinator and linebacker coach at the University of Mississippi. In four years at Ole Miss, Torbush took the Rebels from last in the Southeastern Conference in total defense to first in 1986.

From 1979 to 1982, Torbush had been assistant head coach, recruiting coordinator and linebacker coach at Louisiana Tech. The Bulldogs were second in the 1982 I-AA national rankings and made the national playoffs.

Torbush's other coaching assignments have been as an assistant at Carter High School in Knoxville, Tenn. in 1974; a graduate assistant under Grant Teaff at Baylor in 1975; and linebacker and defensive end coach at Southeastern Louisiana from 1976 to 1978. He also served as baseball coach there.

A native of East Spencer, N.C., Torbush is a graduate of Austin-East High School in Knoxville where he won all-state honors in football and baseball. He attended Tennessee and Carson-Newman, graduating in 1974. He was a first-team All-America at Carson-Newman in both football and baseball and played in the Kansas City Royals' organization for one year before going to graduate school at Baylor.

He is married to the former Janet Gilbert of Kingsport, Tenn. She has a Ph.D. and taught physical education at Carolina during the summer.

Joe Robinson

(Assistant Athletic Director for Recruiting)

Joe Robinson, a member of Carolina's 1963 Gator Bowl championship team, is now in his second year as the Tar Heels' director of recruiting services.

In his job at Chapel Hill, Robinson coordinates football recruiting, assists coaches of non-revenue sports in their recruiting and also performs other duties in the athletic department. However, his focus is on football.

A native of Black Mountain, N.C., Robinson was a senior end on the 1963 Carolina football team which tied for the Atlantic Coast Conference championship and swamped the Air Force Academy, 35-0, in the Gator Bowl. Robinson was the Tar Heels' second-leading receiver that year with 19 catches for 259 yards and three touchdowns. He received both his undergraduate and masters degrees in Education at Carolina.

After graduating, Robinson entered the coaching profession as an assistant at Fike High School in Wilson, N.C. in 1964. He worked there three seasons before spending two years in military service.

Robinson then worked as an assistant at VMI, Duke and Virginia from 1968 to 1973. He was the head freshman coach and offensive line coach at VMI, defensive line coach at Duke and worked with receivers at Virginia.

In 1973 he became head coach at Westminster School in Atlanta and stayed there until returning to the Virginia staff in 1979. He went from there on to Episcopal High School in Alexandria, Va. in 1982 as head football coach and golf coach. He remained there until coming to Carolina in August, 1987 to accept his present position.

Robinson is married to the former Claudia Whipple. They have one son, Ben.

(Director of Athletic Academic Affairs)

John Blanchard is beginning his fourth year as director of athletic academic affairs at Carolina.

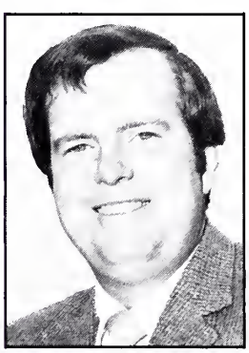
In this position, Blanchard heads up the Tar Heel academic counseling program for student-athletes.

A native of Sacramento, Calif., Blanchard is a 1975 graduate of Stanford University. He was voted the most inspirational senior on the 1974 football team there and won first-team All-West Coast honors. He was a first-team Churchmen's All-America and a second-team All-Pac Eight selection.

After graduation, Blanchard became national director of the NCAA's Volunteers for Youth organization. He headed up the first NCAA staff which implemented, administered and supervised the establishment of 22 programs across the country and planned further expansion.

Blanchard obtained his masters degree from San Diego State in 1981. He served as a specialist for the Social Advocates for Youth programs in San Diego in that same year. He then taught sixth grade students at Friendship Christian Schools in Raleigh before becoming executive director of Volunteers for Youth in Carrboro in 1982. He held that position until taking the job at Carolina in 1985.

Blanchard is married to the former Dawn London. They have a daughter, Janel, and a son, Shaun.



Chris Schleter

(Director of Athletic Photography and Data Processing)

A 1977 Carolina graduate, Chris Schleter enters into his seventh season as director of athletic photography and data processing. The Garrett Park, Md. native is responsible for a number of projects involving computers as well as the recording and processing of game and practice films for Carolina football.

Schleter earned a masters of science degree in computer science in 1981 and since then has taken over a number of areas regarding computerization of the Carolina athletic department. He designs, develops and maintains computer programs and documentation for scouting as well as film record keeping, academic progress of the student-athletes at UNC and budget control for football and recruiting.

Schleter handles all filming of football practices and games, processing these films and also working with scouting of opponents. A key part of eight bowl teams, including a stint as a football manager as an undergraduate, Schleter can be found at the Smith Center when not at his desk in Kenan Fieldhouse. He operates and maintains the color graphic message boards for all events in the Smith Center from basketball games to concerts.

In all, this is the 16th year that Schleter has been associated with Carolina football in one way or another. He moved into his full-time position in July, 1982.

When not buried under his work, Schleter enjoys flying airplanes, golf, cross stitching and following his beloved Washington Capitals.

Rick Brewer

(Sports Information Director)

Rick Brewer is beginning his 21st year in the Carolina Sports Information Office and his 14th as its director.

Brewer is a native of North Carolina, growing up in Winston-Salem and Greensboro. He is a 1971 Carolina graduate with a degree in Journalism.

A student assistant in the sports information office for three years, Brewer was selected the school's first assistant SID upon graduation. He held that position for four years and then was named sports information director in 1975.

Brewer is directly in charge of publicity for Carolina's football and men's basketball teams. In addition, he oversees the publicizing of the University's entire 26-sport program.

In 1984 Brewer served as a press officer for the United States Olympic Committee at the Summer Games in Los Angeles. In that role, he served as a liaison between the media covering the Games and American athletes and coaches. He has handled similar duties at two USOC Olympic Festivals— at Indianapolis in 1982 and on the Carolina campus in 1987.

For the past six years Brewer has been a member of the Media Coordination Committee which assists the media at the Final Four of the NCAA Men's Basketball Championships. He is a member of the Football Writers Association of America, the U.S. Basketball Writers Association, the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association and the College Sports Information Directors of America.

Brewer, a bachelor, is regarded as one of the world's finest parallel parkers and worst dancers.

Dave Lohse

(Assistant Sports Information Director)

Dave Lohse is in his 10th year as assistant sports information director at Carolina.

Lohse's major responsibilities include editing the football and basketball game programs and the men's basketball media guide. He also handles publicity for a number of non-revenue sports. He has won several national editing and writing awards from CoSIDA (College Sports Information Directors of America). His football program has been voted second best in the nation.

The U.S. Olympic Committee chose Lohse to serve as a press officer at this year's Summer Olympic Games in Seoul. He has also worked for the USOC at the last two National Olympic Festivals— in Houston in 1986 and on the Carolina campus in 1987.

In his time at Carolina Lohse has coordinated publicity for seven Tar Heel teams which have won national championships— three in lacrosse and four in women's soccer.

A 1977 graduate of Purdue University, Lohse worked in the Boilermaker Sports Information Office for three years as a student assistant. He also was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa there.

Lohse spent two years as a graduate assistant in the Carolina Sports Information Office before being named assistant SID in August, 1979.

A native of Griffith, Ind., Lohse is a member of CoSIDA, the Football Writers Association of America, the U.S. Basketball Writers Association and the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association. He is a long-suffering Chicago Cubs fan.

Lohse is a bachelor.

Scott Jared

(Assistant Sports Information Director)

Scott Jared is beginning his fourth year as an assistant in the sports information office at Carolina.

Jared joined the Tar Heel athletic staff in the summer of 1985 after working in the sports information office at the University of South Carolina.

A native of Durham, N.C., Jared is 1982 graduate of Tennessee Tech. He worked in the sports information office at Tech for two years, serving as SID on an interim basis during the 1982 football season.

He went to South Carolina in January, 1983 as a graduate assistant in the sports information office there. He handled publicity for the USC women's basketball teams for three years, edited several award-winning media guides and assisted with the publicity of other Gamecock athletic teams.

Jared's primary responsibilities in Chapel Hill are in the area of non-revenue sports. However, he also assists with the publicizing of the Tar Heel football and basketball teams. He is a member of CoSIDA (College Sports Information Directors of America) and the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association. In judging by CoSIDA, his 1986 Carolina golf brochure was selected as the best in the nation.

Jared and his wife of two years, the former Heather Lee of Columbia, S.C., are members of the Cole Mill Road Church of Christ in Durham.

The Educational Foundation

John Cherry

Neal Harrell

Ernie Williamson

One of the most important organizations in the Carolina Athletic Department is the University's Educational Foundation, Inc.

It is the Educational Foundation which raises funds for athletic scholarships at Carolina.

These scholarships, either partial or full, will be awarded to nearly 400 student-athletes for the 1988-89 academic year, with an additional 100 awarded for summer school. The scholarship budget, which has more than doubled in the last seven years, will total $2.25 million this year, with $800,000 allocated to women's scholarships.

"Since its founding in 1938, the Educational Foundation has provided scholarships, either partial or full, to over 5000 student-athletes," says Moyer Smith, the Foundation's Executive Vice-President.

The purpose of the Foundation is to offer financial aid to worthy young men and women seeking an education at the University and to support University programs by providing services and funds for the construction of facilities or purchase of equipment.

The following are categories of annual giving:
Super Ram ($1,200) - Entitles a member to purchase up to eight season football tickets (selected location) and receive an assigned parking space. Football seating and parking will be in a preferred area.
Big Ram ($500) - Entitles a member to purchase four season football tickets (selected location) and receive an assigned parking space. Football seating and parking will be in a preferred area.
Ram ($300) - Entitles a member to purchase two season football tickets (selected location). Additional tickets may be purchased, but location of tickets is subject to the point system.
Little Ram ($150) - Entitles a member to purchase four season football tickets. However, location of tickets is subject to the point system each year.
Educational Foundation Member ($50) - Those who give less than $150 receive periodic bulletins and the option to purchase tickets. The minimum Foundation membership is $50 per year. However, contributions of any amount are welcome.

Carolina was one of the first schools in the nation to set up an endowment program for athletics. This program was started in 1968 and consists of $50,000 endowed scholarships set up through insurance, life memberships, wills and bequests and a pooled income program.

The Foundation operates on a dignified and realistic plane in compliance with all of the regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"We couldn't have the type program we do without the Educational Foundation," says Athletic Director John Swofford. "We've enlarged our staff in the last several years and I think the staff additions we have made will enable us to do a better job for our members."

The Foundation offices are located at the Smith Center in the North end of the Koury Natatorium. This new office complex has helped tremendously in allowing the Foundation staff to better serve the membership.

Moyer Smith

Moyer Smith is in his second year as executive vice-president of the Educational Foundation.

Smith was appointed to the position in December of 1986, replacing Ernie Williamson. Williamson, who had held the job since 1957, is now heading the Foundation's endowment program.

A native of Lexington, N.C., Smith has been connected with Carolina throughout a good portion of his athletic career. He played halfback on Tar Heel football teams from 1958 to 1960.

Following graduation in 1961, he coached for six years in high schools in Winston-Salem, Albemarle and Lexington. He then returned to Chapel Hill to serve as an assistant on Bill Dooley's football staff for six seasons. He was head coach of the Tar Heel freshmen for three years, posting a 14-1 record and winning three straight Big Four championships.

He left Carolina in 1973 to join the coaching staff at Florida State, but returned the following year to become assistant athletic director for business. He was named associate athletic director two years later.

Before taking over Williamson's position, Smith served on the foundation staff for nine years. He worked first as field secretary and then as vice-president for membership services.

Smith is married to the former Jane Webster of Lexington. They have two sons, Moyer, Jr. and Brent.

Kenan Stadium

Nestled among the tall pine trees near the center of the Carolina campus is Kenan Stadium. It is here in this beautiful natural valley that Tar Heel football teams have been playing their games for 61 years.

Kenan Stadium is generally referred to as one of the most beautiful football arenas in the country. Considering its majestic setting among the Carolina pines, many say it is the most beautiful.

Inside Sports magazine has rated Kenan one of the five best places in America to watch a college football game. For scenery, atmosphere and charm, it can't be surpassed.

The stadium will take a new look this fall with the completion of a major expansion project. However, as in all past work on the stadium, great care has been taken to keep its basic beauty intact.

The expansion includes the addition of 2,000 choice seats between the 40-yard lines on each side of the field. These areas are formerly where the press box and chancellor's box were located.

A new press box has been constructed on top of the upper deck on the stadium's south side. It is a one-level, elongated structure, running from 10-yard line to 10-yard line.

A permanent lighting system is also part of the project, as are a football lettermen's lounge and Educational Foundation lounge on the south side and a chancellor's lounge on the north side. The lights are a General Electric low-mount system which minimizes the height of the lightpoles. A similar system is used at Soldier Field in Chicago.

Cost of the entire project was $7 million. It was funded by private gifts and bonds.

"Our press and media facilities had been inadequate for a number of years," says Athletic Director John Swofford. "This project has addressed those needs very nicely. In addition, we have also picked up some more seats in an excellent location.

"Kenan Stadium is aesthetically a very special sports arena and a great deal of thought was given to these improvements. Their aim is to maintain and even enhance the beauty of the stadium."

William Rand Kenan, Jr. deserves the credit for originally making the stadium a part of the University. He was born in North Carolina in 1873 and was an 1894 Carolina graduate. An international industrialist, Kenan discovered carbide and made monumental progress in the field of chemistry.

The stadium was built as a memorial to his parents, William R. Kenan and Mary Hargrave Kenan. Construction began in November, 1926 and was completed the following August. Complete cost of the stadium and accompanying fieldhouse was $303,000.

In the first game played there, Carolina defeated Davidson, 27-0, on November 12, 1927.

Carolina's all-time record in Kenan is 186-113-15. The most points scored by the Tar Heels in Kenan came in the third game played there. Carolina whipped Wake Forest, 65-0, in the 1928 season opener.

As originally built, the stadium seated 24,000. However, in later years the benefactor added portable stands and then an upper deck to the permanent stands, bringing capacity to 48,000. That was expanded to 50,000 a few years ago and then to 52,000 over the summer.

After the 1976 season, Kenan Fieldhouse underwent a massive renovation. The building was expanded to 30,000 square feet of dressing rooms, coaches' offices, lounges, meeting rooms, weight-training quarters and other facilities. The players' locker room was then renovated again this past summer.

A new addition to the fieldhouse, the Student-Athlete Development Center, opened in 1986. A 20,000-square foot building, it is a one-of-a-kind facility.

For study purposes, it contains a language laboratory, a video room, a computer lab, a theater-style lecture hall, several reading rooms and numerous tutorial rooms. Carolina's academic counseling staff has the advantage of using the most modern techniques in helping student-athletes with their studies.

The bottom half of the building is one of the finest strength fitness areas in the country. Workout rooms and performance laboratories contain the most current apparatus available.

Besides giving the stadium to the University, Kenan also sponsored and financed the famous Kenan Professorships. He was awarded the honorary degree of LL.D. by his alma mater in 1944.

Capacity crowds have come to be expected in Kenan. Highest attendance at a game there was the standing-room-only crowd of 53,689 which saw the Tar Heels play Clemson in 1983.

The 1983 season also saw another first in the stadium—a game played under artificial lights. The Carolina-Duke game was played in the late afternoon so it could be televised throughout the Atlantic Coast Conference area. Portable lights were brought in since the second half was played after sunset. Portable lights were also used at last year's Clemson game so it could be televised nationally by ESPN.

In January, 1927 work was just getting underway on Carolina's new football stadium.

A Look Back at 1987

Team

★ Carolina finished fourth in the Atlantic Coast Conference in total offense, third in rushing, fifth in passing and fourth in scoring.

★ Carolina was third in the ACC in total defense, third in rushing defense, fourth in pass defense and third in scoring defense.

★ Carolina lost only seven fumbles all year, an all-time single-season low.

★ The Tar Heels set an all-time school record with 406 yards passing at Georgia Tech.

★ Carolina also produced the school's 10th-best passing yardage total with 277 yards against Duke.

★ The Tar Heels had 71 rushing attempts at N.C. State, most of any ACC team all year.

★ The Tar Heel defense blocked four punts.

★ Carolina played under portable lights in Kenan Stadium for the second time in history when the Clemson game was shifted to a late afternoon start and broadcast nationally on ESPN.

★ Five Tar Heel players won All-ACC honors: offensive guard Pat Crowley, defensive lineman Tim Goad, defensive lineman Carlton Bailey, defensive back Norris Davis and linebacker Brett Rudolph.

★ Three Carolina players were named to the Academic All-ACC Team: quarterback Mark Maye, tight end John Keller and defensive back Bryan Causey.

Individual

★ Mark Maye finished third in the ACC in both total offense and passing efficiency.

★ Maye set a Carolina record with 1,914 yards of total offense during the season.

★ Maye attempted a school-record 270 passes.

★ Maye's 143 completions were the third most by a Tar Heel player in one season.

★ Maye averaged 10.7 yards per attempt and 17.7 yards per completion in the game at Georgia Tech, both school single-game records.

★ Maye and Randy Marriott teammed up on a 93-yard pass play at Georgia Tech, the longest in school history.

★ The 93-yard Maye-to-Marriott pass was the longest of the ACC season and was the longest play of any kind at Carolina since a 98-yard kickoff return by Delbert Powell in 1976.

★ In a stretch against Oklahoma, Georgia Tech, Navy and Auburn, Maye passed for 949 yards, most ever by a Tar Heel player in such a four-game period.

★ Over the season, Maye averaged 7.3 yards per attempt, a school record for someone attempting at least 200 passes.

★ In addition to the 420-yard total offense performance at Georgia Tech, the best in school history, Maye also finished his career with the third, fourth and fifth-highest single-game total offense marks ever at Carolina.

★ Maye's career passing percentage was 56.2 percent, best of any Tar Heel passer who had at least 200 attempts.

★ Maye ended his career fourth in all-time completions at Carolina with 263, third in passing yardage at 3,459 and tied for fifth in touchdown passes with 20.

★ Maye won a post-graduate scholarship from the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame.

★ Bailey became only the second down lineman to lead the Tar Heels in total tackles in the last 10 years with his 132 total hits. William Fuller was the tackle leader in 1981.

★ Bailey was selected by the Buffalo Bills in the NFL draft and Reuben Davis was chosen by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

★ Randy Marriott finished seventh in the ACC in pass receiving.

★ Marriott led the ACC in kickoff returns and all-purpose running.

★ Marriott became only the second Carolina player to lead the ACC in kickoff returns.

★ Marriott set school records for kickoff returns in a season (27) and kickoff return yardage in a season (607).

★ Marriott became only the second receiver in the last 25 years to lead the Tar Heels in all-purpose running, joining Earl Winfield who did it in 1985.

★ Marriott's 247-yard performance was the third-best in ACC history.

★ Marriott tied a school record with three touchdown catches at Georgia Tech.

★ Marriott's three touchdowns at Georgia Tech equalled the most by any player in the ACC last year.

★ Marriott increased his career yards-per-reception average to 17.5, best of any player in school history with at least 50 catches.

★ Marriott moved into seventh place in career kickoff return average at Carolina, increasing his career mark to 22.1.

★ Eric Lewis averaged 18.4 yards a catch, best of any Tar Heel player who has ever caught at least 25 passes in a single season.

★ Lewis was seventh in the ACC in punt returns.

★ Torin Dorn ran for 165 yards against Illinois, the fourth-best total of the ACC season.

★ Dorn's 134 yards in the third quarter of the Illinois game was the most ever gained by a Carolina rusher in one period.

★ Playing only the first half, Dorn caught seven passes against Duke, equalling Don McCauley's record for the most receptions by a sophomore in one game.

★ Norris Davis scored five touchdowns on defense—two on fumble recoveries, one on an interception and two on blocked punt returns.

★ For statistical purposes, the two touchdowns Norris Davis scored on blocked punts are listed as touchdowns on punt returns. That tied the school record for TDs on punt returns in a season held by the two greatest punt return men in school history—Johnny Branch (1930) and Charlie Justice (1948).

★ Kenny Miller kicked a 51-yard field goal at Maryland, giving him three of the five in school history which have been made from at least 50 yards.

★ Miller became the first Tar Heel player since Don McCauley in 1970 to lead Carolina in both scoring and punting in the same season.

★ Eric Starr was eighth in the ACC in rushing.

★ Tim Goad made the All-ACC team for the second straight year.

★ Goad was a fourth-round selection by the New England Patriots in the NFL draft.

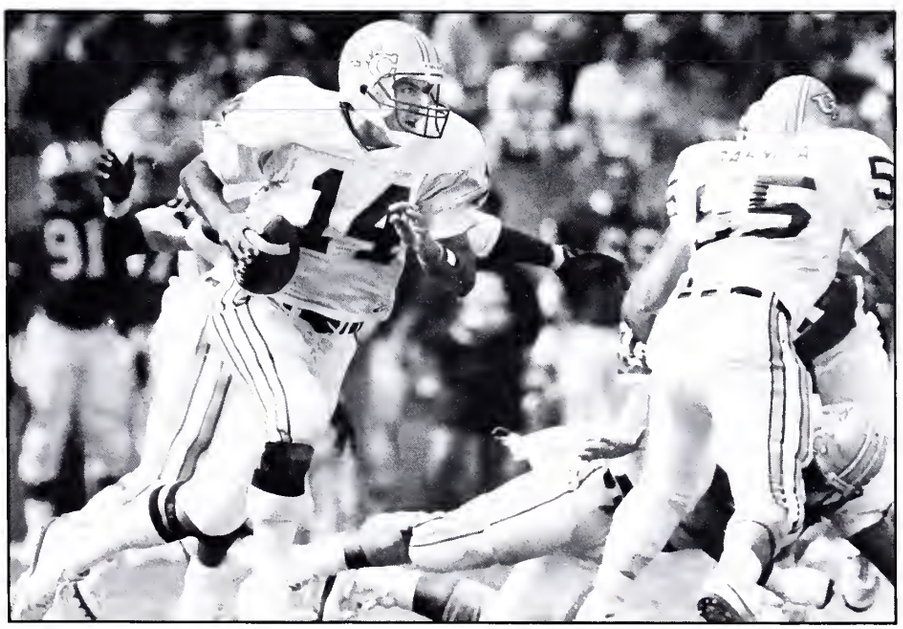
★ Pat Crowley became the first Carolina sophomore ever to make the All-ACC team as an offensive lineman.

★ Crowley became only the third sophomore in ACC history to make all-conference as an offensive lineman.



Mark Maye passed for a school-record 1,965 yards last fall.

1988 Gamecock Outlook

Coming off one of the most outstanding seasons in South Carolina football history, the Gamecocks will kick off their 95th season of grid action with a night game against the Tar Heels in Williams-Brice Stadium September 3. USC finished 15th in the nation last year while compiling an 8-4 record which included a 30-13 loss to LSU in the Gator Bowl. The Gamecock season was highlighted by a six-game winning streak and a defensive unit which ranked among the Top 10 in four NCAA statistical categories. Head Coach Joe Morrison lost 18 seniors off the 1987 squad, including 12 of whom were starters. Forty-two lettermen do return, however, including five each on offense and defense and the two kicking specialists. Among the returnees are record-setting quarterback Todd Ellis and 1987's leading rusher, Harold Green. Placekicker Collin Mackie led the NCAA last year with 25 field goals, while setting a school record for points in a season with 113. He also made all 39 of his PAT's. Cornerback Robert Robinson made 83 tackles and intercepted four passes in '87 for the Gamecocks.

1988 Sooner Outlook

Despite the loss of five All-Americas, six offensive starters and seven defensive regulars, the Oklahoma football team should again be a top contender for national championship honors in 1988. Last year, the Sooners finished the regular season 11-0 and ranked #1 in the country after winning their 33rd conference championship in their illustrious gridiron history. But the OU team was upset 20-14 by Miami of Florida in the Orange Bowl in a national championship battle between two unbeaten and untied teams. Still, the OU record book boasts of six national championships, 28 bowl trips, 11 Orange Bowl crowns and 117 All-Americas to go along with the conference titles. The Sooners will be led offensively in 1988 by quarterback Jamelle Holieway who led the Sooners in rushing, passing and total offense last year despite missing three games with a knee injury. The offensive line wil be led by Outland Trophy and Lombardi Award candidate Anthony Phillips at guard. Anthony Stafford is a returning starter at left halfback for the Sooners. The OU defense will be anchored by linebacker Richard Dillon and down linemen Curtice Williams and Dante Williams.

1988 Cardinal Outlook

As Coach Howard Schnellenberger begins his fourth season as head football coach at the University of Louisville, the Cardinals are expecting their finest season in several years. The U of L returns 19 starters from a 1987 unit which finished with a 3-7-1 record, including a 42-40 decision over then Tulane Coach Mack Brown's Green Wave. The focal point of the Cardinals' pro passing game offense will be senior quarterback Jay Gruden who has established six school passing records in his first three seasons. Several of Gruden's favorite receivers from a year ago return in tight end George Williams and wide outs Joey Hamilton and Anthony Cummings. Also back is leading rusher Deon Booker, who averaged 4.9 yards per carry last season. As good as the Cardinals expect to be offensively, they must improve defensively from 1987 when they were outscored 348-215. Linebacker Chris Sellars was an honorable mention Associated Press All-America last season. He is one of 10 returning starters on defense for Coach Schnellenberger. Carolina is one of three ACC teams on the Louisville schedule in 1988. The Cardinals open the season at Maryland and also play Virginia at home in mid-October

1988 Tiger Outlook

Defending Southeastern Conference champion Auburn returns 11 starters from last year's nationally seventh-ranked team and should give head coach Pat Dye plenty of firepower to again compete for the SEC title and a Sugar Bowl berth. The Tigers finished 9-1-2 in 1987, winning SEC honors with a 5-0-1 slate. AU went on to tie Syracuse 16-16 in the Sugar Bowl. Gone from the team are record-setting quarterback Jeff Burger, starting fullback Reggie Ware, standout offensive tackle Stacy Searels and defensive standouts like Aundray Bruce, the outside linebacker who was the #1 choice in the 1988 NFL draft, and inside linebacker Kurt Crain. Coach Dye will have a solid nucleus to build around in 1988, led by starting tailback Stacy Danley, wide receiver Lawyer Tillman and tight end Walter Reeves. The standout returnees defensively include tackle Tracy Rocker, nose guard Benji Roland and free safety Carlo Cheattom. The Tigers will also benefit from a favorable schedule which includes eight home games and one neutral site contest out of 11 games.

1988 Demon Deacon Outlook

Seeking to continue the momentum of last fall's outstanding performance, the Wake Forest football team faces the 1988 season with a number of veteran players on hand, but also with some major holes to fill in the lineup. The Demon Deacons finished the 1987 campaign with a 7-4 overall mark and a 4-3 ledger in the ACC. Coach Bill Dooley welcomes back 41 lettermen from last year's squad, including 17 starters. The 1987 season was the winningest in the 1980's at WFU and produced the second highest victory total in 43 years at the school. Dooley, who won ACC Coach-of-the-Year honors in 1987, has at his disposal one of the top returning quarterbacks in the conference in senior Mike Elkins. Elkins completed 53.3 percent of his passes last season for 1,915 yards. Also returning to the Deacon fold is All-ACC running back Mark Young and the team's leading pass receiver in 1987, wingback Ricky Proehl. All five regulars in the offensive line also return for Wake. Eight starters return on defense, including All-ACC cornerback A.J. Greene. The Deacs must rebuild at inside linebacker where both starters from a year ago have graduated. Also back are placekicker Wilson Hoyle and punter Martin Bailey. Wake will be looking to put together its first back-to-back winning seasons since 1970 and '71.

1988 Wolfpack Outlook

Coach Dick Sheridan begins his third season as head mentor of the N.C. State Wolfpack, welcoming back 52 lettermen and 13 starters from last year's team which finished 4-7 overall, but tied for third in the ACC with a 4-3 ledger. Sheridan's main task will be to find replacements for three departed starters in the Wolfpack's offensive line and to fill the voids left by the graduation of the team's leading rusher and top pass receiver in 1987. Bobby Crumpler rushed for 571 yards for the Pack in '87, but much of his load will now fall on returning fullback Mal Crite who gained 463 yards on the ground last season. Leading receiver Mack Jones is gone, but the speedy Danny Peebles returns as does Nasrallah Worthen after a year's suspension. The Pack does return the two players who split time as the starting quarterback last season in sophomore Preston Poag and junior Shane Montgomery.

1988 Yellow Jacket Outlook

Rebuilding and regrouping will be the themes of Coach Bobby Ross' second year at the helm of the Georgia Tech football program. After an injury-riddled 1987 campaign which saw the Yellow Jackets finish 2-9 overall and 0-6 in the ACC, Ross will seek to rebuild the foundation of a team that will push the Rambling Wreck over the .500 mark in 1988. The makings of a good team are back as a total of 48 lettermen and 14 starters return from the '87 squad. Flanker Greg Lester and split end Steve Davenport, Tech's two leading receivers a year ago, do return as does Richard Hills, the squad's second leading rusher in 1987. Four starters in the offensive line are back as well, but the quarterback position is totally up for grabs with both Darrell Gast and Rick Strom, who shared starting signal calling duties last season, having graduated. Defensively, Tech must replace secondary standouts Sammy Lilly and Riccardo Ingram as well as nose guard Ivery Lee, but seven starters do return. Both placekicker Thomas Palmer and punter Sean McDevitt return for the Yellow Jackets as well.

1988 Terrapin Outlook

With only nine starters returning from last year's 4-7 squad, Coach Joe Krivak will be faced with a strong challenge to produce a contending team in his second year at the helm of the Terrapins. Among the losses from last year's fifth-place ACC finisher were starting quarterback Dan Henning, talented wide receivers Azizuddin abdur-ra'oof and James Milling, All-America tight end Ferrell Edmunds, a quartet of starting linebackers and two starting defensive guards. But the nucleus for a fine season is there as 29 lettermen return to face a schedule highlighted by six teams which went to bowl games last year. Inheriting the starting quarterback duties will be Neil O'Donnell who saw considerable action last season as a backup to Henning. Leading rusher and receiver Bren Lowery is back as is starting fullback Dennis Spinelli. Wide receiver Vernon Joines is the top returnee among the pass catching corps. The defense has five returning starters, including all four of the defensive backs. Record-setting placekicker Dan Plocki is also back for another season with the Terps. The schedule includes national powers Penn State and Syracuse and a first ever meeting with conference foe Georgia Tech.

1988 Tiger Outlook

With the loss of three first team All-Americas and a schedule which includes five conference road tests and a non-conference game with powerful Florida State, Coach Danny Ford and his Clemson Tigers will be challenged if they are to duplicate last season's victory total. The 1987 Clemson team posted 10 victories, just the fourth team in Clemson history to hit double digits in the victory column. That team also won Clemson's second straight ACC football title and finished ranked 10th in the nation by UPI. Gone from the squad are consensus All-America placekicker David Treadwell, ACC career sack leader Michael Dean Perry and two-time All-America offensive guard John Phillips. But the nucleus for another fine team returns as Ford welcomes back 17 starters, including starting quarterback Rodney Williams, All-ACC offensive tackle Jeff Nunamacher, 1987 ACC Rookie-of-the-Year, tailback Terry Allen, and 1987 All-America and 1988 Thorpe Award candidate, cornerback Donnell Woolford.

1988 Cavalier Outlook

The 1988 season marks the 100th year of football at the University of Virginia and the Cavalier football program appears to be in good shape for that celebration. Virginia has 37 lettermen, including 15 starters, returning from last year's 8-4 team that finished second in the ACC with a 5-2 record and defeated BYU 22-16 in the All-American Bowl. Virginia won its last five games in 1987 and was ranked 20th in the nation by The Sporting News in its final Top 20 rating of the season. Virginia has now had four winning seasons in the last five and has won two bowl games in that period. Coach George Welsh returns eight starters on defense including All-ACC and AP honorable mention All-America free safety Kevin Cook and UPI honorable mention All-America cornerback Keith McMeans. Offensively, the Wahoos return their top six rushers and eight of their top nine pass receivers from last season. One player the Cavs do not return, however, is All-ACC quarterback Scott Secules. Red-shirt Shawn Moore is the leading candidate to take over for Secules.

1988 Blue Devil Outlook

Coach Steve Spurrier begins his second year at the helm of the Duke Blue Devils after leading them to a 5-6 overall record and a 2-5 ACC mark in his first season. It was a season of might-have-beens for the Blue Devils as five of Duke's six losses came by one touchdown or less, including four league games which might have pushed the Blue Devils higher in the conference standings than their seventh-place finish. Duke's strength should again be its offense. Last year the Blue Devils led the ACC in total offense, passing offense and scoring and were also among the national leaders in all three categories. Seven starters do return on offense, but not starting quarterback Steve Slayden. Slayden's likely successor is Anthony Dilweg, the backup last season. The Blue Devils do return leading rusher and receiver Roger Boone and bona fide All-America threat Clarkston Hines. Hines established an ACC record for pass receiving yardage last season. Four starters return in the offensive line for Duke and tight end Dave Colonna is also back. Duke returns seven starters to its 4-3 defensive alignment, after having played an eight-man front in 1987. The kicking game is in good shape with Dilweg returning as the punter and Doug Peterson as the placekicker.

Carolina's First-Team All-America's

George Barclay

Andy Bershak

Steve Maronic

George Barclay, Guard, 1934

Here is Carolina's first football All-America. The 5-11, 185-pound guard and linebacker was a three-year standout for Chuck Collins and Carl Snavely. A fine blocker and an extraordinary tackler, Barclay lined up in the offensive interior next to tackle Jim Tatum. He was captain of the 1934 team which went 7-1-1. Barclay later served as head coach at Carolina for three seasons, from 1953 to 1955.

Andy Bershak, End, 1937

A 185-pound end, Bershak was a two-way performer for the Tar Heels. He was a fine receiver, but was even better on defense. He played two years for Carl Snavely and one for Ray Wolf. Bershak, a honor student, also was a basketball starter. He was selected to the Order of the Golden Fleece and served as president of the Carolina Athletic Association.

Steve Maronic, Tackle, 1938

Maronic was a two-way tackle for the Tar Heels and team co-captain in 1938. He was an "iron man," playing almost 60 minutes in every game that season. He turned in two of his best performances in front of the New York media against NYU at Yankee Stadium and Fordham at the Polo Grounds. Those games solidified his All-America chances. Maronic also was a place-kicker and hit 13 straight PATs in his final season.

Paul Severin

Ray Poole

Paul Severin, End, 1939-40

Severin was two-time All-America selection by the Associated Press (1939 and 1940) and made most of the all-star teams in his senior season. His career was filled with big plays—a touchdown catch to tie Tulane in 1939, two scoring catches against Penn that same season and a touchdown-saving tackle from behind of Duke's great Steve Lach in a 6-3 win over the Blue Devils in 1940.

Ray Poole, End, 1943

Ray came to Carolina in 1943 as part of the Navy's World War II V-12 program. He had spent the previous two seasons at Mississippi and returned to Ole Miss after the war to finish his education. A 6-3, 215-pound end, Ray was a rugged defender. His brothers, Barney and Oliver, joined him at Carolina. Barney later earned All-America honors at Ole Miss in both 1947 and 1948.

Charlie Justice

Art Weiner

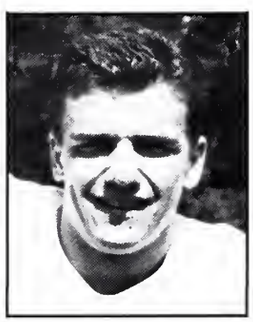
Charlie Justice, Halfback, 1948-49

Twice runnerup for the Heisman Trophy, Charlie Justice is rated by many as the best all-around player in the history of southern football. He was a true triple-threat performer, leading Carolina in rushing, passing and punting from 1946 to 1949. He sparked Tar Heel teams which appeared in the Sugar Bowl twice and the Cotton Bowl once. He is the school's all-time total offense leader with 4,883 yards and also ranks as the Tar Heels' second-leading career scorer, sixth-leading rusher and 10th-leading passer. He had a career punting average of 42.6 and averaged 14.2 yards on punt returns and 26.6 yards on kickoff returns.

Art Weiner, End, 1948-49

A great, all-around end, Weiner led the nation in receiving in 1949 with 52 catches. He had been seventh nationally in receiving the previous year with 31 catches. His 106 career catches are the second-most in school history and he still holds the Carolina career record with 18 touchdown receptions. However, many remember him best for a game-saving defensive play on the last snap of the 1949 Duke game. After his senior season, Weiner was named the most outstanding lineman in the Senior Bowl.

Ken Powell



Irv Holdash

Ken Powell, End, 1949

Powell teammed with Art Weiner to give Carolina sensational end play during the post-war "Justice Era" in Chapel Hill. A brilliant defensive player, Powell also caught 10 passes during the 1949 season. As a freshman, he had been a standout in the 1947 Sugar Bowl game with Georgia.

Irv Holdash, Center, 1950

While Carolina's football fortunes slipped in the years immediately following the Charlie Justice Era, Holdash still received national attention for his outstanding play. A center on offense and linebacker on defense, Holdash was a three-year regular who never missed a game during his varsity career. He probably made All-America in 1950 with a sensational performance in a 14-7 loss at Notre Dame. Irish quarterback Bobby Williams called him "the best I've played against."

Al Goldstein

Bob Lacey

Al Goldstein, End, 1958

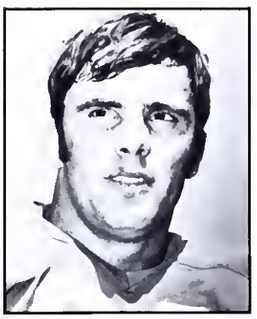
Goldstein was another outstanding two-way end at Carolina. He earned All-America honors in 1958 by making 24 catches for 490 yards, averaging an amazing 20.4 yards a reception. Adept at making the seemingly impossible catch, he had a 68-yard TD reception at Virginia. He also starred defensively and had a 46-yard interception return for a touchdown against Maryland.

Bob Lacey, End, 1963

Lacey led the Atlantic Coast Conference in receiving in 1963 with 48 catches for 533 yards. His pass-catching was a key factor as Carolina rolled to a 9-2 record, defeating the Air Force, 35-0, in the Gator Bowl. Lacey was also the team's top receiver in 1962 with 44 catches. He is the only Tar Heel player to have at least 40 catches on two occasions. His career total of 102 receptions is the third-best in school history.

Don McCauley, Halfback, 1970

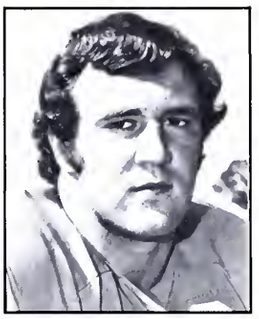
Don McCauley shattered the Carolina and the Atlantic Coast Conference record books with a dazzling senior season in 1970. He rushed for 1,720 yards and scored 21 touchdowns, setting marks which still stand. His 1,720 yards rushing was an all-time collegiate high at the time, breaking O.J. Simpson's NCAA record. McCauley led the nation in all-purpose running that season. He was twice the ACC Player of the Year and still ranks fourth in both career scoring and rushing at Carolina. He had a lengthy professional career with the Baltimore Colts.



Don McCauley

Ron Rusnak, Offensive Guard, 1972

Rusnak was a unanimous All-America selection in 1972 as Carolina posted an 11-1 record. At 6-2 and 220 pounds, he did not have the size to play professional football, but Rusnak was a great college player. He was a two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference choice, starting on teams which combined for a 20-4 record. In 1972 he won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the best blocker in the ACC.



Ron Rusnak

Ken Huff

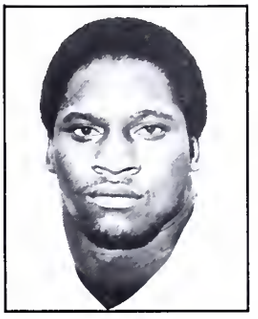
Ken Huff, Offensive Guard, 1974

Huff was a key man on one of the most explosive offensive units in Carolina history. He was the leader of an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels accumulate 4,691 yards in 1974, at the time a school record. The 6-4, 255-pound Huff won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy as the best blocker in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Sparked in great part by his play up front, the Tar Heels had two backs rush for over 1,000 yards in the same season. Huff was the third player selected in the NFL draft by the Baltimore Colts.

Charles Waddell

Charles Waddell, Tight End, 1974

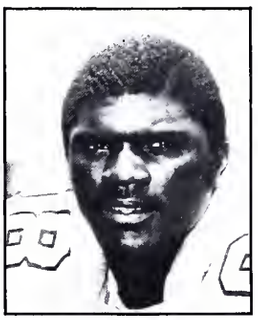
Waddell rates as one of the best all-around athletes in Carolina history. He won three football letters, two in basketball and one in track. Not only was he a fine receiver at tight end, but he also was a dynamic blocker there. He set a school single-game record in 1974 with three touchdown catches against Clemson. He had 41 career catches for 518 yards and seven TDs. His professional career was cut short by a knee injury.



Dee Hardison

Dee Hardison, Defensive Tackle, 1977

A two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection, Hardison played on one of the top defensive teams in Carolina history. In 1977 Carolina led the nation in scoring defense, giving up just 7.4 points a game. The Tar Heels led the ACC in total, rushing, pass and scoring defense. A big reason was Hardison, a 6-3, 252-pound tackle who dominated the line of scrimmage all season. After leaving Carolina he began a lengthy NFL career with the Buffalo Bills.



Lawrence Taylor

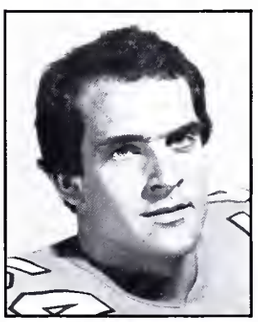
Lawrence Taylor, Outside Linebacker, 1980

From midway in his junior season until the end of his senior year in 1980, Taylor dominated the football field as few defensive players ever had. Now regarded as the finest outside linebacker in the history of the game, Taylor had a remarkable senior season which featured 16 quarterback sacks and six other tackles for losses. In Carolina's only close games in an 11-1 season, Taylor made the game-saving defensive plays against Texas Tech and Clemson. He was a runaway selection as Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year.

Ron Wooten

Ron Wooten, Offensive Guard, 1980

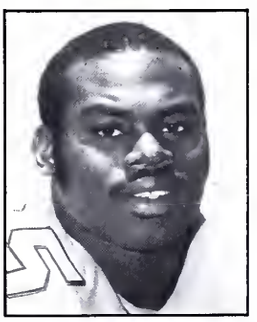
Wooten won the Jacobs Blocking Trophy in 1980 as the best blocker in the Atlantic Coast Conference. He was the leading vote-getter in the offensive line on the All-ACC team. He was one of the leaders of an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels lead the ACC in total offense and which also helped produce two 1,000-yard backs. He is currently a starting guard with New England in the NFL.



David Drechsler

David Drechsler, Offensive Guard, 1981-82

Drechsler became Carolina's first two-time All-America since Charlie Justice and Art Weiner when he earned first-team honors in 1981 and 1982. He played every position in the offensive interior during his Carolina career, but settled in at guard. The 6-4, 253-pound Drechsler played on Tar Heel teams which were 37-10-1 and were unbeaten in four bowl games. He also was the winner of a post-graduate scholarship from the NCAA. Drechsler went on to become a starter with the Green Bay Packers until a back injury forced him to give up the game.



William Fuller

William Fuller, Defensive Tackle, 1982-83

Fuller is one of just five Carolina players to win first-team All-America honors twice. Although powerfully built at 6-3 and 250 pounds, Fuller's greatest asset was his great quickness. He used that quickness to make 13 tackles for losses and six sacks in 1982 and 17 tackles for losses and five sacks the following year. He was the only unanimous choice on the 1983 All-ACC team and is one of just two linemen ever to make All-ACC for three straight years.

Brian Blados

Brian Blados, Offensive Tackle, 1983

When two Carolina tailbacks ran for over 1,000 yards in 1983, much of that yardage came behind Blados. The 6-6, 305-pound left tackle dominated the line of scrimmage as Carolina set a school total offense record and finished seventh nationally in yardage. Blados was named on 90 of 100 ballots in voting for the All-Atlantic Coast Conference team. He was a first round choice by the Cincinnati Bengals in the NFL draft.

Harris Barton

Harris Barton, Offensive Tackle, 1986

Barton was a four-year starter for the Tar Heels, first at center and then at tackle. With so many teams playing even-man front defenses, Barton was moved to tackle in 1984 to take better advantage of his skills. He excelled at left tackle, the key blocking spot in the Carolina passing game. As a senior, he led an offensive line which helped the Tar Heels rank first in the Atlantic Coast Conference and sixth nationally in total offense. An excellent student, he was chosen for a post-graduate scholarship by the National Football Foundation and was a first-round selection in the NFL draft.

Choo Choo

The Incomparable Charlie Justice

Pictures by Hugh Morton

Charlie and Sarah Justice at the Old Well on campus.

There is an understandable tendency by sports fans to be wary when an athlete is called "the absolute greatest ever" or "the best who ever played."

It is so difficult to compare athletes of the past with those of today that such descriptions are generally regarded as exaggerations of overzealous publicists.

Even with that in mind, however, it is undeniably safe to say that the greatest all-around football player ever to wear Carolina Blue was Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice.

Some have even said Charlie Justice was the best all-around player in the history of the South. We won't go that far even though there's a good chance it's true. We don't want to make our readers too wary.

Charlie Justice was more than just a great football player. He was a bonafide superstar... a hero... a legend in his own time. He had an impact on his home state as no other athlete had ever had before or few have had since.

During his four years in Chapel Hill, from 1946 to 1949, Justice helped guide the Tar Heels to three major bowl games. For one week during the 1948 season Carolina was ranked as the nation's number one college football team. The Tar Heels ended that year rated third, the best finish in school history.

It is no wonder then he was held in great esteem by everyone in the state. Certainly, the time was right for a hero like Charlie Justice. The war had just ended and people wanted to turn their attention to more pleasant things. They wanted someone to make them forget the trauma they had just suffered. So they looked for heroes and they found Charlie Justice.

In his book, They Made the Bell Tower Chime, the late Bob Quincy summed up Charlie Justice's college career quite succintly. An excerpt is repeated here:

The Justice Era of 1946-49 was the most exciting in Carolina's football history. Charlie was the ringleader of a circus of thrills. He set the pace, but his backing was superb. Carl Snavely had so many football players he couldn't have named them all had he taken a memory course. The Tar Heels operated from the single wing with the kind of variations that at times resembled the Harlem Globetrotters' pre-game ball-handling act. The four seasons netted 32 victories, seven losses and two deadlocks. Plus three major bowl appearances.

The 170-pound Justice was one of the nation's most sought-after players when he enrolled at Carolina. Some called him the hottest property in the history of football at that time. He had been a standout at Asheville's Lee Edwards High, leading the Maroons to two unbeaten seasons. He was All-Southern two years at Asheville, and as a member of the Shrine Bowl football team in 1942 he scored three touchdowns against South Carolina, a record that still stands.

The Navy became home for Charlie during the war years, and he became a phantom on a pro-studded Bainbridge Navy squad. After two years of romping for Bainbridge against opponents across the country, he was a target for pro offers from the Philadelphia Eagles and Washington.

Charlie wanted an education, and scouts stayed in pursuit. He chose Chapel Hill after seriously considering South Carolina and Duke. An off-hand remark by Snavely—"I hope he comes out for football"—became a classic understatement.

Justice was all his press clippings indicated—and more.

Smart! Example: In the Virginia Tech opener, Justice had two kicks blocked. He bristled and vowed it would never happen again. It didn't during his collegiate career.

After Virginia Tech's 14-14 stalemate, a shocker to say the least, the Tar Heels played at Miami. Early in the game, Justice went back to punt. The Hurricane came hard with an all-out rush to block him. He faked the kick and ripped off a 65-yard touchdown run.

In the Virginia game his freshman year he gained 170 yards in 17 carries with runs of 18, 40 and 56 yards. He had seen little practice because of a leg injury, but the Cavaliers were certain he carried a spare appendage.

Choo Choo (he acquired the name at Bainbridge when a gob remarked, "He runs along just like a choo choo train,") was excitement. He was all eagerness on the sidelines and all business when he moved into the tailback slot. He thrived on duty, and he was a master of the quick kick, a devastating rusher, a good passer, and a fake artist who could charm a cobra.

Jack Fitch, a thick-legged back who occasionally shared duty with Justice when not playing the wing, sized up Charlie's style by noting, "Justice has the ability to be running at full speed, stop suddenly, and then be back at full speed almost instantly. He was never regarded as fast in terms of a track man. He had a change of pace that couldn't be matched, and he knew how to follow blockers as well as any back I've ever watched."

Justice was blessed by having excellent blocking backs in front of him (Joe Wright, Don Hartig, Eddie Knox, Paul Rizzo, Bobby Weant) and two fullbacks in Hosea Rodgers and Walt Pupa who could pass as well as run. Pupa had been a tailback in pre-war years.

The Snavely system called for a spinning fullback, fakes and counter fakes, fullback pass plays and reverses. It was a dashing brand of football made more exciting by men who had the ability and maturity to accept Snavely's often complicated maneuvers.

A book, "Choo Choo," documents the career of Charlie Justice. He was a folk hero and deserved the special treatment. The great Benny Goodman and the late Johnny Long recorded the Campbell-Beebe song, "All the Way Choo Choo." It sold by the thousands.

Typical of Justice was the Georgia game of 1948. He scored three times against the Bulldogs in a 21-14 triumph, the climax being an 84-yard punt return. At mid-way point that season, the Tar Heels were ranked No. 1 in the nation.

Justice erased more records than a company of auditors during his four years at UNC. He scored 234 points and passed or ran for 64 touchdowns. As a ball carrier he accumulated 2,634 yards.

His total offense record is still in the books at 4,883 yards. His punting average for four years was 42.6 yards per kick for 231 boots. Justice also was a dependable defensive player, going both ways on occasion for the Tar Heels and also as a Redskin.

Justice seemed to peak when the traditional games were being played. He led the Tar Heels to four straight wins over Duke. He was an All-America mention as a freshman and made many of the major teams as a junior and as a senior. He was runner-up for the Heisman Trophy to Doak Walker of SMU in 1949.

Charlie's finest moment came in the College All-Star Game of 1950 at Chicago's Soldier Field. He was voted the MVP of the game for good reason. The All-Stars walloped the Philadelphia Eagles, led by Steve Van Buren, 17-7. Justice gained 133 yards individually, or 48 more than the Eagles posted as a team. He set up a touchdown on a 60-yard pass from Eddie LeBaron of College of the Pacific.

Every year since Charlie's departure from Chapel Hill, someone has a "find" who is labeled as "the next Charlie Justice." No player has yet come up to Choo Choo's standards. Good runners, yes! Expert passers, yes! Booming punters, yes! But for endurance, ability to dazzle the crowd and overall quality, there was only one Charlie Justice.

Carolina Football — A Brief History

By Dave Lohse, Assistant Sports Information Director

A program rich in a tradition of great coaches and heralded athletes, North Carolina football embarks on its 1988 campaign in what will be the centennial year of gridiron action on the campus of the nation's first state university.

The first 100 years have been something very special. Some of the most lauded coaches in the history of the college game have walked the sidelines of Kenan Stadium. And legendary football heroes have come and gone, helping make Carolina's the preeminent college football program in the state. As Carolina celebrates its football centennial in 1988, it can point with pride to the successes of the past and the manner in which they have been accomplished, while at the same time looking to a bright future spurred on by the arrival of one of the brightest young coaches in the game today.

Surprisingly, football is actually not the oldest varsity sport at UNC. Baseball is accorded that honor, having fielded its first varsity nine back in 1867. But while football started 21 years later, its history is replete with memories that have thrilled legions of Carolina fans as the decades rolled by.

The first UNC team competed back in 1888 and played but two games, losing both and being outscored 22-4. That inauspicious beginning belies the success of the program since then, but those football pioneers are nevertheless credited with starting football at Carolina.

In the fall of 1888, the sophomore class at UNC had formed a team and after vanquishing all the other classes at UNC, began to look around for stiffer opposition. The UNC team challenged the Wake Forest eleven to a game which was scheduled during the State Fair in Raleigh on October 18, 1888. Wake won the game 6-4 in what came to be acknowledged as the first intercollegiate football game in the history of the state of North Carolina.

Later that same fall, Carolina challenged Trinity (now Duke) to a Thanksgiving Day contest in Raleigh that drew a crowd of 600 for a 16-0 Trinity triumph. One member of that 1888 UNC team was John Motley Morehead who went on to great fame as the founder of Union Carbide and who endowed the Morehead Scholarship program and several buildings on the Carolina campus.

Just a few months after that loss to Trinity, UNC acquired the services of Hector Cowan, former great tackle and captain at Princeton, to help teach the UNC players the fundamentals of the game. Cowan arrived in February 1889 and drilled the Tar Heel troops on the existing athletic field, located on the current site of Bynum Hall.

The 1889 team played two games in the spring and two in the fall. On March 1, 1889, Carolina earned its first win in football as it routed Wake Forest 33-0 before a crowd of 500 in Raleigh. UNC went on to post a 2-2 record that year and earn a share of the state championship with Trinity and Wake Forest.

After a Carolina player suffered a broken collarbone that fall, the University faculty voted to discontinue the sport of football in January 1890 and Carolina did not compete at all the following fall. That is one of only three years since the start of football in 1888 in which the Tar Heels have not fielded a team, the other years being during World War I.

The following year, students petitioned to have football restored at UNC and the ban was lifted with the help of Professors Horace Williams, F.P. Venable and Eban Alexander. At this time, athletic control passed from the hands of students to the faculty, a situation that has continued on through today.

Football returned to UNC that fall with W.P. Graves as coach and UNC compiling an 0-2 record.

The following year, 1892, is considered by most to be the first year of real football at UNC with a representative six-game schedule. That squad also earned the distinction of being UNC's first really good team. Mike Hoke acted as team captain and the entire squad consisted of just 15 players with UNC using only one substitute the entire season. The team opened the year with a 40-0 rout of Richmond and after a loss to Virginia in the next game, it went on to win its last four. Carolina's 5-1 mark was the best record in the South that year. 1892 also marked the first year in which University teams were referred to as "Carolina," with the appellations "University" and "Chapel Hill" being dropped from the popular vernacular.

A meeting in February 1893 signalled the start of the formation of what would become the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association in later years. Ten schools, including UNC, were involved in the meeting and Dr. Venable was voted temporary chairman of the group. Later that same year on May 12, the UNC athletic association approved the awarding of varsity letters for the first time.

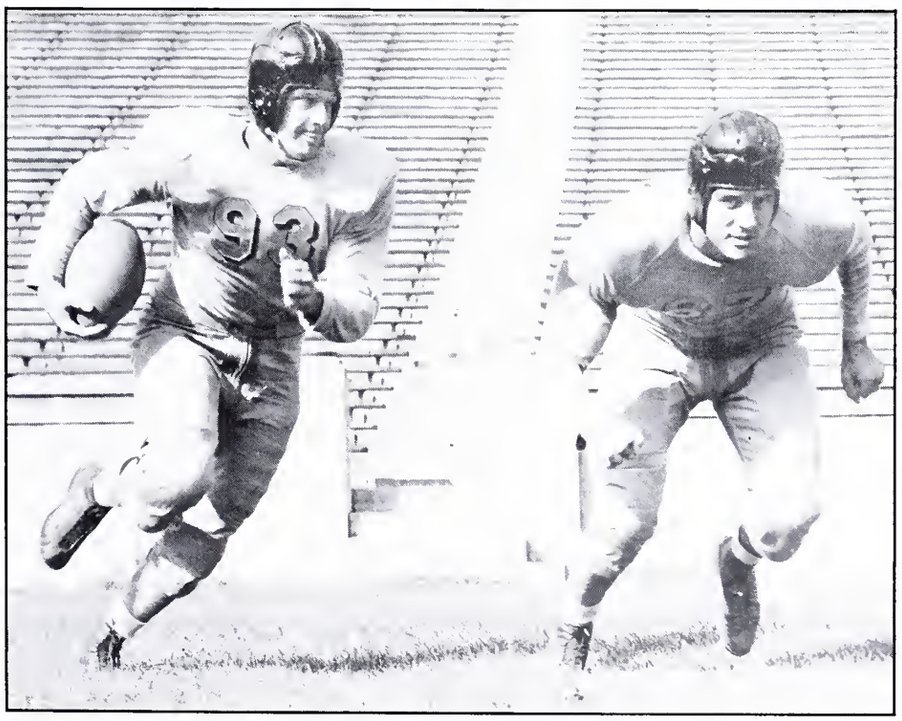
Although the 1893 team managed only a 3-4 record, it did have the distinction of being the first Southern team to play in New York City as Carolina lost a 34-0 decision to Lehigh on November 25, 1893. A year later, Carolina brought in Vernon K. Irvine from Princeton as the coach and he led Carolina to a 6-3 mark, attesting to the fact that good and regular coaching benefitted the team's performance. That UNC team finished second in the South and won the state championship. It was also the first to be forced to stage closed practices because of problems with crowd control at open sessions.

In 1895, T.C. "Doggie" Trenchard came from Princeton to coach the Tar Heels and he led UNC to an outstanding 7-1-1 season marred only by a loss to Virginia. A crowd of 12,000 was on hand for the meeting between the Tar Heels and the Cavaliers in Richmond, which UVa won 6-0. Twice during the game spectators ran onto the field to block the path of Tar Heel runners who had broken into the clear on apparent touchdown runs.

Carolina began to gain some consistency in the sport of football with the arrival of Will A. Reynolds of Princeton as head coach in 1897. Reynolds produced four winning Carolina teams in his four-year tenure at Chapel Hill. His first squad in 1897 went a formidable 7-3 and was followed in 1898 by what is still the only unbeaten, untied team in school history. That 1898 squad was a perfect 9-0 and outscored its opponents by an amazing 201-8. The team finished the season by beating Virginia for the first time in six years, 6-2, in Richmond.

Reynolds' final two teams also posted respectable records, going 7-3-1 in 1899 and 4-1-3 in 1900.

Reynolds yielded the coaching reins after the 1900 season to Charles Jenkins, who led UNC to seven straight wins prior to a pair of season-ending losses. Carolina beat all of its state opponents to win its seventh state championship since 1892. In this season, letters began to be awarded by an advisory committee of the athletic association. Previously, anyone who played had lettered.



Quarterback "Sweet" Jim Lalanne (93) and end Paul Severin, a two-time All-America in 1939 and 1940.

The next 11 seasons saw nine different head coaches. The 1905 Carolina eleven was coached by William Warner, the brother of the famed "Pop" Warner.

Trenchard returned as Carolina coach in 1913 for a three-year run. His 1914 squad was outstanding. Sixty men reported for the team and UNC went on to win its first 10 before losing to Virginia 20-3 before a record crowd of 15,000 in Richmond. That UNC team outscored its opponents 359-42 and became the first team in the South to display players' numbers on their jersies.

Trenchard's 1915 squad did not fare as well, finishing the campaign with a 4-3-1 mark. Seven regulars missed the VMI game and the rookies did not fare well, fumbling 16 times en route to a 3-3 tie. That same year, Trenchard started the first athletic training table at UNC in his home, feeding the 56 squad members on a daily basis.

The year 1916 found the Tar Heels in a new home as Carolina began to play its games at Emerson Stadium, the site of the current Davis Library. Freshmen were banned from varsity participation for the first time this year and the team went 5-4 and won its sixth successive state championship.

All of the members of the 1916 squad had entered the military service in World War I by the following fall and varsity football was dropped for the second time in UNC history, this time for a two-year hiatus.

Carolina made its full-fledged return to the gridiron in 1919, going 4-3-1 under coach Thomas J. Coleman. Carolina twice broke its single-game home attendance record that year as it won the state championship. The Tar Heels defeated N.C. State, 13-12, before a crowd of 7,500 and then topped that with 9,000 in a 6-0 win over Virginia. That game marked the first time the Cavaliers had ever played in Chapel Hill.

The 1920 campaign was a dismal one as UNC went 2-6 and scored only 16 points in eight games. But a new, more positive era in North Carolina football began a year later with the hiring of Bill and Bob Fetzer as co-head coaches. This also marked a change in athletic policy at UNC as the Fetzers were offered long-term positions instead of the usual one-year contracts. Carolina went 5-2-2 under the Fetzers in 1921 and 10,000 filled Emerson Field for Carolina's 7-3 win over Virginia.

That year also marked the first for UNC's participation in the Southern Intercollegiate Conference. At a February 25, 1921 meeting in Atlanta, the SIC was formed with a 16-school membership. The conference agreed to bans on postseason play, freshman eligibility and athletic training tables, required eligibility forms for players and disallowed organized practice before September 10.

Carolina would go on to have great success in the Southern Conference, tying for the league crown in 1922 and winning outright in 1934, 1937, 1946 and 1949.

The Fetzers' greatest team was probably the 1922 edition which posted an impressive 9-1 mark, won the South Atlantic championship and tied for the Southern Conference crown. That team lost only to Yale, 18-0, and had three touchdowns called back by penalties in the game. The squad was ranked 11th in the nation by I.B. Thomas in the January 1923 issue of Intercollegiate Athletics and played before a record 68,500 fans during the course of the campaign.

The 1923 team was ravaged by injuries but limped through to a 5-3-1 record and a state championship for a second straight year. A year later, the Tar Heels were only 4-5 but they did play before their largest crowd to that date, 25,000 at New Haven's Yale Bowl in a 27-0 loss to the Bulldogs.

The 1925 season would prove to be the Fetzers' last as co-coaches. The Tar Heels responded with an excellent season, going 7-1-1 and winning the state championship. The only loss came at the hands of Wake Forest. A crowd of 16,000 jammed Emerson Field (capacity 2,400) to see the Heels and Virginia play to a 3-3 tie in the season finale.

1926 brought a new era to Carolina football as Chuck Collins came on the scene as head coach. He had the longest tenure (eight years) of the early Carolina coaches. Collins, who was one of the seven mules for Notre Dame's Four Horsemen, served as Carolina's coach from 1926 through 1933.

The 1926 season brought onto the scene the infamous Kay Kyser, later to be a renowned Big Band leader, as head cheerleader and his Cheerios as the first major organized cheer block at Carolina. New stadium plans were also in the works in 1926. Carolina alumni in Durham and Chapel Hill met on May 24, 1926 to form the Durham Stadium Committee. On November 13 of that same year, William Rand Kenan, a New York City engineer and 1893 UNC football letterman, gave the Unviersity a gift of $275,000 to help build the stadium.

Carl Snavely gets a victory ride after Carolina bombs Texas, 34-7, in the 1948 season opener.

The first game was played in Kenan Stadium on November 12, 1927 with UNC beating Davidson 27-0 before a crowd of 9,000 fans. The following Saturday, UNC beat two-touchdown favorite Duke 18-0 in Kenan. The stadium was officially dedicated on Thanksgiving Day 1927 with 28,000 attending as Carolina edged Virginia 14-13. John Sprunt Hill officially made the presentation of the stadium to Governor A.W. McLean who accepted on behalf of the University and state.

Carolina won its first state championship since 1925 during the 1928 season. Its 5-3-2 record that year included a 65-0 win over Wake Forest in the season opener. That still stands as the largest margin of victory in UNC history. President Calvin Coolidge attended the Carolina-Virginia game in Charlottesville that year and saw the Tar Heels pull out a 24-20 win. It was the first time a U.S. president had ever attended a game in the South.

Collins' first great team was the 1929 edition which went 9-1 and outscored its opponents 346-60. The only loss of the year came to Georgia and only Southern California scored more points during the course of the season. Ray Farris was the captain of that UNC team and was a unanimous All-Southern Conference choice at guard. Carolina was called the "Team of a Million Backs" and drew a record attendance of 139,500.

The 1931 team coached by Collins went 4-3-3 and won the state championship. The Duke-Carolina game went big time for the first time that year as a crowd of 20,000 in Durham watched the two teams play to their second straight scoreless tie. Johnny Branch, a great all-purpose runner, was the star of that squad.

The quiet Dutchman, Carl Snavely, came to Chapel Hill in 1934 from Bucknell to take over the reins of the Tar Heels. It would be the first of two tours of duty for Snavely as head coach. The 1934 team went 7-1-1 and was led by George Barclay, UNC's first recognized All-America in football, at guard. Carolina lost only to Tennessee and tied N.C. State that season. The Carolina-Duke game drew state and Kenan record crowds as the Tar Heels eked out a thrilling 7-0 victory.

The 1935 team also proved to be a great one as Snavely led his squad to an 8-1 record. Carolina won its first seven of the season and there was talk that the Tar Heels were headed to the Rose Bowl. But arch-rival Duke made sure that didn't happen on Saturday, November 14 in Durham as the Blue Devils played an errorless game, winning 25-0. That game at Durham drew a new Southern attendance record of 47,000 and in total 149,500 saw UNC play during the course of the year, another record. After losing to Duke, UNC came back to pummel Virginia 61-0 and ended up eighth in the final Associated Press rankings. Ace passer Don Jackson was named a second-team All-America.

Ray Wolf came to Carolina in 1936 to coach after Snavely had gone on to Cornell. Wolf had six successful seasons at UNC, producing winning teams the first five. The 1936 team went 8-2 and lost only to Tulane and Duke. That squad was led by end Andy Bershak, who was a second-team All-America in 1936 and a first teamer a year later. Wolf's teams continued their success, going 7-1-1, 6-2-1, 8-1-1 and 6-4 in subsequent years. Some of Wolf's outstanding players were Jim Lalanne, Paul Severin and George Stirnweiss.

The World War II years were an unsettled time in Carolina athletic history. From 1942 through 1944, UNC had three different head coaches who put makeshift teams through the paces against adjusted schedules which included some military teams. Jim Tatum, an outstanding player at Carolina in the 1930's, coached the 1942 unit. He would return for another coaching tenure later.

Snavely returned to Chapel Hill in 1945 and during the next five years turned out some of the best teams in Carolina football history. His 1948 team finished third in the AP poll, the highest final ranking ever for the Tar Heels.

An Omaha, Nebraska native, Snavely was a 1915 alumnus of Lebanon Valley College. He had coached Carolina teams in 1934 and 1935 to a 15-2-1 record and returned in 1945 after nine years at Cornell.

His 1945 team did well, finishing 5-5 after winning only one game the previous season. Then the incomparable Charlie Justice arrived a year later, and with his compatriots, UNC went to three major bowl games and won two Southern Conference titles in the period from 1946-49.

Snavely's 1946 team was 8-2-1, won the Southern Conference championship and lost to Georgia, 20-10, in the Sugar Bowl. The 1947 team was probably the best of the four. It finished 8-2, winning its last seven, but went uninvited in the post-season. The 1948 unit had only a regular-season tie with William & Mary to mar its record. It went on to lose to Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl. Finally, the 1949 team was unbeaten in the conference and finished 7-4 overall, losing to Rice in the Cotton Bowl.

Justice was not the only star of those Snavely teams. Art Weiner and Ken Powell were tremendous ends on those teams and Hosea Rodgers was a great rugged fullback of the era.

But Justice was the main attraction unquestionably. He ran and passed for over 5,000 yards in his four-year tenure and he averaged over 42 yards a punt for his career. He had only two punts blocked and both of those were in the first game of his freshman year. When he was done after the 1949 season, Justice had established NCAA records in total offense and punting and was considered the greatest punter of all-time.

As a triple-threat All-America halfback, Justice captured the imagination and fancy of the football fan as no one else ever had. He was idolized and the attention he received from the fans and the media was almost unheard of in that time.

A native of Asheville, he had served in the Navy in World War II and was already 26 years old by the time of his senior year in 1949. He capped his amazing career by being named the Most Valuable Player in the 1950 College All-Star Game in Chicago.

The departure of Justice from campus coincided with a 20-year drought in UNC's football fortunes. Snavely, despite all his earlier successes, could not produce a winning team after the Justice era. George Barclay, Carolina's first All-America player back in 1934, was brought in as head coach, but he encountered little success in his three years of running the program. That's when Carolina successfully lured Jim Tatum back to the fold. Tatum was a great UNC player in the 1930's and had coached the Tar Heels during the war in 1942. He had since been at Maryland where he led the Terrapins to the national championship in 1953.

Tatum returned to Chapel Hill in 1956 and after a 2-7-1 record that year, produced back-to-back 6-4 records. It appeared Carolina had the corner turned when Tatum died suddenly in the summer of 1959 from Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever. He was replaced by assistant Jim Hickey whose teams did not meet with a great deal of success in his eight seasons as head coach. Hickey produced only one winning record, that in 1963 when the Tar Heels finished 9-2 and shared their first Atlantic Coast Conference title. That team went on to post the school's first win in a bowl game, a 35-0 decision over Air Force in the Gator Bowl. That 1963 squad was led by the running of Ken Willard, the passing of Junior Edge and Gary Black and the pass receiving of Bob Lacey. Linebacker Chris Hanburger was a stalwart on defense for the Tar Heels.

After Hickey, UNC looked to Bill Dooley to revitalize its football fortunes. The choice proved to be a wise one. Dooley's teams won 69, lost 53 and tied two in his 11-year tenure. ACC championships were won under Dooley in 1971, 1972 and 1977. Bowl trips became a regular feature—six in all during the Dooley years.

After three rebuilding seasons, Dooley's first great team was in 1970. It finished 8-4 and went on to play Arizona State in the Peach Bowl. Tailback Don McCauley, who had gained 1,092 yards rushing in 1969, returned for a 1,720-yard season in 1970. He was the first of UNC's 18 1,000-yard rushers. The Garden City, N.Y. native's 1,720 yards in 1970 broke what was then O.J. Simpson's single-season NCAA rushing standard.

Dooley's teams won back-to-back ACC titles in 1971 and 1972. The '71 team lost to Georgia 7-3 in the Gator Bowl in a matchup of coaching brothers, Vince Dooley being the head mentor of the Bulldogs. The 1972 team had an 11-1 record marred only by a loss at Ohio State. It won a thrilling 32-28 decision from Texas Tech in the Sun Bowl.

The mid-1970's brought more success as UNC made bowl appearances in 1974 (Sun), 1976 (Peach) and 1977 (Liberty). Sammy Johnson was a 1,000-yard rusher for Carolina in 1973 and James Betterson in 1974. But the outstanding offensive player of this time was Mike Voight who gained over 1,000 yards in 1974, 1975 and 1976, including 1,407 yards in '76. Voight was named the ACC Player-of-the-Year in both 1975 and '76 for his efforts.

The 1977 team would prove to be Dooley's last at UNC. It won the ACC title and earned a berth opposite Nebraska in the Liberty Bowl. A rugged defense led by All-America tackle Dee Hardison helped Carolina lead the nation in scoring defense that season. UNC allowed only 81 points in 11 regular-season games. The new offensive star was a freshman tailback named Amos Lawrence who rushed for 1,211 yards and was named ACC Rookie-of-the-Year.

Dooley resigned in January 1978 to accept the dual role of head football coach and athletic director at Virginia Tech. At that time Carolina turned to the "Cradle of Coaches" at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, to find its new head coach, Dick Crum.

Crum had just completed a brilliant four-year run as head mentor at Miami. His 10-year run as head coach at UNC was equally brilliant. The winningest coach in Tar Heel history, he compiled a 72-41-3 ledger at the UNC helm. He took six of his 10 UNC teams to bowl games, winning on four occasions, and the 1980 squad won the ACC championship.

After a 5-6 record in 1978, Crum's teams from 1979 through 1983 went to five successive bowls and won 45 games in that time, an average of nine per season. UNC posted four consecutive bowl wins over national football powers in that time frame, beating Michigan in the 1979 Gator Bowl, Texas in the 1980 Bluebonnet Bowl, Arkansas in the 1981 Gator Bowl and Texas again in the 1982 Sun Bowl. No other team in ACC history has won four successive bowl games.

In 1980 and 1981, UNC became the first team in league history to finish in the Top 10 of both wire service polls in successive years. The 1980 team was 11-1 and ranked ninth by United Press International and 10th by Associated Press. The 1981 unit was 10-2 and rated eighth by UPI and ninth by AP. Two more Carolina teams coached by Crum would later go to bowl games, the 1983 team to the Peach Bowl to face Florida State and the 1986 corps to the Aloha Bowl for a meeting with Arizona.

The 11-1 1980 team featured a ferocious defense led by outside linebacker Lawrence Taylor (98)

There was a plethora of outstanding players at Carolina during the Crum era and the Tar Heel football record book was being constantly updated. In 1980, linebacker Lawrence Taylor was named the ACC Player-of-the-Year and he has gone on to all-pro status with the New York Giants. That season, Taylor led what was one of the great defenses in ACC history. Other great defensive players of recent years at UNC include linebacker Buddy Curry, defensive tackle Donnell Thompson, linebacker Darrell Nicholson, defensive back Steve Streater, defensive tackle William Fuller and outside linebacker Mike Wilcher. All of those players were All-ACC selections and several went on to distinguished pro careers. Fuller made four first team All-America squads in 1983.

Although Crum's teams were known for their rugged defense, Carolina also excelled offensively, leading the ACC in total offense four times in the 1980's and ranking sixth nationally in 1986.

There were several reasons behind the offensive fireworks. First, there was a succession of outstanding running backs. Five different players gained 1,000 or more yards rushing in a season a total of 10 times under Crum's tutelage. After his brilliant freshman year, Lawrence went on to gain 1,000 yards three more times. He and Tony Dorsett are the only two runners in college football history to gain 1,000 yards rushing each of their four seasons. Kelvin Bryant, now with the Washington Redskins, overcame an injury-marred career to gain 1,000 yards on three occasions. Ethan Horton turned the trick twice in his career and both Tyrone Anthony and Derrick Fenner had one 1,000-yard rushing season.

A second reason behind UNC's offensive success was the presence of some outstanding offensive linemen in the 1980's, four of whom gained first team All-America status—guard Ron Wooten in 1980, guard David Drechsler in 1981 and '82, tackle Brian Blados in 1983 and tackle Harris Barton in 1986. Wooten, Blados and Barton are all currently starters in the National Football League.

Carolina's offense also became more diversified in the Crum era and the passing section of the Carolina record book was basically rewritten in this time by a string of accomplished starters at quarterback—Matt Kupec, Rod Elkins, Scott Stankavage, Kevin Anthony and Mark Maye.

At the conclusion of the 1987 season, Crum resigned to return home to his native Ohio where he is now head coach at Kent State University. Carolina conducted a national search to find a successor to lead the Tar Heels into their centennial season. The unanimous choice of the search committee is a 37-year-old native of Cookeville, Tenn., Mack Brown, who comes to Carolina after head coaching tenures at Appalachian State and Tulane. He is considered nationally as one of the finest young minds in the game, a brilliant motivator and communicator.

Brown seems the ideal man to lead Carolina into its second century of gridiron excellence. Backers of Tar Heel football can rest sure in the knowledge that the winning tradition at Carolina serves not only as a fond remembrance of past glory, but also a solid bedrock for future success. When this piece is written again a century hence, the legacy that is Carolina football promises to be even more glorious.

That's the magic figure for any runner in football.

Call him a halfback, a running back, a tailback, an I-Back or whatever you want. But, when he rushes for 1,000 yards, you simply call him something special.

Nowhere in college football have there been more special runners than at the University of North Carolina.

In the last 19 years Tar Heel tailbacks have rushed for over 1,000 yards on 18 occasions. That gives Carolina more 1,000-yard backs than anyone else in collegiate history.

The University of Southern California has produced seventeen 1,000-yard rushers. That's the second-highest total in the game and puts the Tar Heels and the Trojans well ahead of everyone else.

In a 12-year period from 1973 to 1984, Carolina had at least one player break the 1,000-yard mark each season.

Three times in that 12-year stretch, the Tar Heels had two tailbacks get 1,000 yards in the same season. It has been rare in college football for a school to produce two 1,000-yard backs in one year. When it has happened it has generally been with option attacks—the veer or the wishbone. But, on all three occasions when Carolina has had a pair of 1,000-yard rushers, the players actually shared the same position—tailback in the Tar Heels' I-formation.

Tailback at Carolina, in fact, has become the glamour position in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Year in and year out, more attention goes to Tar Heel tailbacks than to players at any other position at any other school in the league. To be a tailback at Carolina, one has to be a superb athlete, one of the nation's best players, someone special.

How has Carolina been able to produce so many 1,000-yard backs?

Certainly, having outstanding runners has been a major factor. But, other schools also have had great backs and haven't been able to compile the figures of Carolina. For example, the Tar Heels have had more 1,000-yard rushers than Alabama, Notre Dame and Penn State combined.

No, there are also other reasons, the most important of which are probably fine offensive linemen, belief in the I-formation and tradition. Those reasons also hold true for Southern California.

Carolina and USC have each had two players rush for 1,000 yards three times—Mike Voight and Kelvin Bryant of the Tar Heels and the Trojans' Charles White and Anthony Davis.

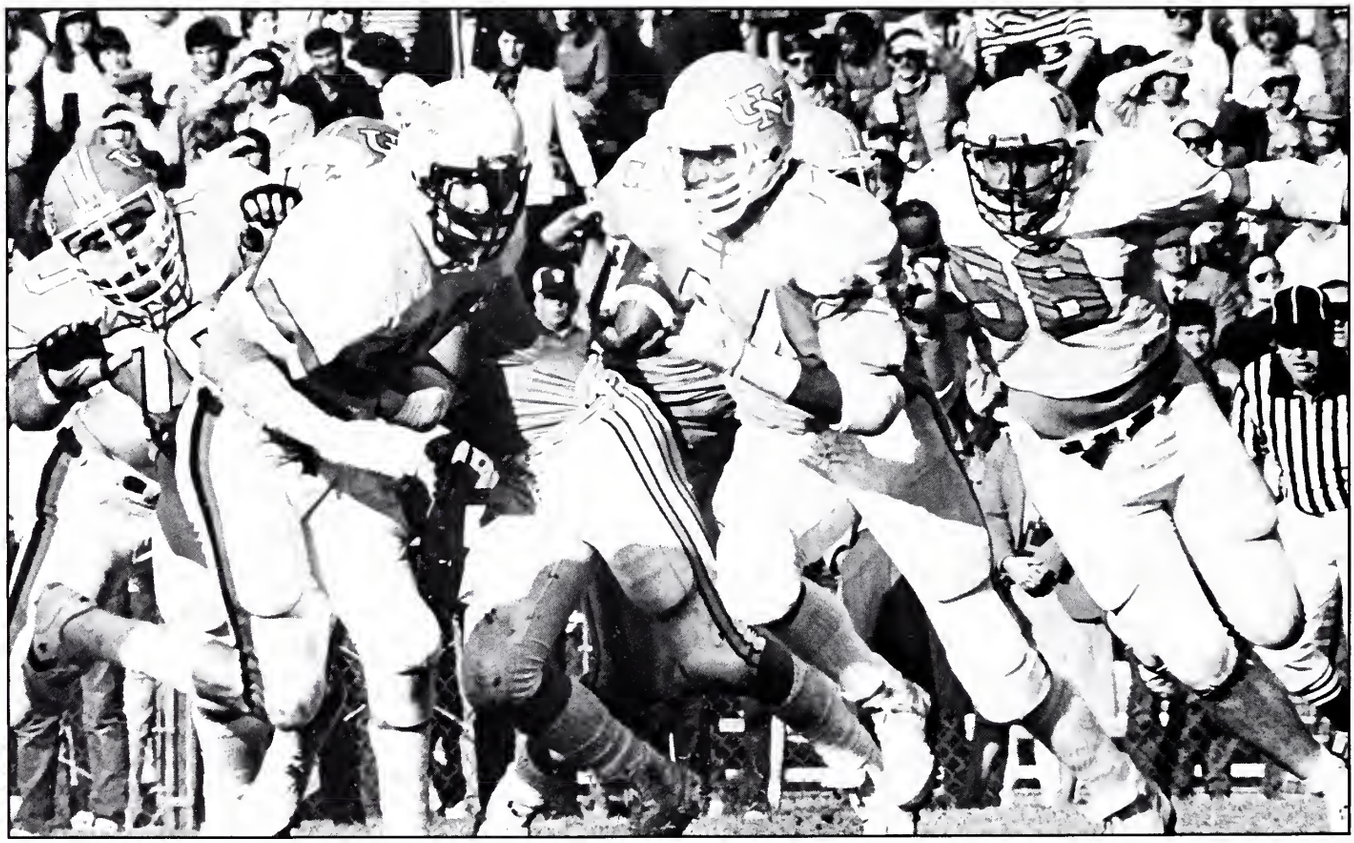
In addition, Carolina's Amos Lawrence had an amazing four 1,000-yard seasons. He and Pittsburgh's Tony Dorsett are the only major college players ever to hit the 1,000-yard mark four times.

The biggest difference between the tailback systems at Carolina and Southern Cal is that Trojan backs have generally had higher yardage totals. But, USC usually picks one player as its tailback and sticks with him throughout the season. In fact, Southern Cal has never had two backs gain 1,000 yards in the same season.

Carolina, on the other hand, has alternated tailbacks quite a bit, trying to keep a fresh player in the game at all times. When two players split a position, their individual yardage totals obviously aren't as high as those of runners who stay in the game constantly. The Tar Heel philosophy is simply that if you've got two great runners, let them both play. In the long run, both will be more effective.

That's not to say Carolina would never go with a system like USC's. If one runner is clearly better than all others, he will get the majority of the playing time. For example, Don McCauley rushed for 1,720 yards in 1970. At that time that broke O.J. Simpson's all-time NCAA single-season yardage record. Still, McCauley's backup, Ike Oglesby had 562 yards.

McCauley is Carolina's only 1,000-yard back from outside the ACC's geographic area. He is a native of Garden City, N.Y.



Kelvin Bryant

Bryant, Tyrone Anthony, James Betterson, Ethan Horton and Sammy Johnson are all North Carolinians. Lawrence and Voight grew up in Virginia while Derrick Fenner is from Maryland.

All except Fenner have played professional football. McCauley and Bryant have had the most success to date. McCauley played with the Baltimore Colts for 11 seasons and broke many of the club's rushing and scoring records set by Alan Ameche and Lenny Moore. Bryant was the USFL's Player of the Year in that league's first season. He joined the Washington Redskins in 1986.

Horton and Johnson were recruited as quarterbacks. All of the others were high school halfbacks, although McCauley was more highly regarded as a defensive back.

Those players have turned in some of the greatest individual performances in ACC history. In fact, Carolina players have had the four best rushing days in league history. Fenner set a new ACC rushing record in 1986 by gaining 328 yards against Virginia. The old record had been 286 by Lawrence against Virginia in 1977. McCauley has the third-best figure with 279 against Duke in 1970. Fourth on the ACC list is Voight's 261 yards against Duke in 1976.

Top single-season efforts ever in the ACC were McCauley's 1,720 yards in 1970 and Voight's 1,407 in 1976.

It has been performances like that which have made Carolina's tailback position what it is—a spot filled with tradition, a spot for special players, a spot for 1,000-yard rushers.

The Linebacker Tradition

The most dynamic defensive player in the National Football League is Lawrence Taylor, the sensational linebacker of the New York Giants and another in a long line of standouts at that position from the University of North Carolina.

Two season ago Taylor captured pro football's most prized award when he was named the NFL's Most Valuable Player. That honor came after he led the Giants to a Super Bowl triumph.The MVP trophy gave Taylor a sweep of the NFL's top individual honors in just his sixth year in the league.

Taylor roared into the NFL in 1981 as few rookies ever have. He not only was the league's Rookie of the Year, but also the NFL Defensive Player of the Year as well. In his seven seasons with the Giants he has established himself as the outside linebacker with whom all others must be compared.

Of course, Taylor's success has come as no surprise to those who followed his great career at Carolina.

And the fact Taylor played for the Tar Heels was no surprise to NFL fans. Carolina has been turning out star linebackers for years.

The biggest star of them all may well be Taylor. The second player chosen in the 1981 NFL draft, he actually helped turn the Giant franchise around. New York, which had only a 4-12 record in 1980, improved to 9-7 in Taylor's first year there. The Giants made the playoffs for the first time since 1963.

The major reason for that improvement was an outstanding defense featuring Taylor. The New York offense wasn't great by any means, but the defense was strong enough to offset that. Quick and powerful with tremendous instincts, Taylor presented a major problem for opposing offenses. He actually re-defined the outside linebacker position.

In his first year in the league, Taylor received more votes than any other NFC player in balloting for the Pro Bowl.

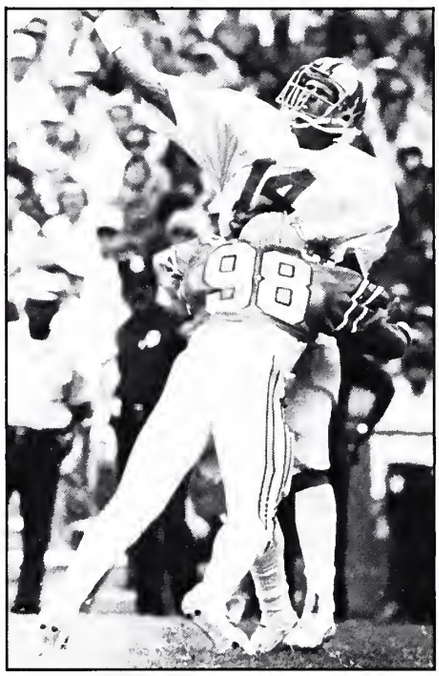
Taylor has been an All-Pro selection in all seven of his NFL seasons and has also been in the Pro Bowl each year. Four times he has been named Defensive Player of the Year.

Taylor had similar success at Carolina. He was a consensus All-America and the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year in his senior season. During that fall of 1980, he led a Tar Heel defense which helped Carolina post an 11-1 record, equalling the most wins in school history.

Taylor had really begun to develop into a true super-star late in his junior year. He finished third on the team in tackles that fall, had five sacks and made six tackles for losses. Then he was sensational against Michigan in the Gator Bowl.

That set the stage for a dynamic senior season in which Taylor seemed to make big plays every week. He had 55 solo tackles, 16 sacks and six tackles for losses. He forced three fumbles, recovered three and made plays that had to be seen to be believed. Even then instant replay would have been helpful.

However, as mentioned earlier, Taylor was not the first Tar Heel linebacker to reach stardom in the NFL. The year before Taylor entered the league, the NFL's best rookie linebacker was Buddy Curry of the Atlanta Falcons. Curry had won All-ACC honors at Carolina in 1977 and 1979. He was a key figure, as just a sophomore, on a 1977 Tar Heel defense which gave up the fewest points in the nation.



Another big hit for Lawrence Taylor

Two former Carolina linebackers helped their teams reach the Super Bowl in the 1970's. Chris Hanburger sparked a Redskin defense which took Washington to Super Bowl VII. John Bunting was a key performer for the Philadelphia Eagles when they reached Super Bowl XV.

While Hanburger and Bunting were two of the NFL's premier linebackers during the 1970's, two of the league's best in the Sixties were also former Tar Heels—Rip Hawkins of the Minnesota Vikings and Bill Koman of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Like Curry, Hanburger and Hawkins were two-time All-ACC choices during their college days. Jimmy DeRatt, a Carolina linebacker in the early 1970's, also won all-conference honors twice.

Other Tar Heel linebackers who have made the All-ACC team since 1970 are Bunting, Taylor, Bill Richardson, Mike Mansfield, Darrell Nicholson, Lee Shaffer, Chris Ward, Mike Wilcher, Micah Moon and Brett Rudolph.

Wilcher is one of the NFL's best young defenders today. He has become a Pro Bowl player for the Los Angeles Rams and ranks as one of the best outside linebackers in the game. In other words, people are comparing him to Lawrence Taylor, the best who's ever played.

The First Forward Pass

While it is foolish to state emphatically that the first forward pass was thrown by a North Carolina football team, certain records would indicate as much. No less an authority than John Heisman himself credits the Tar Heels with the game's first pass.

The scene was Atlanta on October 26, 1895. Carolina and Georgia were locked in a scoreless struggle in the game's closing moments. The Tar Heels were in a punting situation deep in their own territory. Here is an account of what then happened as reported by Heisman in a 1928 edition of Collier's Weekly:

"The North Carolina fullback retreated until the crossbar of his goal was above his head and from the Georgia stands came the exhortation to 'block it, block it, block it.'

"And Georgia's forwards, gathering all their waning strength and riding over North Carolina's tired defense might have blocked it and even scored, had the sturdy boy from North Carolina kicked.

"But instead of punting into the leaping bodies of those onrushing Georgians, he ran a few mincing steps to the right. Raising the ball to his shoulder he tossed it.

"Luck was with the boy. The ball was caught by a North Carolinian. Now as we know forward passes, it wasn't much. It traveled a few yards and laterally as well as forward. It may have appeared to the spectators that it had been knocked from that fullback's hands.

"At any rate the lad who caught it ran 70 yards for a touchdown!

"I had seen the first forward pass in college football. It was illegal, of course. Already Pop Warner, the Georgia coach, was storming at the referee. But the referee had not seen the North Carolina lad, goaded to desperation, toss the ball. A touchdown had been made and a touchdown it remained."

Other accounts of the game do not mention the forward pass. However, George Stephens is credited with a 70-yard touchdown run in the game.

At any rate, Heisman wrote that he immediately saw the possibilities that the forward pass had. He personally wrote Walter Camp about the play.

The forward pass was discussed for several years. It became a part of the rules at Camp's suggestion in 1906.

Certainly, the idea of the pass had to come from something. It may well have been Carolina's strange play in 1895.

Carolina's Bowl History

North Carolina has played in 16 post-season bowl games, including 12 in the last 18 years.

Carolina's post-season trips have been to the Sugar Bowl in 1947 and 1949; the Cotton Bowl in 1950; the Gator Bowl in 1963, 1971, 1979 and 1981; the Peach Bowl in 1970, 1976 and 1983; the Sun Bowl in 1972, 1974 and 1982; the Liberty Bowl in 1977; the Bluebonnet Bowl in 1980; and the Aloha Bowl in 1986.

The Tar Heels' bowl history started in the late Forties when Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice was running wild from the single wing. Carolina went to bowl games three times during the Justice Era, but lost all three.

Perhaps the most famous of those games was the 1947 Sugar Bowl which matched Carolina against Georgia. The game produced one of the most controversial plays in bowl history. Carolina was leading 7-0 in the third period when Bulldog defensive end Joe Tereshinski intercepted a Tar Heel pass. He then flipped a lateral to Dick McPhee who raced to the Carolina 14.

The Tar Heels argued the lateral was a forward one and the play should have been called back. However, the officials ruled differently. Georgia went on to score and eventually won the game.

Carolina returned to the Sugar Bowl two years later and lost to Oklahoma, 14-6. Justice had a great day for the Tar Heels, clicking off runs of 10, 13, 25, 11 and 14 yards. He punted four times for 65, 65, 57 and 53 yards.

Justice had another great day in the 1950 Cotton Bowl, but Carolina lost to Rice, 27-13.

The Tar Heels' next bowl appearance came in the 1963 Gator Bowl where Carolina walloped the Air Force, 35-0. Ken Willard was the big star that day. He ran for 94 yards on 18 carries and scored the first touchdown which keyed the runaway victory.

In the 1970 Peach Bowl the Tar Heels dropped a wild 48-26 decision to unbeaten Arizona State. All-America tailback Don McCauley had 143 yards rushing and three touchdowns for Carolina. But a second-half snowstorm and an injury to quarterback Paul Miller helped the Sun Devils to race to victory.

The 1971 Gator Bowl produced a bowl first—brothers opposing each other as coaches in bowl competition. It matched Vince Dooley of Georgia against Bill of Carolina. The game was a great defensive struggle in which the Bulldogs came from behind to win, 7-3.

Carolina capped an 11-1 season in the 1972 Sun Bowl by defeating Texas Tech, 32-28. Quarterback Nick Vidnovic was the big star, completing 14 of 26 passes for 215 yards. He fired a 62-yard scoring strike to Ted Leverenz to help the Tar Heels to a 24-21 halftime lead.

Tech came back to go ahead, 28-24, but Vidnovic hit Leverenz with a 13-yard TD pass with just a minute to play to bring Carolina back. The Tar Heels then added two more points when Ronnie Robinson dropped Raider quarterback Joe Barnes for a safety.

Mike Voight and James Betterson had big days rushing in the 1974 Sun Bowl, but Mississippi State won another thriller, 26-24. The Tar Heels put on a desperation drive in the game's closing moments, but were stopped on a fourth-and-one at their own 48-yard line.

Playing without the injured Voight, Carolina lost to Kentucky, 21-0, in the 1976 Peach Bowl. The Tar Heels had trouble all day with a tough Wildcat defense.

Carolina dropped a heartbreaking 21-17 decision to Nebraska in the 1977 Liberty Bowl. Sparked by quarterback Matt Kupec, the Tar Heels held a 17-7 lead going into the fourth period. However, the Cornhuskers rallied behind reserve quarterback Randy Garcia to score their come-from-behind victory.

Kupec and Amos Lawrence were the big stars in Carolina's 17-15 win over Michigan in the 1979 Gator Bowl. Kupec directed a 97-yard touchdown drive in the third quarter which put the Tar Heels ahead to stay (14-9). Jeff Hayes later added a 32-yard field goal. Michigan scored with 1:28 left to cut the lead to two, but a two-point pass failed.

Kupec completed 18 of 28 passes, while Lawrence ran for 118 yards. They were named co-MVPs.

Lawrence again was the big star in Carolina's 16-7 win over Texas in the 1980 Bluebonnet Bowl. He rushed for 104 yards and had a 59-yard touchdown run. Carolina's other scoring came on a short plunge by Kelvin Bryant and a field goal by Hayes. A key factor in this game was the Carolina defense which limited the Longhorns to just two first downs and only 36 yards of total offense in the second half. Lawrence topped Bryant in voting for the game's outstanding offensive player, while Steve Streater edged Lawrence Taylor in balloting for the defensive MVP.

Bryant and his backup, Ethan Horton, both had big nights as Carolina defeated Arkansas, 31-27, in the 1981 Gator Bowl. Bryant rushed for 148 yards and Horton added 144. They shared the MVP award.

Horton again was the big star in 1982 as Carolina came from behind to defeat seventh-ranked Texas, 26-10, in the Sun Bowl. Coming off the bench in the second half for an injured Bryant, Horton rushed for 119 yards and won MVP honors. Sparked by his play, the Tar Heels rallied from a 10-3 halftime deficit.

However, Horton was not the only Carolina star. The Tar Heel defense, which made two brilliant goal line stands, shut down the Texas attack in the second half. Rob Rogers and Brooks Barwick each kicked two field goals despite weather conditions which featured a wind chill factor of 12 degrees and snow throughout the game.

That Sun Bowl victory made Carolina the first Atlantic Coast Conference school ever to win four straight bowl games. However, that streak came to an end the following year in the 1983 Peach Bowl. Florida State scored the first two times it had the ball and was never headed in a 28-3 victory. The Tar Heels hurt themselves badly with a fumbled punt which allowed the Seminoles to go just 16 yards for their third touchdown and with penalties which killed two drives of their own.

Carolina went to the Aloha Bowl in 1986. The trip to Honolulu was great except for the game itself—a 30-21 loss to Arizona. The Tar Heels spotted the Wildcats a 30-0 lead before putting on a big second-half rally. Arizona seemed to have the game in hand as Carolina strugged offensively against a rugged Wildcat defense. However, Torin Dorn got the Tar Heels going in the third quarter with an Aloha-record 58-yard touchdown run.

Then Norris Davis made two big plays, intercepting a pass and blocking a punt, to get the ball back for the offense. Mark Maye threw to Randy Marriott for one score and got another TD himself on a two-yard run. That cut the lead to 30-21 with over nine minutes to play. But, despite driving inside Wildcat territory on two other occasions, Carolina could get no closer.

That defeat left the all-time Tar Heel bowl record at 6-10.

Why Tar Heels?

University of North Carolina athletic teams are known as the Tar Heels because North Carolina is "The Tar Heel State."

There are a number of different stories about how the nickname was originally acquired. The two most widely accepted explanations are repeated here. The fact that the production of tar, pitch and turpentine was for many years the state's principal industry is a key element in both stories.

One legend has the nickname being applied to the state's residents as long ago as the Revolutionary War. According to this story, the troops of British General Cornwallis were fording what is now known as the Tar River between Rocky Mount and Battleboro when they discovered that tar had been dumped into the stream to impede their crossing. When they finally got across the river they found their feet completely black with tar. Their observation that anyone who waded North Carolina rivers would acquire tar heels led to the nickname first being used.

Others say the nickname was acquired during the War Between the States. During one of that war's fiercest battles a column supporting North Carolina troops was driven from the field. After the battle, the North Carolinians who had successfully fought it out alone, happened to meet the regiment which had fled to safety and were greeted with the question, "Any more tar down in the Old North State, boys?"

"No, not a bit," shot back one of the North Carolina soldiers. "Old Jeff's bought it all up," he went on, referring to Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy.

"Is that so? What's he going to do with it?"

"He's going to put it on you'ns heels to make you stick better in the next fight."

Upon hearing of the incident, Robert E. Lee smiled and said to a fellow officer, "God bless the Tar Heel boys."

A Ram For a Mascot?

For over 60 years the mascot of North Carolina's football team has been a ram. The current sideline star for the Tar Heels is Rameses IXI.

Since Carolina's nickname is Tar Heels, it might seem strange to have a ram as a mascot. It is. But, there is a good explanation. It's offered by Vic Huggins, Carolina's head cheerleader back in 1924.

"In 1924 school spirit was at a peak," Huggins once explained. "But something seemed to be missing. One day it hit me. Georgia had a bulldog for a mascot and State a wolf. What Carolina needed was a symbol."

Two years earlier the Tar Heels had posted a brilliant 9-1 record. The star of that 1922 team was a bruising fullback named Jack Merritt. Merritt was nicknamed "the battering ram" for the way he plunged into lines. It seemed natural to Huggins to link a mascot with Merritt's unusual sobriquet.

"Charlie Woollen, the athletic business manager at that time, agreed with the idea and gave us $25 to purchase a fitting mascot," said Huggins.

Rameses the First was shipped in from Texas, arriving just in time to be introduced at a pep rally before the VMI game. Complete with a monogram blanket on his back, Rameses helped make the pep rally one of the school's greatest.

Then the ram was taken to Emerson Field where Carolina was an underdog to a strong VMI team. But, for three quarters the Tar Heels battled the visitors to a scoreless tie.

Late in the fourth period Carolina's Bunn Hackney was called upon to attempt a field goal. Before taking the field he stopped to rub Rameses's head for good luck.

Seconds later Hackney's 30-yard dropkick sailed between the goalposts, giving the Tar Heels a 3-0 victory and a legendary mascot.

From that November afternoon in 1924, the deeds and experiences of Rameses I and his successors have been the basis for countless anecdotes.

For instance, there was Rameses I making his first indoor appearance. Huggins was again the originator of the idea, the Tin Can was the scene and a basketball game was the event.

A theatrical debut with bright lights and a chorus was planned for the ram's introduction before a capacity audience. But when Rameses was led to midcourt at halftime, it became evident that he was not housebroken. In addition to being his first, that was also Rameses's last basketball game.

Tar Heel rams have traveled everywhere from New York City (for the Carolina-Notre Dame game in 1949) to Jacksonville for Carolina's Gator Bowl appearances.

Generally, the highlight of each season for Rameses is trying to outwit Duke students who always try to ram-nap him before the traditional big game with the Blue Devils.

School Colors

The adoption of light blue and white as the University of North Carolina's colors dates back to the 19th Century.

When the University reopened following the War Between the States most social activities were directed by two literary societies, the Dialectic and Philanthropic. The official color of the Di was light blue and that of the Phi white. Since society membership was compulsory for all students, the opinions and activities of these organizations were by nature of circumstances all embracing. It was the custom for all men from localities west of Chapel Hill to affiliate with the Di and generally for students from the east to become members of the Phi.

On public occasions such as commencement exercises, the student officers, marshals and ball managers were chosen equally from the membership of the two societies. It had long been the custom of each society for its members to wear its color on such occasions. However, the chief marshal and chief ball manager, one from the Di and the other from the Phi, wore combination light blue and white regalias and rosettes signifying that they represented the whole student body and not just one of the societies.

Later, when intercollegiate athletics were established and students began accompanying teams to other colleges or cities, the question of what to wear became a problem. Certainly, the students wanted to be associated with the University, but the school had no official colors. So it seemed only natural for the fans to adorn themselves with the same combination as that used by the chief marshals and ball managers, colors which represented not membership in a society, but in the University student body.

The light blue worn by Tar Heel students today has many different names. It is called simply light blue, powder blue, sky blue or Columbia Blue among other things. Generally, however, it is just referred to as Carolina Blue. The accomplishments of Tar Heel athletes have made the color synonimous with the University so it now simply bears it name.

The University

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill was the first state university to open its doors and the only public university in the nation to award degrees in the 18th century.

The cornerstone for Old East, the nation's first state university building, was laid on October 12, 1793. Fifteen months later UNC opened and, by 1860, only Yale University had more students.

From those beginnings, the growth and development of North Carolina always has been influenced by the University. It has trained many of the state's leaders, including nearly half of its governors, and a U.S. president, James K. Polk, is among its graduates.

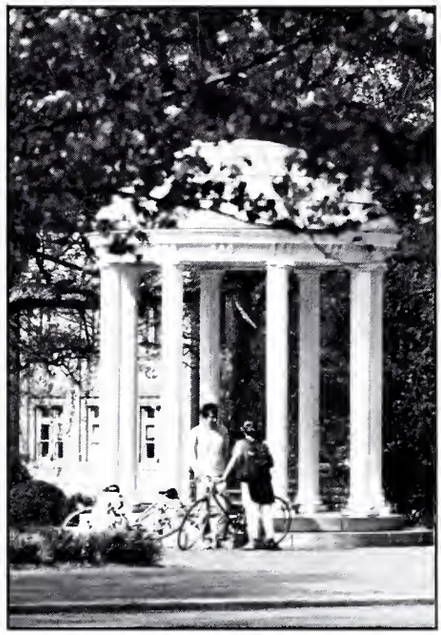
Now the flagship of the 16-campus University of North Carolina system, the University at Chapel Hill is ranked among the great institutions of higher education in the nation and the world.

The University, which is preparing to observe its 200th anniversary, has earned that reputation because of its achievements in teaching, research and public service.

UNC is the largest, most comprehensive institution in North Carolina and a member of the select group of major universities that form the American Association of Universities. Its 14 colleges and schools provide instruction in more than 100 fields, offering 67 bachelor's, 88 master's, 61 doctoral and four professional degrees. Carolina has 22,000 students, more than 1,900 full-time faculty members and more than 5,400 staff members. Its living alumni total about 169,000, more than 60,000 of whom have graduated since 1973.

The quality of the education the University offers continues to receive national acclaim. U.S. News and World Report magazine ranked Carolina as one of the nation's top major universities in a 1987 survey of college presidents. UNC was ranked 11th among major research universities that are the leading granters of doctoral degrees and was one of only three public schools at the top of the list. The same survey ranked the Graduate School of Business Administration 17th in the nation. This marked the second time that UNC had appeared in the magazine's rankings—it came in ninth in 1985.

The same year, Richard Moll, author of "The Public Ivys: A Guide to America's Best Colleges and Universities," picked UNC as one of eight public institutions in the nation equivalent to a traditional Ivy League school. He also called Chapel Hill "the perfect college town."



The Old Well

Education writers at The New York Times also have praised UNC, including it on the list of 221 schools they call "The Best Buys in College Education." Carolina also made the Times' "1984-85 Guide To Selective Colleges," placing in the top 6 percent of the 275 colleges rated.

Those honors are just the latest indications that the University is gaining momentum as it continues to be one of the nation's most prestigious research institutions.

Carolina received a record $105.2 million in research funding during the 1986-87 fiscal year. The total, an 11 percent increase over the previous year, marked the first time the campus had topped the $100 million mark. In addition, funding from the National Institutes of Health (NIH) rose 10 percent in 1986—the largest increase for any school on the agency's top 20 list. In its best showing ever, UNC moved to 16 in the latest NIH list of grantees, making the campus the top-ranking institution in the Southeast. A 1987 NIH publication called the UNC performance "remarkable." These gains have come at a time when federal research funding has seen only modest increases. They also have enabled the University to make an even larger contribution to the economic growth of the Triangle area and the state.

A comprehensive evaluation published by the National Academy Press also ranked Carolina as one of the nation's best graduate and research institutions. The faculty was rated tops in the Southeast and one of the best in the nation. Other studies have ranked numerous schools and departments among the best, and the University's 3-million volume library system consistently is listed among the country's top research libraries.

University faculty members are considered leaders in American higher education. More than 60 of them have served as presidents of national organizations in recent years. UNC has 11 members of the National Academy of Sciences, 16 in the Academy's Institute of Medicine and 18 in the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. The Pulitzer Prize has been awarded to faculty members, alumni and to books published by the UNC Press, the oldest academic press in the South.

Students have made their mark. Five have been chosen as Rhodes Scholars in the 1980s alone, and 28 winners of that honor have come from the Chapel Hill campus since 1904. The Morehead Scholarship Program, patterned after the Rhodes and considered the best of its kind, annually brings about 65 outstanding freshmen to Chapel Hill.

The 729-acre campus, once called "The Noble Grove," is among the most beautiful in the nation. The 190 permanent buildings include the nation's two oldest state university buildings, Old East and Person Hall. Old East, still used as a dormitory, and Playmakers Theatre, an 1852 Greek-revival building, are registered as National Historic Landmarks. In the 1980s two of the largest public buildings in the state—the Walter Royal Davis Library and the Dean E. Smith Center—have opened. Other buildings recently completed include the Morehead Chemistry Teaching Laboratory, the Sitterson Computer Science Building and the Kenan Center of North Carolina. Construction continues on the Public Health and Environmental Sciences Center. When built, the Continuing Education and Conference Center also is expected to usher in a new era of nontraditional and continuing education.

In its third century, the University will continue to examine and champion the achievements and promise of public higher education in the United States. Carolina was the nation's first venture in this cause, and it will strive even harder to fulfill its duties to the state, the nation and the world as discoverer and transmitter of knowledge and understanding of ourselves and our universe.
